Raging Waters Crush Dykes—In U. S. Storms Leave Vast Destruction

By The Associated Press

Rampaging flood waters crushed all dykes but one protecting Winnipeg, Canada, Saturday and total evacuation of the city of 300,000 became a grim possibility.

Meanwhile, a vicious spring storm turned its destructive course into Canada after leaving a trail of multimillion dollar damage, and at least 11 persons dead and scores injured in the central United States.

A twelfth victim was drowned in New York, where an offshot of the midwest storm roared up the St. Lawrence river valley with winds up to 70 miles an hour, overturning boats and damaging docks.

Fresh floods, from melting of recent heavy snows, hit Crookston, Minn., and moved toward Grand Forks, N. D. Neither city has completely recovered from floods which hit them last month.

A. J. Taunton, deputy city engineer in Winnipeg, said "things have gotten out of hand" and that "the city has come to the end of flood defense fighting."

Presumably he meant no further efforts could be made to hold back the fast-rising waters of the Red river.

The steel framework of a school being erected in New Toronto, a Toronto suburb, collapsed.

Three persons were killed in both Iowa and Wisconsin, two in Illinois and one each in Nebraska, Texas, and Ohio.

Cooler temperatures followed in the Wake of the storm and locally heavy rain or snow fell in North Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and the Lake Superior region.

The winds, which reached up to 100 miles an hour in gusts in a few spots, pounded the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

The gales flattened buildings, uprooted trees, smashed windows and ripped out communications. Damage in Superior, Wis., alone was estimated at several million dollars.

The winds followed on the heels of Thursday night's tornadoes in Texas and Oklahoma which killed one person and injured several others.

Find Pensioner And Wife Shot

REYNOLDS, Neb., May 6—(AP)—An ailing World War One pensioner and his wife were shot to death today in what Jefferson County Attorney Robert B. Denney termed murder and suicide.

Between the shootings, the man stalked the neighborhood of his home armed with two guns. Two persons said they were fired on.

The county attorney said Ralph Flagle, 58, first shot his wife, Nera 57, and then took his own life

There will be no inquest, Denney said.

Approve Strike Settlement

DETROIT, May 6—(AP)—CIO United Auto Workers members gave over-whelming approval today to the strike settlement their union leaders reached with Chrysler Corp.

Completed votes in 27 UAW Chrysler locals across the country showed majorities ranging from 94 to 98 percent.

The corporation, informed of the ratification, speeded plans to get its plants in operation Monday Some 89,000 production workers will be recalled then.

Acheson off To Europe for Conferences

Calls on West To Rally Against Communists

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson set out for Europe today with a grim warning that the non-Communist world faces "increasingly crucial tests in the years immediately ahead."

He said that because of the threat of international Communism, the free nations of the world must speed up the mobilization of their "moral and material strength" and must do so "with utmost vigor."

That, he emphasized in a formal statement, will be his own major purpose in talking with British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Minister Schuman in Paris and London next week, and in meeting with the North Atlantic Treaty Council the week following.

What he hopes for and trusts to get out of the diplomatic conferences, he said, is "a new sense of community in the North Atlantic area."

He declared that he was encouraged in his approach to the meetings by the bi-partisan cooperation he has received from Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress alike.

Wishing Acheson "bon voyage and good luck," Mr. Truman told his chief diplomatic official:

"I know very well you are going to have successful meetings in Europe which will make a contribution to the peace of the world."

President of Nicaragua Dies

PHILADELPHIA, May 6—(AP)—The president of Nicaragua, Dr. Victor Roman Y Reyes, died at Hahnemann hospital here tonight. He was 77 years of age, and suffered from cancer.

President Roman came to Hahnemann hospital—where he had served his internship a half century ago—to undergo treatment for a cancerous ulcer of the stomach. He was operated on April 3.

Doctor Roman Y Reyes was elected president by a constituent assembly August 15, 1947. He had previously been foreign minister for a year. Earlier he had served as consulant San Francisco, minister of hygiene and senator.

Back Broken in Two Places In Fall

James E. McNeal, 1020 East Broadway, broke his back in two different places Saturday morning. While painting his front porch he slipped from a six-foot ladder and fell backwards, striking his back on a portion of concrete.

He was taken to the office of Dr. D. P. Dyer for X-Rays and then was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin's ambulance.

Mr. McNeal is a coach truckman at the Missouri Pacific shops in Sedalia.

C. C. Roundup To Enlarge Membership

A Chamber of Commerce membership drive, in the form of a "Spring Roundup" will be held Tuesday. O. W. Wiley, director of the membership division of the Chamber of Commerce, is in charge.

Approximately 75 businessmen and members of the Chamber of Commerce have agreed to participate in this round up and will call personally on several hundred prospects. The Chamber of Commerce is anxious to have all who are not members to join next Tuesday.

A Round Up day is planned to start with a "Saddle Up" breakfast at the "El Rancho" Bothwell, more commonly known at the Hotel Bothwell, to which all workers are invited. There they will receive the contracts they are to make during the day. During this breakfast "Constable" Noel Tweet will make a statement as to the laws of the range and O. W. Wiley, head of the "cattlemen's association," will outline the activities for the day. Also a skit on salesmanship has been prepared by "Hop-along" A. W. Haller and "Lone Ranger" Abe Silverman, to be given at this time.

To Dress "Fittin'"

All workers are encouraged to dress fittun' for the role as cowhands working on the range roundin' up all prospects for membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and some of them are even expected to arrive on horseback.

This class of 1950 will be the sixth graduated from Sacred Heart. Graduation day will be May 24.

Sitdown Delays TWA., Airliner

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, May 6—(AP)—A man who identified himself as H. V. Kaltenborn, the radio commentator, staged a "sit-down strike" today aboard a TWA airliner here, Joseph McStay, assistant TWA station master here, said.

The plane, Chicago-bound from New York, was delayed 11 minutes. The man boarded the plane in New York without a reservation, McStay said, promising to get off in case sufficient passengers with reservations at subsequent stops filled the ship to capacity.

This happened at Zanesville. The man, according to McStay, refused to leave, saying he had to be in Columbus, Ohio, by 7:30 p. m. EST. It was then about 5:30 p. m.

Finally, McStay and the pilot, Capt. B. McConaghy, offered to pay his taxicab fare to Columbus, about 60 miles away. The man would not leave the plane until cab driver Russell Albert came aboard and promised to get him to Columbus by 7:30 p. m.

H. V. Kaltenborn was registered at a Columbus hotel tonight, but could not be reached for comment. He is to address the Ohio State University's Radio Institute tomorrow.

Music in the Home Week, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, Chairman

This week, in addition to being Music Week, is "Music in the home Week" and Mrs. Abe Rosenthal of the Helen G. Steele Music club has been appointed as chairman of the Helen G. Steele club's "Music in the Home" program.

Music in the home has become more active and more predominate than it has been in the years past. Music in the home now has several mediums in which it can be enjoyed, the record player, the radio and more recently the television set.

Years ago the music of any great value could be had only by actual personal performances of artists and orchestras. Now the grandeur of a big symphony orchestra or of the extremely high priced artist can be heard right in the homes of the average music lovers.

Another Meaning

Music in the home has another meaning too. Often it is a family affair with the entire group participating in group sing or even instrumental performances. Small children are first conscious of "music in the home" when they are taught to sing little folk songs by their mother and father. When they leave and attend the elementary grades of school they have additional contact with music and bring it back to their home life. In later years music lessons become a part of the home life with the youngsters practicing vocal as well as instrumental instruction.

Hymnals Given Away

Religious music has its palce in the music in the home and this is exemplified by the response that was made when the Helen G. Steele Music club placed the hymnals they received from the late Mrs. Charles Bard estate in the corridor of the county court house. The hymnals were to be given to anyone who desired one. The supply was soon liquidated by the many people that called for them.

It is in the home where music is first learned and it is there where it is most readily enjoyed.

The Weather

Increasing cloudiness north, followed by showers in afternoon north and mostly cloudy with showers and scattered thunderstorms south Sunday, continuing Sunday night; cooler north Sunday; Monday partly cloudy and cooler with showers southeast and extreme south ending during day; highs Sunday 60s northeast to 80s southwest.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

To trust God, as seen in the face of His Son, and to believe that He loves us, that is faith, that is what we must do to be saved. And to love God, as seen in the face of His Son and to seek to testify our love by our whole life—that is Christian duty; that is all we have to do.—A. H. Boyd.

Round Table Discussion At Rotary Club

A round table discussion on "Conservation and Resources" will be conducted at the Rotary Club meeting Monday noon at the Bothwell hotel by Gen. John C McLaughlin, Kenneth U. Love, Rev. D. Warren Neal and George H. Routszong.

Dr. Roy M. Keller will be program chairman.

Negro Youths Admit Killing

Confessed Other Crimes to State Highway Patrol

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Two slender Negro youths, A.W.O.L. from the airforce admitted to the State Highway Patrol here today they killed a Stanley, N. M., rancher last Tuesday night.

Afterward, they confessed, they embarked on a running foray of crime, involving car theft, armed robbery and kidnaping, Capt. C. E. Potts of the patrol said.

Captain Potts said the pair signed statements admitting that one of them, Howard Taft Miller, 19, of Guilford, N. C., killed the rancher because Miller wanted to go home to see his mother.

The other young Negro was identified as Jesse Session, 20, of San Francisco. Both were privates at Kirtland air force base at Albuquerque, they said. Both waived extradition to New Mexico. Authorities in Santa Fe said by telephone they would start after the two immediately.

Their victim was identified by New Mexico authorities as George Davis, Jr., 29 years old and unmarried.

Miller said in his statement they hitched a ride with Davis from in front of a tavern near Cline's Corner, close to Albuquerque. Davis came from the Tavern, Miller and Session said, and he agreed to give them a lift.

Slain at Side of Road

About four miles down the road, their confessions agreed, Miller forced Davis to stop and at gunpoint took him off to one side, about 40 feet from the highway.

New Mexico authorities said Davis was beaten about the head and a single bullet had coursed upward from his upper shoulder, striking finally at the base of his brain.

Miller admitted in his confession he made Davis lie down before Miller shot him point blank with a 38-caliber pistol. He said he took $7 from Davis' body.

From that time on, their confession said, they either hitched rides or stole cars to continue their flight. They told the patrol they stole a car near El Reno, Okla., and at another point, somewhere in Oklahoma, robbed a filling station.

Oklahoma police reported at Enid, Okla., filling station was robbed early Friday and the attendant was forced to accompany the two Negro robbers for three hours.

The car they admitted stealing in Oklahoma broke down in St. Clair, county Mo., the two told the patrol.

Fled in Automobile

They stopped at a highway intersection near Weaubleau, Mo., and when a St. Louis driver paused at the junction, they said, they jumped in his car.

The St. Louisan, P. S. Larson (9540 Old Bonhome), drove the two to Eldon, Mo., 30 miles southwest of here. He got out last night on the pretex of getting some sandwiches. He called the highway patrol, but the two men fled in his automobile.

The patrol threw up roadblocks and last night officers warned residents in the area to look out for the fugitives. The high school youth, Pettrich, remembered the warning when he spotted the pair this morning. He called the patrol and officers captured Session and Miller without trouble. Larson's car was found where it had been abandoned.

Potts said the pair would be returned to New Mexico but kidnaping charges would also be filed in Missouri, "just in case they go free in New Mexico."

Potts said he had not had time to check with Oklahoma police on the robbery because "we had so much on them.

"But when we found out about the murder we decided to give New Mexico the first chance."

Friday evening State Trooper Pete Stohr, Wayne Allman and Glenn Means, who had been checking overweight trucks in the Sedalia vicinity were notified to go on the road blocks of the State Patrol in an endeavor to apprehend two Negroes, wanted for kidnapping and murder.

Allman and Means went to Highway 52 and 65 and worked east while Trooper Stohr hurriedly drove through Sedalia and began checking cars on Highway 50 and worked to Tipton where he was stationed at 50 and 5 highways.

Over $1,000,000 Worth of Cattle

KANSAS CITY, May 6—(AP)—More than $1,000,000 worth of dairy cattle from Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri went on parade today at the second American Royal dairy cattle show.

Entered in the show are 1,100 animals selected in regional shows earlier this spring in the three states.

Six breeds are represented—Guernsey, Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey, Milking Shorthorn and Brown Swiss.

The Guernseys will be judged first starting tomorrow. A. M. Paterson, secretary-manager of the show, said the Guernseys will be taken to Oklahoma City next Wednesday for the national Guernsey show and sale.

The eight-day rodeo held in connection with the dairy show opened today.

Verne Elliott, producer of the Rodeo, said at least two-thirds of the nearly 200 cowboys entered are either present or past champions in their specialities.

Senator Harry Darby, Kansas City, Kas., was elected president of the American Royal Association in a meeting of the board of directors today.

John Wilkin, Kansas City, was elected to the board to succeed Clarence Cox, who resigned.

Since Darby will be in Washington mos of the time, affairs of the Royal will be carried on by ar executive committee.

Fire Renewed By McCarthy

Senator Myers Defends Integrity Of Department

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Senator McCarthy tonight accused the Truman administration of "deceit and dishonesty" in dealing with his charges of communists in government. McCarthy was accused in turn of failing to offer "any evidence whatsoever" about wholesale disloyalty.

McCarthy, speaking at Chicago, assailed President Truman's action in making available to the investigators state department loyalty files on 81 cases cited by the Wisconsin Republican. He said these files were inadequate and "phony."

But Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, deputy Democratic leader in the senate, said in a speech at Honesdale, Pa., that McCarthy had failed to come through with anything but "new charges" when investigators tried to pin down his allegations about state department employes.

Myers, who did not mention McCarthy by name, declared that the government's employes "have been given a clean bill of health after thorough investigation" during the government's four-year loyalty program which works "hand in glove" with the FBI.

Would Retain Faith

"We can't afford," Myers said, "to lose our faith in the integrity of the Department of State at this critical point in world affairs."

McCarthy bitterly attacked Secretary of State Acheson again, saying "the days of dilettante diplomacy are running out on Mr. Acheson and his fancy comrades of the Kremlin."

As the debate continued and promised to echo in the coming congressional election campaign, investigators of alleged communism were busy at the capitol.

Contempt citations for Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field were laid before senate communist investigators today with a recommendation that they take action against the pair.

The group will consider Monday whether to vote to cite the two men who defied a senate Foreign Relations subcommittee by refusing to answer a number of questions.

Meanwhile, on the house side, the attorney for William W. Remington turned his fire on Chairman Woods (D-Ga) of the Unamerican Activities committee.

The lawyer, Joseph L. Rauh, charged that Wood has pre-judged the new loyalty investigation of Remington, young commerce department official who has denied testimony that he was a communist.

As Rauh met reporters in a news conference, the committee was hearing from Elizabeth T. Bentley, avowed ex-courier for Russian spies, who first leveled the communism charge at Remington. She appeared today behind closed doors.

Turn Heat Against Gambling

Directed On Big Time Set-Ups In Cities — Congress Joins In Probe

By Don Whitehead

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The "heat is on" big-time gambling.

City and state officials have joined forces with the federal government in a move against the nation's tremendous bookmaking and organized gambling business.

It's a hidden, fast flowing pipeline pumping money out of the American purse. Unofficial estimates are that illegal betting runs into many billions each year. The profits are fantastic.

And one official said: "Where there is big money—there is murder."

City and state officials say frankly the underworld has grown too powerful to be controlled on a local level. They insist it can be broken only with the help of Congress through tough new laws.

Harken To Appeals

Spurred by these appeals:

(1) The Senate has approved a special investigation of crime rackets and gambling syndicates—and what should be done to control them. This inquiry will start in a few weeks.

(2) A Senate Commerce subcommittee is studying legislation designed to cripple the bookies by denying them gambling information on sporting events.

(3) The House is considering a bill passed by the Senate to ban the shipment of slot machines into states where they are illegal.

In all these efforts, Congress is trying to draw a line between legal and illegal gambling. That's not easy—because some form of gambling is legal in many states.

It's no federal offense to gamble. And there are many who believe gambling never can be controlled by passing a law—no more than prohibition stopped people from drinking.

But city, state and federal officials got together last February in the attorney general's conference on law enforcement.

Move For Curb

Officials agreed that if bookmaking could be crippled—then the heart would be cut out of big time gambling operations.

And so a bill was drawn which in broad terms would ban the movement of "gambling information" across state lines.

The intent primarily was to strike a blow at the bookies by denying them fast "flash" news on horse race results. This would be done in two ways: (1) By forcing a delay in transmission of race results: and (2) By making it a federal offense to transmit across state lines information used for gambling purposes.

The responsibility for enforcement would lie with the federal communications commission and also with those sending the news. Attorney General McGrath told Senators he did not want the FBI put in the position of policing the law.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee has been studying the controversial bills—getting shades of opinion all the way from law enforcement officials to the big-time gamblers themselves.

Can bookmaking be crippled seriously by a federal law cutting off fast horse racing information?

The senators called in gray-haired "betting commissioner" James J. Carroll who told the lawmakers he was a "price-maker" who would accept bets on "any event in the world"—if had the information needed to quote odds.

"Betting would not be limited by the absence of rapid race news information," Carroll said. "I was

Fatal Ending to A Domino Game

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 6—(AP)—A domino game between two aged relatives ended today when the younger man dropped to the floor, dead with a bullet hole in his left eye.

Frank Plamore, 76 year old night watchman here, is jailed for investigation in the death of his nephew, Wesley Enlow Thompson, 66, of Seagraves, Tex. No charges have been filed.

"I told him to stop but he kept coming at me with a knife," Palmore told police. "I shot once to warn him and once to stop him."

Retired Railroad Man Has Many Hobbies He Will Enjoy

Frank H. "Granny" Hausner, sheet metal worker, has retired from service at the Missouri Pacific shops. Mr. Hausner began his railroad career with the Missouri Pacific in 1900 working at Metz, Missouri, on the section, where he worked for about six months when he quit and went to Kansas City, Kansas, where he entered the Kansas City Theological Seminary, better known as Heinz University, where he studied for the ministry for six years. During this period he worked part time for the Kansas City Gas Co., and also met Fannie Jane Self whom he married in Kansas City, Kansas, on June 6, 1901. One daughter, Irma, was born and now lives in Kansas City.

In 1916 Mr. and Mrs. Hausner moved to Sedalia where he was employed as a laborer with the Missouri Pacific, later being transferred to the pipe shop. On November 6, 1922, he went to work as a sheet metal worker and has been employed in that capacity until his retirement, March 20, 1950.

Well Known Employe

Mr. Hausner who was one of the Missouri Pacific's best known employes aside from being a mechanic of the highest type, gained renown for his extensive hobbies which he cultivated. He was one of the best known collectors of cacti in the United States, having more than 200 species growing in his yard and in his basement. One of the most famous of this collection was a cactus which was found growing around the wall of the renowned roadside spring which is in Galilee and still is in existence. This spring was the one in which Christ drew the water which he turned to wine.

Also a collector of rare rocks, Mr. Hausner, has a collection of rocks from all over the world, some of which he collected and others which were given to him by friends. Some of the most famous are a stone from the log cabin of Lincoln's birthplace, and a gizzard rock from a dinosaur.

He also has a rock from the top of Mount Vesuvius in Italy as well as other rocks from foreign countries.

Grows Flowers

His most recent hobby is that of growing flowers, Mr. Hausner, grows Iris, which he has collected for over 30 years and at the present time has about 70 varieties. He also grows everblooming gladioli, and his specialty is roses. This year he has all of the new 1950 roses and two everblooming climber roses, the K. A. Victoria, which is a white rose and the New Dawn, a white rose. These bloom until freezing weather. Every year he sells off his present crop of roses and starts the following year with the latest variety.

Aside from taking care of his flowers, Mr. Hausner, is an expert with the needle, making embroidery work and during the bad weather, is busy crocheting window curtains, several of which have been completed and are in use at his home. Mrs. Hausner says that he is also an expert cook, cans, pickles, preserves, and can do just about anything that can be done in the cooking line.

In speaking of his leaving the service, Mr. Hausner, commented on the fine association of his many friends, Miss Mary Smasel, shop nurse, employes, foreman and officials of the Missouri Pacific which have helped him make his railroad career a very pleasant and happy one.

Mr. Hausner has always been a loyal Booster, has never sustained a serious accident and for many years was active in union work, holding the office of corresponding secretary for about seven years.

Mr. and Mrs. Hausner will continue to make their home at 1109 East Sixteenth street, in Sedalia.

British Think Americans Are Hard Workers

LONDON, May 6 — (AP) — American output is high because American workers don't know how to lay down on the job, a group of British building industry leaders said today. They added that the American housewife's desire for better homes boosted the incentive to work.

The British management and labor union leaders made this report after a six-week tour of the United States to study building techniques under a joint Anglo-American plan for promoting the free exchange of industrial and technical information.

"The American has never acquired the habit of doing less than he is capable of doing," the group reported, adding that "the influence of his wife and her desire for a well-equipped home should not be underestimated."

They also cited "the ready supply of materials" as another reason the ouput of American builders is about 50 per cent greater than that of British builders.

Census Enumerator Also Baby Sitter

DENVER, May 6—(AP)—Census enumerator Bertha Berger found a young father baby-sitting for his infant son Thursday.

The baby was crying and the flustered father told her he was too upset to answer questions.

Mrs. Berger, the mother of four school-age children, pitched in. She changed the baby's diapers and prepared formula. With the baby quiet, the father calmly answered her questions.

"Where's the baby's mother?" she asked.

Paid On Wolf Scalps

Catholic Mother Of The Year

Mrs. Anna R. Bauer (above), 81-year-old mother of 14 children, has been chosen the "most outstanding Catholic mother of 1950." She is shown at her Manchester, Mich., home. Of her 14 children, four of her sons are lay brothers or priests. Four daughters are nuns. (AP Wirephoto)

Talk on Cancer At Club Meet

The Bothwell Homemakers club held its regular meeting on May 3, at the home of Mrs. Ray Ream, route 4, Sedalia.

The meeting was opened with all singing: "Sing and Smile and Pray."

Roll call was answered with my favorite flower by 19 members and five visitors. The guests were Mrs. Clarence Reed, Mrs. H. S. Richey, Miss Irene Richey, Mrs. Mae Ream and Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Charles Bybee gave a talk on cancer.

A talk on floor finishing was given by Mrs. Nick Knutz, Sr., and Mrs. Earl Dirck on clothing.

The dinner was served at noon with Mrs. Ray Ream hostess and Mrs. Raus Sprinkles assisting hostess.

Execution Of Four French Traitors

PARIS, May 6—(AP)—A firing squad executed four French traitors Friday. One of them, jauntily wearing a rose in his lapel, asked the riflemen not to shoot him in the head because he was bequeathing his eyes to a Paris hospital.

He was Maurice Bay and the firing squad obeyed his request. A French physician removed the eyes and said they would be used in an operation on a blind man now in the hospital.

The others executed were Henri Nicolas, Maurice Sion and Rene Lefevre, all condemned for being members of an infamous "French Gastapo" which arrested and tortured Frenchmen for the German during the Nazi occupation of Paris.

Pelt German Soccer Players With Tomatoes

NEW YORK, May 6—(AP)—Sixteen German soccer players were pelted with tomatoes and apples by a small group of youths Friday as the visiting athletes posed for pictures on the steps of city hall.

ADVANCE-DESIGN TRUCKS

See these great new truck buys in our showrooms today!

PAYLOAD LEADERS
Cost less to operate per ton per mile!

Right from the start, you can figure on more payloads because Chevrolet trucks take less time on the job . . . cost less to keep up. They reduce total trip time with extra high pulling power over a wide range of usable road speeds. Advance-Design construction saves you money on repairs. It all boils down to this: You can depend on Chevrolet trucks to deliver the goods at low cost per ton per mile. Stop in and see these new P-L trucks now on display.

Far ahead with all these PLus features

Performance Leaders

Most Powerful Chevrolet Trucks Ever Built!
New Chevrolet trucks have stepped-up power and performance. Improved Thrift-Master Valve-in-Head engine features greater horsepower and finer performance with new Power-Jet carburetion. Brand-new Load-Master 105-h.p. Valve-in-Head engine provides greater pulling power and reduces total trip time in heavy hauling.

Popularity Leaders

Preferred By Far Over All Other Trucks!
Official records show that Chevrolet trucks are America's fastest selling trucks! For the last 12-month period, they have outsold the next two makes combined! And that's convincing proof of the owner satisfaction they have earned through the years—proof that Chevrolet is the nation's most wanted truck.

Price Leaders

First For All-Around Savings!
No matter how you look at it, you're money ahead with Chevrolet trucks. Chevrolet's rock-bottom initial cost—outstandingly low cost of operation and upkeep—and high trade-in value, all add up to the lowest price for you. Yes, from start to finish, Chevrolet trucks are the price leaders!

Most Beautiful Girl in Movies Weds Heir to Hotel Fortune

By Gene Handsaker

HOLLYWOOD, May 6—(AP)—Elizabeth Taylor, generally considered the most beautiful girl in the movies, wed Conrad Nicholson (Nick) Hilton, Jr., an heir to one of the world's biggest hotel fortunes, at 5 p. m. (PDT) today.

It's Hollywood's wedding of the year.

Her wedding gown, which probably will set the style for June brides the country over, is described by its designer as simple, with a high neckline, narrow waist, and billows below. The guest list numbers 600, but at least 10 times that many may tie up traffic outside.

The brunette beauty with the heart-shaped face, flawless features and violet-blue eyes, is 18.

First Marriage For Both

It's the first marriage both for Elizabeth and for her 23-year-old hubby, dark-haired bridegroom. His father's 13 hotels, include the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City and the world's largest, the 3,000 room Stevens in Chicago, have been estimated to be worth $125,000,000.

The ceremony was n the Catholic church of the Good Shepherd, a Gothic structure in Beverly Hills. Its pastor, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Patrick J. Concannon, officiated. Elizabeth although suffering from a cold went through a rehearsal for the ceremony.

Fifteen wardrobe - department seamstresses at her studio, M-G-M, have worked intermittently for two months on her trousseau. It was fashioned by Studio Designer Helen Rose, who has costumed Elizabeth for four pictures, including two movie weddings.

Simple Wedding Dress

Miss Rose made two preliminary sketches of wedding dresses for the real-life ceremony. Elizabeth chose the simpler. The dress, of white, pure-silk satin, required 25 yards of material. It's "very bouffant," Miss Rose says, meaning it stands out around the hips.

The bodice is tightly fitted around Elizabeth's 21½-inch waist. The hem is bordered with seed pearls and satin-lined bugle beads. Her crownlike halo will be trimmed with seed pearls. The bridal veil, several yards long, is of silk illusionnet. The gown will be worn over a full organdie petticoat made of small ruffles. Her bouquet will be of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The "something old" was a lace handkerchief that her father gave to her mother on their wedding day. Something new, Elizabeth reasons was her entire bridal outfit. Borrowed was an undisclosed something from her maid of honor and long-time neighbor and friend, Ann Westmore, daughter of make-up man Wally Westmore. Her "something blue" was a garter given her by another girl—Elizabeth doesn't remember who—about five years ago.

Granted A Divorce

A divorce was granted in circuit court Friday to Almeda Stinnett from Oliver Stinnett with the restoration of her name Almeda Clements. Attorney for the plaintiff was G. W. Anson.

Asks Damages Of $21,300 In Suit

A damage suit, asking $21,300 was filed in the circuit clerk's office Friday afternoon by Ray A. Oaks of Kansas City vs Glen Chamberlin of Houstonia. Lawyers for the plaintiff are Harvey Roney of Kansas City and Fred Wesner.

Oaks alleges he received painful and multiple injuries in an auto collision at the intersection of highways 40 and the Blue Ridge cut-off in Jackson county on August 15, 1949. The amount of damages asked for his personal injuries is $20,000 dollars. An additional $1,300 was asserted as the amount of damage to the 1949 Ford sedan he was driving at that time.

Smelser 4-H Club Meeting

On Aprily 21, the Smelser 4-H club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Schroder for its monthly meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Connie Brandhorst. Roll call was answered by telling the color of a bird seen recently.

In the business meeting it was decided that a softball club be formed. Mrs. T. Thomason read several letters of interest and gave a report on the traits of the club.

After the meeting was adjourned, the members sang a few songs and refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Schroeder. Two visitors, Eleanor Leftwich and Albert Upton attended the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Olson on May 19.

Three To Jail In Gambling Activities

KANSAS CITY, May 5—(AP)—Three men were sentenced to one year in the city jail and ten others fined Friday for participation in gambling activitis.

Receiving the jail sentences were Sam Martino, 42; Pete L. Kassell, 37, and James D. Allis, 59, all of Kansas City. Judge James P. Hawkins of Buffalo, Mo., assisting with the docket here, assessed the penalties. The men earlier had been fined in municipal court following a raid on a storeroom and had appealed their cases.

Beautiful in Any Dress

Whether her own wedding dress or the one used by Elizabeth Taylor above in the movie "Father of the Bride," she's a very beautiful girl. The above dress is reported to be similar to the one which Miss Taylor wor Saturday when she wed Nick Hilton, heir to the Hilton hotel chain. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Cat Uses Cheese Smear For Mice

BRAZIL, Ind., May 6—(AP)—An now we have a self-baiting mousetrap.

The trap is a cat named Jiggs, who likes cheese about as well as mice do.

Jiggs' owners, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, declare this is the way he operates:

When eating cheese, he saves the last scraps to smear his face. The face is poised close to a mouse-hole. Result—a cheesy aroma in the mouse-hole.

It doesn't take long, the Lewises said, for nature and Jiggs to do the rest.

Demonstrate School Work

The Scott school closed April 21, with a basket dinner at the noon hour followed by a program.

The Junior American Citizens club met in regular order with one pledge to the flag, followed by the national anthem, the American creed, the club prayer and motto.

Jean Jeffries, president, presented the teacher, Mrs. W. P. Tucker, who had charge of the program.

Demonstrations of school work were given by Roy Jeffries and Wally Jeffries demonstrated manuscript writing as used in spelling. Joyce Leigh Evans illustrated her talk on Holland with a poster she had made; Robert Streeter, Gladys Jeffries and Jean Jeffries demonstrated their knowledge of the new Missouri Constitution by taking an oral, eighty question quiz.

Supt. C. F. Scotten was the speaker and at the close he presented the eighth grade diploma to Robert Streeter, who had graduated with the group in Sedalia, April 13, at the Epworth Methodist church.

The P.T.A. entertained the community at a wiener roast the week before the closing of school.

Mrs. Tucker has been selected as teacher again for next year.

Basket Dinner at Prairie Hill School

The Prairie Hill school held its last day of school on Thursday, April 20, at which time a basket dinner was served at the noon hour to parents and friends.

After dinner a program was presented by the school.

Called To A Grass And Trash Fire

The fire companies were called to 215 East Main street at 4:32 o'clock Friday afternoon where burning grass and trash were quickly squelched with one pump bucket. The building is owned by Harry Brougher and is occupied by the Kansas City Star's local paper office. There was no damage.

W. R. Courtney Made Treasurer

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—Robert E. Allen of Perry, Mo., was elected president of the Missouri Bankers Association at the closing session of the annual convention today. He succeeds Leslie K. Curry of St. Louis.

George U. Richmond of St. Joseph was named vice president and W. R. Courtney of Mexico treasurer.

The convention rejected a proposal of the Associate Bankers of St. Louis for a new small loan legislation. The resolution would have put the M. B. A. on record as favoring a maximum interest rate of 24 per cent on installment loans of $200 and less, gradually decreasing rates not exceeding 16 per cent on loans between $200 and $1000, and still lower rates averaging not more than 12 per cent on loans of $1000 to $2000.

Before going to Mexico W. R. Courtney was with the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company. Allen is a son-in-law of Mrs. John L. Sullivan, 418 East Seventh street. Mrs. Allen is the former Miss Catherine Sullivan.

Laugh About Divorce Rumor

PARIS, May 6—(AP)—Rumors of impending divorce proceedings between actress Rita Hayworth and Prince Aly Khan were dismissed as ridiculous today by both friends and legal advisors of the couple.

Aly's lawyer, Charles Denizot, just laughed when told about the report published in a Rome newspaper.

"There were such reports a year ago," he said, "just after they were married."

At Cannes, where the couple lives, Mrs. George Catroux, wife of General Georges Catroux, former French ambassador to Moscow, and an intimate friend of Rita and Aly, flatly denied the reports.

"They are an extremely close couple," said Mrs. Catroux, who is a municipal councillor for the city of Cannes. Her husband was one of the witnesses at the wedding, a year ago.

VIRGINIA CITY, Mont., May 7—(AP)—Justice isn't blind any more in this one time rip-roaring mining camp, but the justice of the peace is.

He is "Blind Bob" Gohn, who also operates a tavern and general store here and believes he is the only sightless bartender in the west.

"I never heard of any others," he said, deftly mixing a highball. "I lost my eyes here in the mines back in 1920. I got blasted."

"Blind Bob," a pleasant voiced man of 50, is full of the lore of Montana's most famous gold mining camp.

"They took 300 to 500 million dollars out of Alder gulch here nobody knows just how much," he said. "And there's still plenty of gold here." Lately however, the gulch probably hasn't produced as much gold as the pockets of visiting tourists.

Quietly Rotting

Virginia City, once boisterous with 10,000 to 20,000 miners, was quietly rotting into just another ghost town of a fabulous past until a wealthy rancher, Charles Bovey, decided to restore its vanished flavor.

Bovey has been gradually rebuilding the town into a showcase of the old west, combining the area for authentic historical relics.

"Last year we had about 100,000 tourists," said blind Bob.

He is the grandson of George Gohn, who came here a few days after gold was first discovered in 1863. His pioneer grandfather was a member of the original committee of vigilantes who brought law and order into Montana territory at the end of a rope.

Some fourteen murdering road agents who were hanged by the vigilantes back in 1864 still lie on nearby Cemetery hill.

"It's much quieter around here now," said blind Bob. "About all I have to deal with as justice of the peace are fish and game violations and highway traffic cases."

Knows Citizens Well

There are only about 315 permanent residents left and Bob can tell them all by their voices and many by the sound of their footsteps.

"Most of them still live by mining," he said. "The hills are full of mines, but only two are working now. But if they ever find the Mother Lode, you'll see this town come to life again."

That is the goal still of many oldtime miners here—the Mother Lode—a legendary deep lying parent rift of metal they feel may spill out more wealth than Virginia City ever knew in its heyday as "the richest place on earth."

Meanwhile, the tourists are helping to give the town an Indian summer prosperity.

Knows His Stock

Blind Bob knows by memory the exact location of the hundreds of items he stocks in his tavern store, a building that once housed Montana's territorial government. He says that lack of eyesight doesn't hamper him much behind the bar

"My only worry is an occasional stranger who hands me a one dollar bill and tells me it's a five," he said. "And of course the jukebox gives me trouble.

"You see, I mix highballs by the sound of the gurgles. When the jukebox is going, it's hard to hear the gurgles. That's why I hate the jukebox," blind Bob grinned. "It gets me so mixed up I can't see what I'm doing."

Answer Telephone Promptly Be Courteous When Talking

(Furnished By Southwestern Bell Telephone Company)

Usualy when a person comes to call on us we extend to him the hospitality of our homes. We make it a point to show him that he is welcome and we strive to be pleasant. We should be just as pleasant when he comes to our telephone door. Here we have only the courtesy of an immediate answer and the tone of our voice to show him that he is welcome.

Let us repeat—for none of them is new—a few suggestions that will help, with mention of a few of the more glaring common failures.

When placing a local call some people tell their secretary to "Get Mr. Smith;" and then they either just wait or start doing something else. They have hardly had time to do anything before the telephone rings and Mr. Smith is on the line. The few seconds saved for the party originating the call have availed him nothing. Mr. Smith, the man who is granting the audience, has been kept waiting and an operator or secretary has been needlessly tied up on the call. Certainly this is not courteous to Mr. Smith, nor is it an efficient way of doing business.

Loses Time

This happens more often on out-of-town calls, and at the present rate of speed on these calls is hardly more justifiable than on local service. Again you have the discourtesy of making the person with whom you desire an audience await your pleasure, the fact of inefficiency in tying up one or more persons needlessly, and, if the call is passed station-to-station, a greater charge on the call since the conversation in this case is timed from the answer of the called station.

It is important in filing out-of-town calls that we first give the operator the called place and then the called number. In many instances this will enable the operator getting the name of the called place to immediately pick up a circuit to the place called and start working on the call. While waiting for the distant operator to answer she records the details and while waiting for the called station to answer she gets the calling number. This practice saves time on the call and has the parties talking that much sooner.

Too, it's faster for a customer to give the long distance operator the number of a distant party with whom he wants to talk. Passing the call by number will save time, since the operator will have to go to information for the number if you don't give it to her.

Be Courteous

Courtesy and efficiency are closely allied even on the simplest of telephone calls. In intercommunicating systems as well as on all other calls one should be careful to use those practices which have been proved to be best.

There will be occasions when it will be necessary for someone else to answer your telephone or for you to answer another's line. In answering another's line you should be careful to announce whose line it is and your name. This assures the calling party that he has the right line, but that he has someone other than the party whom he called. He can immediately start his conversation in the light of this new development. If it is necessary to refer to this call at a later time he has something definite with which to identify it. He has talked with you and he remembers your name.

Aside from being the courteous way of answering another's line, it is the only efficient way of doing it. Neither the calling party nor you are bothered with needless preliminaries, and you are both free to go about your work with the least delay. Such a contact gives satisfaction.

There may be occasions when some people have clerks or secretaries answer their telephones for them. When the calling party asks for the party called he is greeted with, "Who is calling please?" Many people consider this an affront. It means to them that if they haven't the password they won't get in. For the most part, nearly everyone can and should answer his calls when he is in the office.

Telephone courtesy is as important as the common courtesy which we expect in our face to face meetings. We all use the telephone to such an extent today that we can be judged in some measure by the way we meet the people with whom we talk on the wires. We want to make sure that neither our courtesy nor our efficiency are impugned by our telephone personalities.

Some Do's and Don'ts

When answering another's line, say so, and announce yourself. It saves time and misunderstanding.

Give out-of-town calls by number. It makes service faster.

Refer to the telephone directory before calling Information for local numbers you don't know.

Pass your own toll calls. The average time for putting a call through is now down to a minute and a half, and 95 out of every 100 are being completed while the calling party holds the line.

Don't make the party you are calling wait for you. You are seeking the audience.

Don't ask, "Who's calling, please?" when answering another's line.

Don't answer with "Hello." Be courteous to your caller. Tell him who you are.

Answer your telephone ring promptly. It is courteous to do so.

Cancer Crusade Goal Has Now Passed Fifty Per Cent

The Cancer Crusade sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club has passed another mile-stone, in that contributions now reach just past the 50 per cent mark. The Detection Center at the Bothwell hospital for the use of all Pettis county citizens is the chief project of the Pettis County Cancer committee and is one of five in the state of Missouri.

Several projects are under way and everyone is urged to "Give to Attack Cancer"; "Tag Day" was held yesterday with Girl Scouts selling tags on the principal streets. North Sedalia was canvassed under the leadership of Miss Jane Cox, secretary of Hubbard school, who with 12 eighth grade girls contacted every home in that area, with the collection point being the Clyde Robinson store on North Osage.

Workers at Theaters

The Cancer Crusade workers from the B. P. W. club are now working at the three theaters in Sedalia, with one collection under Mrs. Lillie Thomas being taken at the Drive-In theater. The cooperation of the theater managers, Joe Ruddick and J. T. Ghosen on this civic service project is much appreciated.

The benefit dance given by the Loyal Order of Moose in the Moose hall, Saturday night, was a civic service in the fight against cancer which is much appreciated. Mrs. Bertha Rose Welch was in charge of a group of B. P. W workers who worked with the members of the Moose lodge in promoting this project.

Just Imagine It's Yours!

You say you have never driven a Cadillac?

Well, it's a lovely day—and there are beautiful roads to travel down and interesting places to visit—and a little dreaming never hurt a soul . . . so just slide over behind the wheel. It's yours!

First, you'll just want to sit for awhile, with your hand on the slender, obedient wheel—and get a close-up view of the ingrained goodness that makes this car so unmistakably . . . the Standard of the World.

And then you turn the key, touch the soft-throated engine into action—and you're away.

The steering wheel all but reads your mind! The brakes are as soft as velvet, and immediate in their response! The road has become a boulevard—and the turns and lights seem so very close together!

And the soft, easy quietness of it all! You just sit and relax—in complete contentment—and the miles go by—and the miles go by . . . "Oh, how I wish this car were mine!"

Well, it's time, we think, to stop dreaming—and lend an ear to this: the lowest-priced Cadillac costs less to buy than certain models of numerous other makes of cars; it is so enduring that it will give a lifetime of service; and it is so economical that it actually approaches the low-priced popular cars in gasoline mileage.

Yes, it's time to go into action—and to make this car your own!

All the service does, he said, is to "relieve the anxiety" of those who bet by giving them the outcome of the contest in a hurry.

"The way to stop bookmaking," Carroll said, "is to legalize betting."

And then the senators heard from Frank Erickson of New York who admitted he made a net profit of $100,000-a-year in the betting business.

Erickson — whose headquarters recently was raided in New York —testified he had been in the bookmaking business 30 years.

"I never had no protection from police," he insisted.

Call For Information

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The Washington Post said tonight the Justice department has directed United States attorneys all over the country to collect information on racketeers, gamblers and other underworld figures.

In a copyrighted story, the Post said that the department sent to the 93 federal prosecutors a list of some 150 names with orders to send all information available about them to Washington by next Wednesday.

A Justice department spokesman said that such a letter had gone out two weeks or more ago. He described it as a mimegraphed "form letter" and said he did not know that it had any particular significance.

Aspirant for Congress Visitor

Wilbert C. Bothwell, 39 year old, Springfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sxith District, visited in Sedalia, Saturday afternoon, getting acquainted, on his way through from St. Louis to Springfield.

Mr. Bothwell is married and the father of two sons, and has been a professor of economics at Drury College since 1946, and is director of adult education at Drury. Mrs. Bothwell is secretary of the Greene County Women's Republican club.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served four and a half years in the U. S. Army Air Force. During the war, he taught bombing and served as intelligence officer in the South Pacific with the Eighteenth Fighter Group of the Thirteenth Air Force.

Mr. Bothwell taught six years at Washington University in St. Governmental Research Institute. Louis, and while there, was with the Governmental Reserach Institute. In St. Louis, he directed investigation of the jury system prior to the war, and also participated in the St. Louis police survey. He served as secretary of the first state wide committee for the division of constitution of Missouri.

The Republican candidate said he would start a vigorous campaign June 1. Other Republican candidates for Congressman from this district on the Republican ticket are: Harvey Dow of Sedalia; O. K. Armstrong of Springfield and George Stevens of Springfield.

Democratic candidates filing for the office are George H. Christopher, Amoret, Robert W. Moore, Springfield and Thomas H. Nixon of Springfield.

Gives Ruling on Payroll Data

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The National Labor Relations board ruled unanimously today that an employer must give a union full payroll data when the union asks the information for collective bargaining.

The board held that a union is entitled to the names, positions and wage rates of employes—both on a current basis and for at least a year past—in order to have a full picture of the wage situation.

This was the first time the NLRB ordered general wage rates made available to unions. In a series of recent decisions it has decided that data on individual, or merit pay raises, also must be given a union on request as a basis for determining union wage demands in bargaining.

The ruling said such payroll data is required to be given the union for all employes in the bargaining unit represented by the Inion. NLRB officials said this means that payroll data must be submitted for any non-union employes within the unit, as well as employes who are union members.

Challenge Given To President

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Republicans hurled ten broadside charges at the Truman administration today and challenged the President to answer them on his 16-state campaign tour which he begins tomorrow.

GOP leaders already have laid plans to make a series of replies to the Truman speeches. They got in the first word with a statement accusing him of resisting attempts to "drive Communist from his administration."

The statement also laid the loss of China at the administration's door—"a major defeat in the cold war."

Its issuance underlined a new GOP strategy of trying to nullify the Truman "give 'em hell" type of campaign which upset Republican calculations in 1948.

The statement came from national chairman Guy George Gabrielson; Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, chairman of the Senate campaign committee, and Rep Leonard W. Hall of New York, chairman of the House campaign committee.

It derided the Presidents official opening of the national congressional campaign as a "quarter million dollar cross-country junket" by "our commuting President."

Henry H. King Dies at Liberty

LIBERTY, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Henry H. King, 93, an early day Missouri school teacher died tonight. He was the father of Frank H. King, Associated Press general executive of Dallas, Tex.

King died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Donald Pharis, three miles east of Liberty. He had been ill only a few weeks.

Born in Clay county, Mo., June 19, 1856, King was a school teacher until he retired about 30 years ago. At one time he served as superintendent of schools at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

He also wrote extensively on the history of Clay county.

Survivors in addition to the daughter and son include two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in Liberty. Burial will be at Excelsior Springs.

Drove Car Off Ferry Into Lake

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., May 6—(AP)—A man believed to have been Jack Budd, about 40, Fayetteville, Ark., businessman, drove his automobile into the middle of Norfork Lake late last night.

Baxter county Sheriff Ernie Gentry said tonight he had little doubt but that the man was Budd.

Burt Lance, attendant on the state-operated ferry on highway 62, said the driver suddenly started his motor and drove off the ferry when it was about halfway across the lake.

Gentry said that Budd had been staying at a tourist court at Mountain home. He had business interests here as well as at Fayetteville. He visited with some Fayetteville men at a camp on the lake last night and made an appointment to meet them today, Gentry said. He has not been seen since. Nor has his new Packard sedan.

Henry Copeland, who lives on the opposite side of the lake from Mountain Home, said his automobile was parked immediately behind the car—a Packard sedan—which was driven into the lake. He said the driver raised the windows of the automobile before starting the motor and driving off the frryboat.

Believed Drowned Trying to Save Son

ELDON, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Merrill Snell, 35, of Jefferson City, apparently drowned in the Lake of the Ozarks today, the state highway patrol reported, in an effort to save his four-year-old son, Mark.

The patrol said Snell's body had not been recovered late tonight from about 100 feet of water in a cove on the north side of the lake, a few miles above Bagnell dam.

A relative of Snell's in Jefferson City said apparently Snell's small son fell out of their outboard-powered boat as they were taking a spin late today. Without cutting off the motor, Snell jumped in to try to save the boy. Relatives suggested apparently the man was struck by the boat and knocked unconscious.

The lake cabin owners across the cove, Walter Deem of Chesterfield, Mo., and William Cooper of Rocky Mount, Mo., saw the boat circling aimlessly and saw also the boy's body afloat nearby.

They rescued the youngster and with artificial respiration revived him.

Efforts to recover the father's body are continuing.

Texas Republican Go to Congress

AMARILLO, Tex., May 6—(AP)—Panhandle voters today elected Texas' first Republican congressman in 24 years—Ben H. Guill of Pampa.

Returns from all of the 28 counties in the 18th congressional district, with seven complete, gave Guill nearly 2,000 votes more than his nearest opponent, a woman who left a government job in Washington to run.

Guill had 8,118 votes to 6,220 votes for Mrs. Altavene Clark of Amarillo, the only woman among the 10 Democrats who opposed the Pampa businessman.

J. Blake Timmons, Texas legislator from Amarillo, had 5,674 votes. Walter Rogers, Pampa lawyer, was fourth with 4,966.

More than 90 per cent of the total vote was in. This clearly gave Guill victory in the "sudden death" special election in which no majority was needed.

He already had issued a victory statement at a celebration with friends in Pampa.

Fined For Hunting Without A Permit

Hunting wild life without a permit resulted in two women being fined by Acting Magistrate Jack C. McCloskey, $1.00 each and costs of the cases.

Both women, Mrs. Agnes Frank, and Leona Cochran pleaded guilty. Rose Burns, also charged with not having a permit, is to be given a hearing on May 13.

Westminster Loses In Baseball Game

FULTON, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Westminster college athletic teams suffered a double defeat here today, losing to Quincy college of Quincy Ill., 5-4, in a 10-inning baseball battle and to Washington university 19½ to 7½ in golf.

Washington's Jim Matteson had a 35-34—69 for medalist honors in the golf competition.

Doubleheader Won by Missouri Over K-State

MANHATTAN, Kas., May 6—(AP)—Missouri got strong pitching from Bob Smith and Gene Crenshaw today to win a Big Seven Conference baseball doubleheader from Kansas State 6-2 and 3-1.

Smith turned in a five-hitter in the first of the two seven-inning games, while Crenshaw limited the Wildcats to three blows in the last game.

Bob Harting's two-run homer off Perk Reitemeier decided the nightcap. Reitemeier, who also hurled a three-hitter, got K-State's only run in that game with a 400 foot circuit clout.

Jack Frier of Missouri and K-State's Bob Bremmer and Dick Johnson homered, in the opener.

Missouri has won six and lost four games, while K-State's record is 3 won, 5 lost.

First game:

Missouri	102 021 0	6	6 0
K-State	020 000 0	2	5 4

Smith and Alexander; Iverson and Thayer, Schumacher.

Second game:

K-State	000 010 0	1	3 0

Crenshaw and Murrey, Reitemeier and Schumacher.

Coe and Goldwater to Clash in Golf Finals

DALLAS, Texas, May 6—(AP)—Stringbean Charlie Coe, the national champion from Oklahoma City, and bull-shouldered Bob Goldwater of Phoenix, Ariz., entered the finals of the Western Amateur Golf tournament today after hectic battles that were decided on the thirty-sixth greens.

Coe, the poker-faced, grim thin man, had to fight off a garrison finish by curly-haired youthful Mac Hunter of Los Angeles to win two-up and he had to shoot two-under-par 70 on the 6,470-yard Dallas Country Club course to do it.

Goldwater beat Francis (Bo) Wininfer, Oklahoma A. and M. student, by the same margin in a ding-dong battle. Whereas Coe had Hunter four-down at the end of the first 18, Wininger and Goldwater were all even.

Coe and Goldwater will clash for the championship tomorrow.

Truman Adds Another Speech

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—President Truman added a ninth major address today to a 16-state stumping tour which he will start tomorrow on behalf of Democratic candidates for Congress.

A schedule already so tight that it promised to keep the President busy day and night was expanded at the last minute today to include the additional address—this one at Cheyenne, Wyo., May 9.

The President's 12-car special train will carry him 6,400 miles through predominantly Republican territory, as far as Grand Coulee dam in Washington state, where an address is scheduled for May 11.

Of the nine important speeches, the hardest-hitting is expected to come at Chicago on May 15, where the President will stop on the way home to deliver a full-scale political address at a big party rally.

Uphold Life Sentence To Neff

TOPEKA, Kas., May 6—(AP)—The Kansas supreme court today upheld the conviction and life-at-hard-labor sentence of George Neff, Perth, Kas., farmer, for the murder of his brother-in-law, Kenneth Wynn.

The decision of the state's highest court was unanimous.

The three trials commanded statewide attention with the prosecution contending Neff 47, planned Wynn's slaying as the climax to a 22-year illicit love affair with Kenneth's wife, Olevia Wynn, a younger sister of Mrs. Neff.

Roundup of Big Leagues On Saturday

A Total of 31 Home Runs Were Scored That Day

NEW YORK, May 6 — (AP) — Home runs were the order of the day in the major leagues today.

A total of 31 home runs were hit in nine major league games, one shy of the record for most home runs socked in both leagues in one day. The record of 32 was created in 15 games on June 13, 1937.

The American league slammed 16 of today's home runs and the National 15. A total of 64 pitchers were employed in the nine games and only two, Chuck Stobbs of the Boston Red Sox and Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics went the distance.

The Red Sox belted the most homers, six, to enable Stobbs, who tossed a four hitter, to breeze to a 11-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Five Homers For Braves

The powerful Boston Braves hit the most homers in the National league, five as they outslugged the Cincinnati Reds, 15-11. The Braves now have hit 13 homers in their last three games, a National league record.

The Chicago Cubs socked three home runs in the sixth inning but were forced to go ten before they edged the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-4. Preston Ward singles home Phil Cavarretta, who had singled and advanced to third on an error, with the winning run. The error was Brooklyn's first after 62 straight innings of errorless ball.

Two grand slam home runs were as the New York Giants prevailed over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-8.

No home runs were hit in the Philadelphia Phils' 11-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals but the two clubs banged out 27 hits. The Phils took a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Max Lanier and clinched the decision with four in the ninth.

Four home runs were hit as the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yangs split doubleheader. The Indians won the first game, 5-4, with rookie Luke Easter supplying the punch with a three run homer.

The Yanks took the second, 7-4. The game was called in the eighth because of darkness.

Home runs by Ferris Fain and Paul Lehner plus Kellner's six hit pitching allowed the Philadelphia Athletics to trounce the St. Louis Browns, 12-4. The A's wrapped us the game with four runs in the first inning. Ken Wood and Sherm Lollar hit four-baggers for the Browns.

Head Cage Coach Was Appointed for Central

FAYETTE, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Ralph Pink, Lebanon, Mo., high school, has been appointed head basketball coach at Central College, it was announced here today by Dr. E. P. Puckett, acting president.

He will succeed Robert Vanatta who recently was named coach at Springfield, Mo., Teachers.

Pink's home is in Wood River, Ill. He played basketball at Kirksville, Mo., Teachers where he took his Bachelor of Science degre in 1948. He played in the national intercollegiate (NAIB) tournament at Kansas City in both 1947 and 1948. He served as freshman basketball coach at Missouri University in 1948-49 and received his Master of Education degree there.

Wind Topples Wall

Bricks litter the sidewalk near the downtown section of Kansas City, Mo., after part of a brick wall near the top of a three-story apartment building was blown to the street in a 70-mile-an-hour gale. Two cars parked at the curb were damaged by the debris. The high winds swept out of Kansas as an aftermath of a tornado which struck near Great Bend. (Associated Press Photo)

Junior-Senior Prom Friday at Hubbard Hi

Several Guests From Other Schools In Nearby Places

At Convention Hall, Liberty park, at 8:00 p.m., Friday, the Junior and Senior prom of Hubbard high school was held. The music was furnished by Charlie Green's orchestra of Kansas City, Kas. Some of the selections played were "Stardust," "This Is My Last Affair," "Again," and "Bewildered." A medley of waltzs was dedicated to the principal, "My Buddy," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Tomorrow and When I Grow Too Old to Dream." Numbers were also dedicated to the sponsor of the Junior class, Mrs Anderson and to the president, Miss Arline Carter.

The theme of this affair was "A Garden of Friendship" where couples danced behind an imitation brick wall surrounding the garden that was filled with flowers, plant flowers and candles that represented the stars. The entrance to the garden was a beautiful white archway through which the grand march promenaded. South American punch was served by sophomore girls wearing turkey hats and Indian costumes.

Some Invited Guests

Some of the invited guests were: Mrs. Opal C. Valentine, Mrs. Carrie Patrick; past president of the P.T.A., Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alexander, Mrs. Lorene Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Abbott, Mrs. Don Gerhardt. The out-of-town guests present were the juniors and seniors of Dalton, Mo., along with their principal, Beverly Foster; the Fayette juniors and seniors along with their principal, C. C. Hamilton and Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, a member of the faculty; Jefferson City juniors and seniors of the Lincoln University Laboratory high school accompanied by two faculty members, Miss Marcella Donnelly and Mr. McAfee. Out-of-town guests were presented by Miss Neppie Gerhardt of Hubbard school.

Motion Pictures Taken

Motion pictures were made of the occasion by Dr. A. R. Maddox who stated that he plans to show them to the students of Hubbard school and to the community.

J. B. Hylick, principal of Hubbard school, expressed his appreciation to the entire group for their fine order and conduct, and said to them that it was the purpose of Hubbard school to expose to them a wholesome idea of night life at such an affair. He thanked the school administrators for making it possible for their children to contact other children outside of their communities in such a wholesome affair.

When People Think of Sedalia They Think of Rosenthal's

If you know Sedalia, then in all probability you know Rosenthal's for the two have been growing together for thirty-nine years. Today, Sedalia is one of Missouri's leading communities and Rosenthal's is one of Missouri's fine department stores.

Sedalia, to many people, defines a way of life — a comfortable, gracious, kindly, warm way of life, and Rosenthal's has helped to bring about that feeling for our city through its understanding and helpful service to the people of this community.

Rosenthal's is proud of the part it has had in the building of Sedalia. Sedalians do have the better things of life because Rosenthal's and other Sedalia stores, have sought out the better goods from all over the nation and world in order to supply Central Missourians with the best for better living.

Rosenthal's realizes its responsibility to the community, and it has never shirked its responsibility — and now, as in the past it is prepared and eager to accept its obligations gladly.

Now, another year begins for Rosenthal's — its 39th — and all of us here are rolling up our sleeves to do an even better job of helping our friends, neighbors, and customers to the way of life they want and expect.

Town - Country Credit Union Has Election

Responsibilities Of Directors Are Outlined

A meeting of employees of Town and Country Shoes was held on Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium for the purpose of completing the organization of their Credit Union. Chester Wilson representative of the Federal Credit Union League in Kansas City, gave a brief summary of the history of Credit Union movement throughout the United States and explained the methods of organization and objectives. Mr. Wilson pointed out that Credit Unions have four primary objectives:

1. To establish a system which meets the credit needs of workers.
2. Aids the employee to learn how to manage his money.
3. Provides a system for systematic savings.
4. Places financial support behind the consumption of goods.

Following the explanation of the underlying principles of the Credit Union, the meeting was thrown open for questions and discussion.

The organization consists of 7 members to the Board of Directors, 3 members to the Credit Committee, and 3 members to the Supervisory Committee.

Board of Directors

The following members were elected to the Board of Directors: Paul J. Hedderich, Jr., president; Jemes Anderson, vice-president; Ralph Hodges, treasurer; Miss Betty Hume, secretary; Martin Biggs, member; Miss Carmen McMillin, member; Quenton Bird, member.

Those elected to the Credit Committee were: Kenneth Campbell, J. W. Anderson, and Miss Juanita Schmidt.

Those elected to the Supervisory Committee were: Virgil J. Brown Ad Taylor, and Glenn Elliott.

The duties and responsibilities of the Board of Directors are substantially the same as those in any other business organization. The president presides over the meeting, the vice-president fills the position of presidency in event of vacancy, the Treasurer is responsible for the record keeping, making collections, deposits, issuing checks for loans, and the sale of shares of stock, the secretary assists in record keeping, including recording minutes of meetings and other related tasks.

Responsibilities

The by-laws provide for a Board of Directors meeting to be held during the third week in each month. The responsibilities of the Credit Committee are to review and pass on all applications for loans made by members of the Credit Union. The Credit Committee is responsible to the Board of Directors and are governed by rules and regulations established by the Board of Directors. It is planned for the Credit Committee to meet three times a week to carry out their functions. The Supervisory Committee is required to audit the books and records of the Credit Union once each quarter and twice a year make necessary reports to the Federal Credit Union Bureau.

The Town and Country Shoes Federal Credit Union is the first industrial Credit Union to be organized in the City of Sedalia. The employees of Town and Country Shoes have expressed great enthusiam for the founding of a Credit Union and have pledged their support in carrying out its objectives.

Choral Club To Sing May 23

Sedalian and residents of the surrounding communities will have another opportunity to hear the Sedalia Men's Choral club in their annual Spring Concert at the Smith-Cotton auditorium on May 23 at 8:15 o'clock, with Abe Rosenthal conducting and Miss Lillian Fox as accompanist.

The club has added many new members to its library of music and includes many of Fred Waring's popular arrangements, which have always been in demand by the club's audiences.

Many people from neighboring towns have written to the club secretary requesting information about this concert and it is expected to be one of the best attended performances of the year.

To Show 1951 Kaiser Cars

The first 1951 Kaiser models to reach Sedalia will make their bow here at Jerry Brown Motor Co.

Jerry Brown, head of the local dealership at 201 North Missouri avenue, said that the initial cars to arrive from the factory at Willow Run, Mich., are four-door sedands. They will be shown beginning at 9:00 a. m. Wednesday, May 10th.

He said that other Kaiser models, including two-door sedans, business coupes, and Traveler utility cars, will arrive at a later date to complete the 1951 series of 12 body types.

The popular-priced Kaisers comprise the second of three new 1951 lines of cars to be marketed this year by Kaiser-Fraizer. The first was the medium-priced Fraizer series, which was introduced a month ago. The third line is the un-named low-priced model, which is due to arrive in dealer showrooms in July.

The K-F cars are the first 1951 models to be introduced by the auto industry.

Increase in Debit Figures

According to the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, general business in Sedalia during March, debits to deposit accounts at banks, aggregated $9,833,000, and were 2 per cent more than those for the same month last year. These debit figures represent for the most part checks against depositors' accounts in payment of goods, services, and debts, and are considered a good indicator of general business activity.

Interesting Program by Women Given on May Fellowship Day

The annual May Fellowship Day of the Sedalia Council of Church Women opened with a dessert luncheon served by the women of the First Baptist church in the basement of the church. Mrs. Elmer Maune gave the blessing. A short worship service led by Mrs. Ernest Liebel, president, Sedalia Council of Church Women, and assisted by Mrs. William Dick, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, and Mrs. A. E. Jackson opened the meeting.

Symbolic of the theme "Our Daily Bread" were the loaf of bread and the candle which formed a worship center on the speaker's platform. The program consisted of a round table discussion on "The Economic Needs of Our Community." Mrs. Roger Fuller, speaking on "Income," stated that 75% of Sedalians earn an income of $3,000 per year or above which compares favorably with the average national income. One thousand Sedalians receive old age pensions and 300 receive social security. Assisting Mrs. Fuller in research were Mrs. Philip Gudorp and Mrs. William Dick.

Talk on Housing

On the subject of "Housing," Mrs. P. Cecil Owen learned that one-fourth of Sedalia's population lives in sub-standard homes and there is a definite need for 300 to 400 new homes to be built. She cited these sub-standard homes as a contributing cause to juvenile delinquency and said there was need for a city sponsored welfare plan. Mrs. Everett Stump and Mrs. William Sims assisted her in research. Mrs. Ernest Martin and her assistants, Mrs. E. E. Wheeler and Mrs. Frank Lewis, investigating "Health Service," found that through the facilities of the three local hospitals the citizens of Sedalia are well served medically but there is a definite need for a Negro dentist to serve the Negro population. All doctors are generous in the care of underprivileged children and some of the civic clubs furnish glasses and dental care. A dental clinic is badly needed. According to Mrs Martin, plans are underway for the purchase of a visual testing machine for school children. The mass chest X-ray program serves all races but hospital No. 2 needs a portable X-ray machine.

Talk on Education

Mrs. Charles Hurtt speaking on "Education" said that 10% of Smith-Cotton, 12% of Sacred Heart and 25% of Hubbard students fail to finish high school mainly because they quit school to go to work. Smith-Cotton has 25% going on to college, Sacred Heart 14% and Hubbard 2% These figures do not apply to business college or other schools which some students attend upon graduation. Mrs. Ray Hatfield and Mrs. Lester Harrell assisted Mrs. Hurtt in research.

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson speaking on "Employment" said that only in time of war is there the possibility of full employment. Due to various factors it is impossible to give really accurate figures on the employment situation. A survey of 75% of employers in March of this year showed a decrease in employment here. Mrs. Frank Yeager assisted Mrs. Ferguson in research.

Talk on Women Workers

Mrs. R. R. Jiedel investigating "Women Workers" found women employed in widely diversified fields and salaries for the most part seemed to compare favorably with other localities. Teachers salaries are lower than other professional women receive. All local factories employing women operate under the minimum wage law. Mrs. Harry Kanter assisted her in research. Mrs. William Bessmer reviewed the state laws on "Child Labor" and stated there are some violations of the laws in Sedalia. All children employed must secure an age certificate. All firms which are unionized are careful to observe the laws. Mrs. Bessmer said that in her opinion parents should think twice and investigate thoroughly before urging their young children to seek employment. Mrs. Bessmer was assisted by Mrs. Richard Gray and Mrs. Orville Perkins.

Discussion Period

A general discussion period followed. The offertory prayer was given by Mrs. A. E. Jackson. Mrs. T. E. Gasperson sang "Because of Thy Great Bounty" (Crowell-Hoffmeister) accompanied by Mrs. A. R. Beach who played during the meditative postlude. The Lord's prayer was repeated by the group, each according to his faith. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Abe Rosenthal.

The Girl Scout Council will meet in the Girl Scout office on Thursday morning at 9:45 a.m. Troop 33 of Whittier school held an overnite camping trip at Camp Sakajawea last week-end. The girls enjoyed several cook-outs which were done under the supervision of their leader, Mrs. Mary Houston. Mrs. C. R. Hall is assistant leader of the troop.

The Regular Leader's Association meeting was held at the Parish hall on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Mary Houston presided over the meeting and Mrs. Harry Lambrith led the group singing. New officers elected were: Mrs. Elmo Harlan, president; Mrs. Betty Wilding, vice-president; re-elected were: Mrs. Clay Williams, secretary; Mrs. T. J. McNally, treasurer. Harry Naugel gave a short talk on the Statue of Liberty that is to be erected in Sedalia.

Many troops are planning their Court of Awards, at which time the girls will receive badges which they have earned during the past year.

Red Cross Corner

Mrs. Fred Lange and Mrs. A. A. Studebaker, nurse's aides, assisted at the cancer clinic, at Bothwell hospital, last Friday.

Miss Agnes Quin and Mrs. Emmett Sullivan, former chairman and co-chairman of surgical dressings, met with the ladies of the Presbyterian church on Thursday, and instructed them in making rolled bandages. The chapter was glad to send these volunteers, and if there are other groups with similar programs, we will be glad to have them call the chapter office, No. 618.

Michael Wolfel, chairman, safety services, is calling a first aid meeting for 2:00 p.m. May 13, at chapter headquarters, 410½ South Ohio avenue. He requests that all first aid instructors be present.

The quarterly home service group meeting will be held May 9 at chapter headquarters, Kansas City. An interesting agenda has been planned for discussion at this meeting. Four of our home service workers plan to attend.

Plans are being formulated for a Red Cross county committee, composed of representatives from each township. That person will represent his township in a liason capacity. Further committee meetings will be held in developing this plan under the leadership of Mr. Oscar DeWolf.

Change Meeting Date

The Quisenberry Community club has its forthcoming meeting date from the regular date to Wednesday, May 10.

At this session the members will have a television show with Carl Goist of Sedalia furnishing the equipment. The meeting will start at 7:20 o'clock.

HOSIERY HINTS

by Airmaid Clark

Heels!

For mileage around the house, Airmaid suggests low heeled shoes with good support. You'll keep that cloud-walking look and feel much longer this way. Do not stalk around in dilapidated high heels!

For town there are mid-heels to keep you comfortable and smart. Keep your high heels for dress-up, and you'll have a prouder posture. If you simply can not maneuver in high heels, there are scads of low heels with dress-up touches this season.

Stockings are very much in the shoe picture. Lovely Airmaid Nylons, with their deft foot construction, always stay smooth and snug in your shoe. Airmaids are conveniently sold at The East End Drug Store. Adv.

Rose Society Meeting at Ferguson Home

The Sedalia Rose Society held its regular monthly meeting Thursday evening, May 2, at the home of Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, 1600 West Seventh street, with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hale assisting.

A dessert course was served after which the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Herbert Seifert, president.

Reports of the various committees were given and plans made for the annual Rose Show which will be held June 2, at the Elks Club, with Mrs. A. A. Ferguson as chairman and Victor Gill as assistant chairman.

The exhibits of the month were very unusual, among them being the hugonis roses, full blown specimen Leonard Baron rose, arrangements of apple blossom with apples grown on the same tree last season for balance; a mantel arrangement of crab apple and magnolia, a buffet arrangement of different kinds of jonquils, a miniature arrangement of for-get-me-nots, ranunculus in a gold shoe, pansies, iris, Blue-eyed Mary and for the table centerpiece a double African violet from Mrs. Ferguson's collection of African violets.

Mrs. C. L. Carter, program chairman, and Leslie Hale, presented colored slides of design and color in "Rose Arrangements."

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

LETS GO FOR A SWIM will be on the tip of your tongue very soon—so better get ready now. A real carnival of colors are being shown in swim suits, and it looks as if one-piece suits will lead the parade this season.

Treat yourself to a shade in a swim suit that you wouldn't otherwise buy in a dress or suit With adequate swimming facilities in Sedalia now, you will need more than one suit. Have a practical one and then let the others be more glamorous. We have satin lastex, nylon and the new nyralon. Go shopping now and try on the different styles. Sometimes the style that you least expect to be able to wear is the one that does the most for you.

'see you at.... the Country Club'.

The show must go on — at 6:00 o'clock tonight. Gentry Patterson has spliced the film together for us and we're ready to go. Some of the youngsters get pretty tired so we thought it would be a good idea to show the movies first, then serve dinner. These are among the first pictures that John Van Dyne has taken and I think they're good Hope you enjoy them! Sure miss the "Pres." He'll be gone about three weeks more but things are not standing still at the club.

The drapes for the dining room have been ordered and will be in before too long—we hope. Extensive plans for the rest of the club house are being discussed and will be under way in the near future. Hurray for the house committee!

We had more than expected for the ladies golf luncheon. Twenty-two to be exact—which is a good beginning for a new season. Norman is going to give group lessons for a small nominal fee. If you want to take private lessons, you can. The lady golfers will meet each Wednesday. The Ladies Day card parties will continue to be held on Thursday. This week the winners in bridge were, Mrs. Henry Harris and Mrs. Carrie Hieronymus. In canasta, Mrs. Hermon Bloess and Mrs. Victor Scott.

Last Wednesday night about 40 people turned out for the square dancing. Clyde Bronton and his musicians played and they have been engaged for this Wednesday night too. He is more than willing to teach the "regulars" new figures and they in turn can help the beginners. General Jack McLaughlin, one of the favorite callers, was out of town last week but he's back now and we can have variety with Clyde Broton's callers joining.

Don't forget game night Tuesday May 9th. Swiss steak dinner too. Reservations by Monday noon.

Four new golfers of an entirely different group were seen on the course last Monday afternoon. Stan Walch, Mike Hayes, Larry Cottingham and Jack Tope. They had planned to go out again Friday but it was too windy—even for those boys. Speaking of golf and wind, let's ask Ennis Courtney how he happened to fall in the creek. There wasn't any wind that day—was there—nobody pushed you—did they—and you never, never lose a ball—do you, Ennis?

Any boys looking for jobs, look in the want ad section next Sunday. We need caddies and it will be a good job for you if you are interested. Swell way to learn to play golf too!

Our membership has increased in more ways than one. The Dan Drews have a new son. That makes four kings and one queen. They almost "drew" a "full house" or do they have a full house anyway!

Former Sedalian Married in Texas

At 6:45 o'clock Thursday evening, April 20, Miss Virginia Mae Grose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Andy M. Grose, of Houston, Tex., formerly of Sedalia, became the bride of Mr. Billy Joe Suttles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iva Suttles, of Houston. The double ring service was read by the Rev. J. T. De Loach, of the Texas Avenue Baptist church in Houston, before a group of relatives and close friends of the couple.

The bride wore a dress of navy blue with a draped effect in front and three quarter length sleeves Her large picture hat was of coffee shade, with matching gloves and shoes and bag in natural color Her corsage was of yellow baby orchids.

Mrs. Lu Verne Everage, of Houston, the bride's only attendant, wore a grey bolero suit with pink blouse, navy accessories and large navy hat. Her corsage was of deep pink carnations.

Mr. Everage served Mr. Suttles as best man.

The mother of the bride, Mrs Grose, chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue bolero dress with which she wore black patent accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Suttles, the bridegroom's mother, was in a navy faille suit with rose accessories and her corsage was also pink carnations.

Mrs. Dolly McGee of Sedalia, grandmother of the bride, wore a black crepe dress with white accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lu Verne Everage.

A three-tier wedding cake on which was a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the table and was served by Mrs. C. V. Aucther with Mrs. Annette Bailey presiding at the punch bowl.

The couple left immediately for Galveston on a wedding trip after which they will be at home at 6820 Avenue H, Houston, Tex.

Among relatives attending the wedding from out-of-town were Mrs. Dollie McGee, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. William M. McGee, of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. David J. McGee, of Kansas City and the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Maud Nubarry, of Rochester, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of the San Jancento high school and is a stenographer for the New York Insurance Company of Houston.

Sedalian Married In Lee's Summit

Miss Mary Catherine Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Palmer, of Lee's Summit, became the bride of Mr. Robert S. Frye, of Sedalia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Frye, of LaMonte, at 7:00 o'clock Friday evening, April 21, at the First Christian church in Lee's Summit. Before an altar setting of fern, white snapdragons and lighted white tapers, the double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Merle L. McConnell.

A program of organ music with Miss Virginia L. Inman as organist, preceded the ceremony and Mrs. Henry Poos sang: "At Dawning," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with fitted bodice and flared skirt over hoops which lengthened into aisle wide train. The collar was embroidered in seed pearls and the long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a half hat of matching satin and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible to which was attached an orchid.

Miss Joan Palmer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Davis was bridesmaid with Misses Nancy and Louise Glasscock as candlelighters.

Mr. Richard Frye, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and Mr. William Crawford was groomsman.

Dr. Robert Marshall and Mr. Clark Jones were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church with Mrs. Louise McConnell cutting the cake which was served by Miss Mary Sue Williams and Miss Betty Marie Smith.

Miss Palmer, mother of the bride, was dressed in a grey crepe dress with matching accessories and her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Frye, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of the Lee's Summit high school and is employed at the Farmer's Trust company in Lee's Summit. The bridegroom was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school, Central Missouri State college and the University of Missouri. He also attended Northwestern university and is now employed as an engineer for the Missouri Public Service Corporation in Sedalia.

Those from out-of-town attending the wedding were Miss Ella Peithman, Mrs. Rose Hausam and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Black and children, all of Sedalia, O. W. Peithman, of Knob Noster and his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Baker and Mr. Baker, of Kansas City.

Middleground Won Kentucky Derby—$92,650 For Owner

Hill Prince 2nd; Mr. Trouble 3rd; And Sun Glow 4th; Your Host Was 9th

CHURCHILL DOWNS. LOUISVILLE, May 6— (AP) —Middleground, a chestnut racer from the fabulous King ranch in Texas, came a-running in the stretch at Churchill Downs today to outgame everything that challenged him and win the 76th Kentucky Derby with something to spare.

The son of Bold Venture, never in the early contention, proved himself a better colt than Your Host, the California favorite, Hill Prince, the Virginia threat, and all the others of 13 rivals when the chips were down.

Nearly Broke Turf Record

He ran the classic mile and a quarter in two minutes, one and three-fifth seconds, only one-fifth of a second off the Derby record set by the immortal Whirlaway in 1941.

He rewarded R. J. Kleberg, Jr., owner of King Ranch, with $92,650, and gladdened the hearts of the great Texas contingent in the crowd of close to 100,000. Hill Prince finished second, Mr. Truble third and Sun Glow fourth in a field which was strung out for considerable distance.

Hill Prince, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, made a stubborn run at Middleground within the last 100 yards, but he couldn't take him. Only two weeks ago they exactly reversed the order of today's finish in the $40,000 Wood Memorial at Jamacia.

Your Host Fails

Your Host the pride of the West Coast, went out in front as he was expected to do. The fleet-footed winner of the Santa Anita derby dashed into the lead in the first run down the stretch and looked like the probable winner approaching the mile.

But then he failed to live up to the hopes for him, and as the big field came into view around the final bend Your Host began to fall back and make way for some other three-year-old who still wanted to run. At the finish he was gasping ninth, all out of gas, and you never saw a bluer crowd than the Californians who thought they had a super race horse.

The Returns

To show how little the large crowd thought of Middleground as against the "big" horses, the Texas beauty paid $17.80 for each $2 winning ticket. He paid $5.40 to place and $3.80 for show. Hill Prince returned $3.80 and $3.20; Mr. Trouble $3.60 to those who thought he might show.

On The Mark, which ran as an entry with Middleground, finished eighth, Oil Capitol, the gray son of Mahmoud and the hope of Oklahoma oilman Tom Gray for first money, came galloping in fifth. It was, in the estimation of sound racing men, a well run derby.

Summer Sports For Children

Jack Cunningham, chairman of recreation for the Chamber of Commerce and Teen Town, has announnced plans for an eight-week summer playground program to be held at Liberty Park, under the direction of Howard Glavin, assistant football coach at Smith-Cotton high school.

The program, consisting of tennis, croquet, marbles, softball and swimming. will be open to children from school age 6 years on up. The program will be sponsored by various local civic organizations. The tentative arrangements are for the program to start at 9:00 o'clock on morning, Monday through Friday, and continue through 11 o'clock. It will open shortly after June 5.

Badminton and other games that will probably employ the swimming pool will be brought into the program later. Evening twilight leagues of softball and adult softball will also be added as the organization of the program progresses.

Anyone interested in signing for softball games should contact Coach Glavin, according to Cunningham.

Cunningham said: "The committees of the two groups, Chamber and Teen Town are working out a fine program that should interest all of the children in Sedalia. The program will be slightly hampered this first year, however, by the lack of financial support, but it will be built into one of the finest playground program in this part of the state, once it gets rolling."

Meeting For Women Bowlers Tuesday Night

Tigers Won Big Seven Track Meet

Four New Records Were Posted in Dual at Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Missouri's distance runners ran one-two-three in the mile and two-mile today as the Tigers defeated Nebraska 68 1-6 to 62 5-6 in a Big Seven Conference Dual Track meet. Four new records were posted. Missouri clinched its victory by winning the mile relay.

McGuire Paces Tigers

Bill McGuire of Missouri set new meet records of 9:44 in the two-mile and 4:21.1 in the mile, with teammates Bob Fox and Chester Franz running second and third in both to sweep the 18 points in the two races.

Nebraska struck back in the hurdles, taking all but half a point in the two events. Bob Berkshire, Wendoll Cole and Ray Magsaman swept the lows in that order for the Cornhuskers. Berkshire and Cole ran first and second in the highs, while Don Bedker of Nebraska and Frank Bardot of Missouri tied for third.

The Nebraska sweep in the low hurdles pulled the Cornhuskers within striking distance of the Tigers, who had set the pace all the way. But the Husker threat vanished when Missouri's Jim Whitacre, Gil Phillips, Randy Vanet and Elmer Klein won the mile relay.

New All-Time Mark

Top performance of the meet was the 6 feet 6 inches by Missouri's sophomore high jumper, Gorden. It not only was a new meet record, but was Gorden's best effort in competition and a new all-time Missouri high jump mark.

Nebraska claimed one new record. Harold Kopf was clocked in 1 minute 54.8 seconds in the half-mile.

Ben Hogan Leads Greenbrier Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 6—(AP)—Ben Hogan finished the first 54 holes of the Greenbrier open golf tournament today with a phenomenal, 17-under-par 193.

Bantam Ben picked up a five-under par 65 to go with two previous 64's in stretching his lead over second-place Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., to seven strokes with a single round remaining.

Never has the historic, 6,368-yard old White course taken such a sustained beating as that handed out by the plucky Texan in his drive for the first title of his determined comeback campaign.

Alexander, with his 132-68—200, slipped four strokes off his own brilliant six-under 64 of yesterday because he was unable to hole any putts of longer than five feet.

Host pro Sammy Snead and Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., with 134-69—203 and 137-66—203, respectively, were tied for third and fourth. Then came Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., and Norman Von Nida of Sydney, Australia, with 205's.

Hogan needs a four-under-par 66 tomorrow to equal Byron Nelson's all-time PGA-recognized total of 259 for 72 holes of competitive play. The record was set at Broadmoor in Seattle in 1945.

Hogan insists "I'm not staging a comeback, I just had a little rest and am picking up where I left off."

Home Opener For Chiefs Tonight

Sedalia Club Will Play Boonville at Liberty Park

The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs will play their home opener against the Ban Johnson Boonville Lions tonight at 8:00 o'clock under the lights of Liberty Park. Joe Imhauser, ace righthander for the Sedalia Chiefs, will be on the mound.

Uniforms will be given out this morning to about 20 Chief players. Before June 1, the field will have to be cut down to 15 players, so today's game will have an important bearing on who is to remain on the team and who is to leave.

It is anticipated that the Chiefs will play a league or non-league team every Wednesday night at Liberty Park, during baseball season.

30 Game Schedule

Every member of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League is scheduled for 30 games, 15 in the first half and 15 more during the second half. Climaxing the season will be a playoff between northern and southern division winners.

The way the respective managers view the forthcoming pennant races in the recently expanded Central Missouri Ban Johnson league is Brookfield or Chillicothe in the northern division and Moberly and Sedalia to resume their 1949 duel in the southern division.

Chillicothe has available many of the standouts that made Manager Bob Moore's Indians a threat throughout the 1949 campaign. Brookfield, after a season of idleness, will return to the Ban Johnson wars with some of the division's top talent.

Defending Champs

The Moberly Miners, defending champions, lost one of the best second basemen in the circuit when Jim Dent passed the 21-year limit. Jessee James, fireballing righthander, who had a 12-5 record last year, signed a professional contract. Even so, Manager Jim Hampton's Miners, with nine holdovers and six members of Moberly's championship Legion team in tap, are the natural choices of rival pilots.

Hampton, with considerable justification, looks for the most trouble from the Sedalia Chiefs. Manager G. O. Hawley has back all but one member of a 1949 squad that carried the pennant fight with Moberly to the final game of the season.

Sedalia's Hurler

Sedalia will pin its hopes on stocky Joe Imhauser, a swift righthander with a wicked curve. Considered one of the league's brightest professional prospects, Imhauser already has written one of the league's most impressive records.

Making their initial bid for Ban Johnson laurels in the new southern division will be Newton, Unionville, Kirksville and Macon. They, with Brookfield and Chillicothe, comprise the newly organized division.

When the cry "play ball" sounds today around the circuit, every member will swing into action. In the northern division, Kirksville will be at Macon, Brookfield at Newton and Chillicothe at Unionville.

Inaugurals in the southern division will send Boonville to Sedalia, Jefferson City to Mexico and Moberly to Columbia.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

TODAY the Ban Johnson Chiefs will try to get the Sedalia baseball season opened. The Cubs tried last week, but rain, a heavy diamond, put a damper on their opening day. The Chiefs looked over weather reports Saturday night, and then decided they would get the 1950 break and open up against Boonville today.

The Cubs will journey over to Armstrong, and the Pettis County Post No. 16, Junior American Legion makes a trip to Warsaw, while the Teen-Age Blues will do battle at LaMonte.

Not only will today be the opening of the South Circuit of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, in Sedalia but the entire North and South Circuit teams will also get started. The Chiefs are keeping their fingers crossed in a hope to win their first league contest and take the first half of the season play.

SPEAKING of Leagues, many of the "old timers" will recall the old Missouri Valley League. Last week we had a visitor in the Democrat office, R. E. Bradley, who played a short time with the old Sedalia team.

Bradley was taking a look at the old files of the Democrat and just going over "memories". He called my attention to the fact it was April 7, 1907 the Valley broke up, the Sedalia team gave up its franchise, and a reorganization of the league held.

With the blowing up of the league, the reorganization resulted in the Kansas State League being formed. Sedalia was not a member of the league.

Bradley recalled many old time players.

While here he visited with Hubbell White, M.K.T R.R. cashier, 214 East Sixth street.

It appears that a number of these baseball managers, secretary of baseball clubs, and secretaries of several other sporting clubs and associations either don't read sports scraps, or do not take our paper. Apparently they failed, at least, to read the "get your news in early" portion of this column last week.

For the information on the deadline, it's 9:30 o'clock in the morning on weekdays and noon on Saturdays. There may be an exception on Saturday, providing we are notified before that time there will be a story for the Sunday paper, but it will not be used if it comes in too long after the noon hour. And that's for sure.

Sedalia Cubs Play Out of Town Today

The Sedalia Cubs will play their second out of town game of the season today, when they meet Armstrong. The Cubs will leave in a group from the Pla-Mor recreation at 11:00 o'clock this morning.

The Cubs will play their first home game on the night of May 12, under the lights of Liberty Park, against the Jefferson City Dodgers. Last Sunday the Cubs were scheduled for their home opener against the Holden Chiefs, but were rained out. The tickets purchased for that game, may be used for the May 12 game.

Teen-Age Blues Play LaMonte Team Today

The Teen-Age Blues will journey to LaMonte this afternoon for a baseball game with the LaMonte team, starting at 2:15 p.m.

This will be the first out-of-town game for the Blues, after losing their first two tilts at home with Kansas City teams.

The probable starting line-up for Sedalia will be: Thomas 2b, Lane ss, Watson cf, Vaught 3b, Walter rf, Higgens 1b, Wall lf, Lees c, Fisher, or Smith on the mound.

The Blues will leave from Hausel Park at 12 o'clock noon.

Unconditional Release To Veteran Hurler

PITTSBURGH, May 6— (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today handed an unconditional release to Harry Gumbert, veteran right-handed hurler.

The rangy flinger compiled a record of 143 victories against 113 defeats during his 14 years of major league pitching. He spent seven years with the New York Giants and played in four world series.

Gumbert was purchased by the Pirates from Cincinnati last season. His 1949 record was five wins and seven losses.

The record list his age as 36.

Gumbert said he has no immediate plans.

Tigers to Sub-Region Meet, Monday

Local Baseball Team Will Play Kansas City Squad

The Smith-Cotton Tiger baseball team will engage in its first game in the state sub-region tournament, Monday night at 8:00 o'clock against Clennon of Kansas City at the C.Y.C stadium in Kansas City on Swope Park Drive. In the other game of the sub-region, the Grandview high school team will clash with LaSalle high school of Kansas City at Grandview, Monday night.

Winners Play Tuesday

The winners in the Monday night games will play for the championship of the Kansas City sub-region at Grandview Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock. The winner of the K.C. sub-region will then tangle with the winner of the Mexico sub-region, sometime within the next two weeks. The winner of this tilt will represent the North Missouri region in finals of the state tournament to be held in St. Louis on May 24 and 25.

Tigers Round Into Shape

The S-C baseball team has been working out for the past three weeks under coaches James Ball and Cecil Glenn and is beginning to round into good shape. The squad to make the trip Monday night will be limited to 15 players, due to the lack of traveling accomodations. The team will leave Sedalia for Kansas City around 4:00 p.m. Monday.

Probable Pitcher

The probable pitcher for the Tigers will be Bob Ray or Bill Brown. The other two pitchers rounding out the pitching staff are Ralph Schulz and Dave Johnson.

The probable starting catcher for the game is Leon Nold. Kenneth Neidholt, rounds out the catching department.

Other Line-ups

Don Broaddus will probably appear on first base and Johnny Cochran will probably be on second base. Ralph Walker will play shortstop. In the outfield will be: Bill Holst, Bill McCrary and Dale Ruffin. Bill Morgan will play third base, with Bill Arnold, a utility player.

Junior Legion Team Opens Season Today

The American Legion Junior baseball team, which is sponsored by the W. A. Smith Ford Motors and the American Leagion Post 16 will open its season today at Warsaw against Warsaw Junior Legion.

Manager Homer Earhart said he was not sure as to the starting pitcher but would be one of these: Dave Johnson, "'Skip" Schulz, Bill Arnold, Virgil Rodgers or B. Barnes. Around the infield will be Floyd Burton at first, Down Percival on second base, Bob Shawver, the captain at short and Bill Morgan on third base In the outfield Bill Dey will be in left, Don Broaddus in center and Bob Bartlett in right. John Cochran will be behind the plate. Manager Earhart asserted that he did not plan to work any pitcher over five innings until July, so several boys will probably see action.

The team will leave from Smith-Cotton high school at 12:15 p.m. on the Legion bus.

The first home game will be May 14 with Joplin.

Tickets Now Available for Swimming

Opening Program At Sedalia's New Pools on May 26

Sedalia's first swimming pool season ticket has been sold as a birthday gift. It went to Barbara Dougherty, who Saturday celebrated her eleventh birthday, and it was a gift from her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dougherty, 916 South Massachusetts avenue.

P. A. Sillers, who will manage both swimming pools, has announced the season tickets are now ready for sale. There are three kinds of tickets, the adult ticket, children's tickets, and the parent ticket, the latter which is sold jointly when a child's ticket is sold, if it is desired. Tickets can be obtained by calling Mr. Sillers at 3664 up until May 20, when they can be obtained at either swimming pool, while arrangements are being made for the opening.

Pools Will Be Cleaned

Water will be put into the pools on Saturday, May 20, but not until both have been scrubbed down with soap and water. A representative of the Wallace Terrin Co., maker of the chlorinator equipment which is to be used at both pools, will arrive in Sedalia May 21 to make necessary adjustments, "shoot" the water with chlorine and then work it to condition for swimming.

More than 500 suits, swim towels, clothes baskets, and other necessary equipment has been on order and expected the coming week.

Life guards will be on duty at both pools for the safety of the swimmers, and they not only will be instructed lifesavers but trained in first aid.

Water Safety Show

The show on May 26 will be in connection with water safety. There will be demonstrations of diving given by well known and expert swimmers. Various instructions in the art of swimming will be given at this time, life saving demonstrations and everything which goes along with the swimming sport.

Mr. Sillers is urging swimmers and prospective swimmers to obtain the seasonal tickets. "They are nice graduation, commencement, and birthday gifts." he said.

11 to 7 Win For Phillies Over Cards

Redbirds Used Seven Pitchers In the Game

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—One Cardinal hurler looked as good as another to the Philadelphia Phillies today as they pounded seven of the St. Louis pitchers for an 11 to 7 victory.

The show started with three runs against Max Lanier in the first inning. It ended with four tallies in the ninth, including three of them on a single by Stan Lopata that Harry Walker fumbled allowing Lopata to get home behind two base runners.

Dick Sisler walked twice and singled once, batting in two runs with the single.

Two Redbirds were effective against Philadelphia bats—Al Brazle and Erv Dusak. Dusak held the Phillies hitless in two innings, but he went out for a pinch-batter and the Phils then picked on reliefers Ellis Deal and Fred Martin for their last four runs—the margin of victory.

Bob Miller started on the hill for the Phils but he was replaced by Hank Borowy and later Jim Konstanty as St. Louis picked up a few runs and threatened the Phils' lead.

Expert on Tax Addresses Insurance Men

Devotes Greater Part of Time To Income Taxes

"You were working for Uncle Sam the first two months of last year," Ernest T. McClure, insurance man and said to be one of the best posted men in Kansas City, on taxes, told his audience at the monthly meeting of the Sedalia Life Underwriters Association in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel, Saturday afternoon.

The speaker said, "I recently learned that the average citizen worked the first 61 days in 1949 just to pay his federal taxes. Now that didn't include the hundreds and hundreds of other taxes—the city—the state—the county—and all of the taxes which go to make up our daily living. For example, there is the sales tax, the cigarette tax, the liquor tax, the amusement tax, etc."

Announced St. Louis Meeting

Abe Silverman, president of the local association, presided and introduced the speaker, and announced that the annual meeting of the Missouri Association Life Underwriters convention in St. Louis would open May 18. Silverman also announced that officers for the ensuing year would be nominated at the next monthly meeting, and appointed the following nominating committee: George Yeaman, L. G. Brown and Virgil Ragar. The meeting was attended by eight Sedalia attorneys, three certified public accountants, and members. Silverman pointed out that any citizen of Sedalia is always welcome to attend the meetings.

Mr. McClure in his prepared speech, gave an informative talk upon the three main divisions of taxation; income taxes, estate or inheritance taxes, and gift taxes.

Income Tax

Touching on the income tax division, the speaker discussed the taxes affecting life insurance payments by the beneficiary because of the death of the insured. He related that proceeds received upon the death of the insured was, generally speaking, not taxable income to the beneficiary. He pointed out that the beneficiary was excluded from the gross income whether the beneficiary be an estate, an individual, a trust or a corporation.

He asserted that the principal exception to this rule is when the proceeds are held on deposit with the insurance company and the beneficiary receives pure interest.

Inasmuch as income taxes affect everyone of us every day, the speaker spent more time on that division of taxes, than on estate or gift taxes.

"After all," the speaker related, "estate taxes are payable only in event of the death of a wealthly individual. Gift taxes are payable only if a wealthy individual desires to distribute part of his wealth during his lifetime."

Joyous Time For the S-C Seniors in Their 'Kid Day'

The Smith-Cotton "Kid Day" though somewhat hampered by the high wind and traffic accidents otherwise was well enjoyed. The seniors roamed the streets all day and had a genuinely merry but quiet time of it, dressed up like early grade school children and armed with water guns.

The assembly which started the day off Friday morning had gay decorations and all of the usual "Kid's" acts in it along with some new ones. The program was: "Brush Those Tears From Your Eyes" played by the small senior band; a song and dance number by the "Q.T." club members; a boys' quartet: Leo Eickhoff with a comic farewell address; Dorothy Wasson with a poem; piano duet by Jean Hains and Carolyn Cooper, the "Lucky 12 Club" with another song and dance; the will: a boys group singing "Cigareets and Whuskey and Wild, Wild Wimin"; the prophesy; a comedy band trio; Bill Franklin singing "Shortnin' Bread"; a sextette doing "Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch", and group of girls with a farewell song to the school. The band closed the program with an appropriate number.

After the assembly a picnic was held at the country home of Virginia Fairfax. After the picnic the entire class went to a movie at the Fox theater.

Taylor-Hilton Wedding At Hollywood Glamorous

By Bob Thomas

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 6—(AP)—Calm and beautiful as a fairy princess, Elizabeth Taylor recited wedding vows with hotel heir Conrad Hilton Jr., today.

While 2,500 movie fans milled outside the Catholic church of the Good Shepherd, the dark-tressed actress declared:: "I will," in a steady but restrained voice.

The wedding went off on time and without a hitch. At 4:50 p. m. a black limousine delivered the bride and her father, art dealer Francis Taylor, before the church. The crowd gasped at her beauty as she stepped out in her billowing white gown.

She displayed not a tract of nervousness and walked into the church.

At precisely 5 p. m. the church organ began intoning and Miss Mary Jane Smith sang two religious airs. At 5:10 the wedding march began playing and young Hilton and his brother, Barron, the best man, stepped before the altar. The near capacity-audience of socialites and movie prominents rose.

The six bridesmaids, all in yellow, walked slowly down the yellow satin carpet. Miss Taylor followed holding on the arm of her father.

Miss Taylor and Hilton stood steadily before the rail in front of the golden altar and listened as Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Concannon asked them to be "loyal and true to the end."

Ripple of Laughter on Kiss

After the vows, the bridegroom slipped a diamond-studded platinum ring on the bride's finger, declaring that he "promise unto thee my fidelity." She gave him a plain gold band after reciting the vow. After the priest pronounced them husband and wife and congratulated them, Hilton grasped his bride and delivered a kiss that caused a ripple of laughter in the church. As the pair marched down the aisle she paused to kiss her father and mother.

At the reception at the Bel-Air country club, a reporter asked Miss Taylor if she was nervous in the church.

"Nervous? Why I was walking around in a daze," she answered. "I had butterflies in my stomach, too."

Young Hilton was asked if he was nervous.

"I was," he said.

The couple is to leave soon on a European honeymoon but they are going on a short trip before starting on that one. Asked if he would say where they were heading tonight, Hilton replied: "It's not too far away."

The bride is 18 and generally termed the screen's most beautiful girl. The bridegroom, a tall, handsome Texan of 23 years, is the son of Conrad Hilton, whose hotel holdings are reportedly worth $125,000,000.

The wedding gown was a production in itself and aroused a brief controversy. One reporter printed that it would feature a plunging neckline. The horrified designer, Helen Rose of MGM, quickly squelched the report. "The gown is about as unplunging as anything can be," she reported.

The gown, which Miss Rose termed a "nice modest, pretty dress that any girl would wear," would probably be beyond the means of most brides. The studio is footing the bill and won't disclose the amount. The gown required 25 yards of pure-silk satin and handfuls of seed pearls and beads. It fluffs out at the hips an is tightly fitted above the waist.

Autos Damaged In A Collision

Considerable damage resulted to two automobiles, about 10:30 o'clock Friday night, in a four-car accident at Third street and Grand avenue. Occupants of two cars which participated in the beginning of the accident escaped injury, the other two cars were parked.

The two principal cars in the accident were a 1935 Ford coach driven by Mrs. H. F. Smith, 1901 South Sneed, who was driving north on Grand avenue, and a 1937 Ford coupe driven by Victor Propst, Centertown, Mo., who was going east on Third street. The two parked cars were those of Charles M. Scruton, a 1939 Chevrolet coach and D. Kelly Scruton, a 1949 Cadillac sedan, parked on the north side of Third street.

The Propst car struck the side of the Smith car, the Smith car swerved to the east and struck the Chevrolet and then struck a guy wire on a light pole, the Chevrolet bounced into the rear of the Cadillac. The Smith car and the Cadillac were considerably damaged.

Police made an investigation.

Entry Of George Miller Exhibited

Young artists of the eastern Kansas and the western Missouri district which covered fifty-four counties received one college scholarship and twenty eight prizes and honorable mentions at the National Scholastic Art contest which was held in Pittsburgh, Pa., where 32,000 entries were judged by nationally recognized artists.

The preliminary for this contest was held at the Emery Byrd Thayer store in Kansas City last March and George Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Miller, 1403 West Fourth street, a student at Smith-Cotton high school received a first prize award at this judging.

At the national contest at which this award entitled his work to be shown, George's pastel entry was chosen as one of those at this affair to be put on exhibit.

Sedalia Dental Assistants Society

Monday evening May 1, the Sedalia dental assistants met in the office of Dr. Thomas D. Schaad for their first certification class. Dr. Schaad instructed the class his topic being on "chairside assisting." The certification class is a 104 hour study course given to all dental assistants wishing to become better educated in the field of dentistry and assisting the dentist. Classes are to be held one evening a week with the dentist as instructors.

GOP Women To Meet Tuesday

The Pettis County Republican Womens' club will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday in the Assembly room at the courthouse at 2 p. m. Mrs. Frank Evans, program chairman, has planned a varied program with Chester Wolf, an attorney, as the speaker for the afternoon.

Music will be given by the a cappella quartette, "The Harmony Four," and Mrs. Herbert Shepherd, club pianist. There will also be an election of delegates to the State Republican Womens' convention in Jefferson City, June 3.

Republican Women Invited

All Republican women who are interested and those who assisted as judges, clerks, and workers in the recent city election are invited. In keeping with the national Republican policies of schools for GOP workers, a short interim of instruction on the new election laws will be a part of the program.

Two committee appointments have been made by Rose Leibbrand, president: Mrs. Herb Studer, membership chairman and Mrs. Frank Evans, program chairman. Mrs. Herbert Shepherd was appointed club pianist.

25th Council Anniversary

The Smith-Cotton high school's senior student council will celebrate its silver anniversary this year with the annual banquet in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel on Friday, May 12th.

The room will be decorated and entertainment will be furnished by the members of the council. The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock.

The guests for this affair will be all of the past presidents, their wives or husbands. Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Franklin, parents of Bill Franklin the present senior council president, Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Hunt, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benson, and the members of the board of education and their wives.

After the dinner there will be a short musical program furnished by the present members of the council, after which there will be roll call by years answered by that year's president.

A formal dance to the music of a group of high school seniors, will close the evening.

To Research Hospital

Mrs. Frank Coffman, 1411 South Ohio avenue, will enter the Research hospital in Kansas City this morning for surgery.

Sedalian Gets 'One' Rating

At the Missouri high school speech contest which is sponsored annually by the Speech Association and which was held at the University of Missouri this year, Shirley Jo Wilson of Sedalia, representing Smith-Cotton high school, won a one rating. This rating was given to only two schools in prose reading, which was her field. The other award went to Lebanon.

The contest was organized by the committee in speech association in Missouri, of which the Smith-Cotton speech coach, Miss Anna L. Sawford, is a member.

The following fields were open for competition at the contest: Dramatics, public speaking, extemporaneous speaking, prose reading and verse reading. Those who participated in these events won their right to do so by taking first place in district contests held in April.

Those from Sedalia who attended the contest were: Shirley Jo Wilson, Carol Lance, Alberta Lane, Miss Ida Cruzan and Miss Anna L. Sawford.

Senate Passes Big Aid Bill

Quarter Billion Pared Off Next Installment In Marshall Plan

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The Senate passed a $3,122,450,000 foreign aid bill Friday night after economy advocates had taken a $250,000,000 slice off the next Marshall plan installment.

The vote to approve the big measure was 60 to 8.

Final passage climaxed three weeks of sporadic but heated debate on the global aid measure which the House passed March 31.

Besides providing for continuing the Marshall plan of economic aid designed to bolster Europe against Communism, the bill calls for assistance to Korea and other areas.

Although administration leaders lost in their effort to win approval of the full $3,100,000,000 requested for the European recovery program, they scored a victory by gaining clearance for President Truman's "point four" plan to aid backward areas of the world.

Sanction "Four Point" Program

By a 37 to 36 tally the Senate adopted a $45,000,000 authorization to start the "point four" program after rejecting 41 to 33 a Republican move to turn the matter over to a bipartisan commission for further study.

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the appropriations committee served notice, however, he opposes the technical aid proposal and said he will seek to block the $45,000,000 outlay when the actual money bill comes up later.

The present bill is an "authorization" measure which puts Congress on record as favoring the aid, but appropriates no actual money.

The House previously had approved the "point four" plan but trimmed the amount to $25,000,000.

As passed by the Senate and House the big foreign aid measure authorizes $2,850,000,000 for the European recovery program; $100,000,000 for Korea; $100,000,000 for economic aid to the China area; $25,450,000 for Arab refugees in Palestine and the "point four" plan.

The legislation now goes to a Senate-House conference group to work out differences in the two bills.

Beat Back Billion Cut

The biggest Senate fight came over the Republican drive to whack up to $1,000,000,000 off the Marshall plan program for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

The administration forces beat back the billion dollar reduction proposal of Senator Kem (R-Mo) by a tidy margin, 62 to 17. But on the next move to cut it $500,000,000 they just squeezed through on a 40 to 40 tie vote.

It was a coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans which finally put across the $250,000,000 reduction on a 47 to 33 roll call vote.

The voting came after warnings from Democratic leaders that a deep cut in the Marshall plan funds might force this country to increase its defense outlays vastly.

Just before the voting got underway Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois declared that an "isolationist" policy would turn America into a "garrison state" and double the present defense spending total of $13,000,000,000.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate foreign relations committee made a plea against any cuts in the foreign air measure.

In a last minute effort to head off the economy forces, Connally made public a letter from Marshall plan director Paul Hoffman expressing concern over the proposed cuts. Hoffman went on to say that the reductions not only would affect the European aid program severely but also place in jeopardy the $10,000,000,000 already invested in the stop-Communism plan.

The Senate also defeated, 52 to 24, an attempt by Senator Kem to bar aid to any nation which sent to Russia or its satellites any materials that could be used "to maintain or expand directly" their military forces.

Beaten 46 to 31 was an amendment by Senators Young (R-ND) and Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) that would have required ECA to buy farm and food products in the United States if they were classed as surplus or selling below government price support levels.

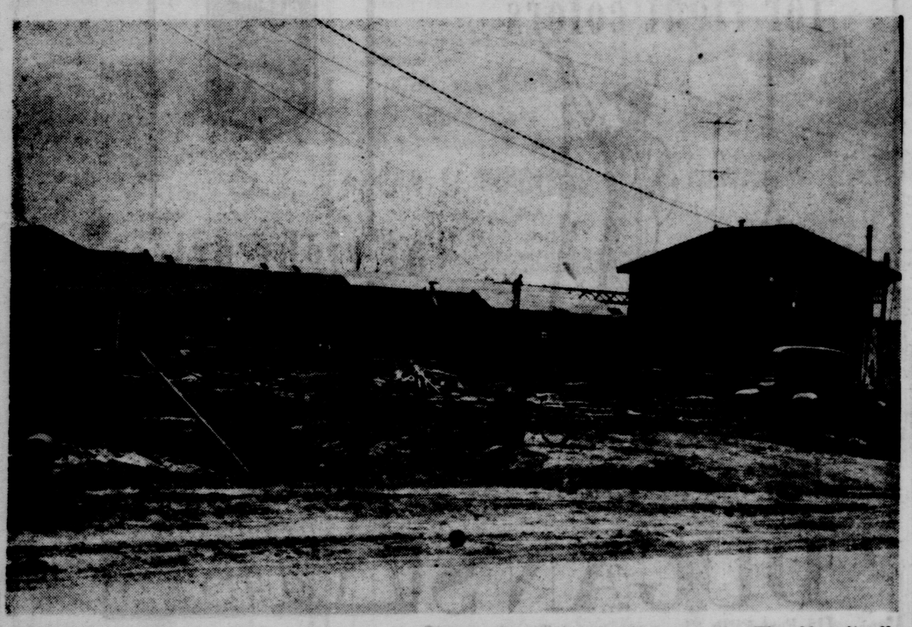
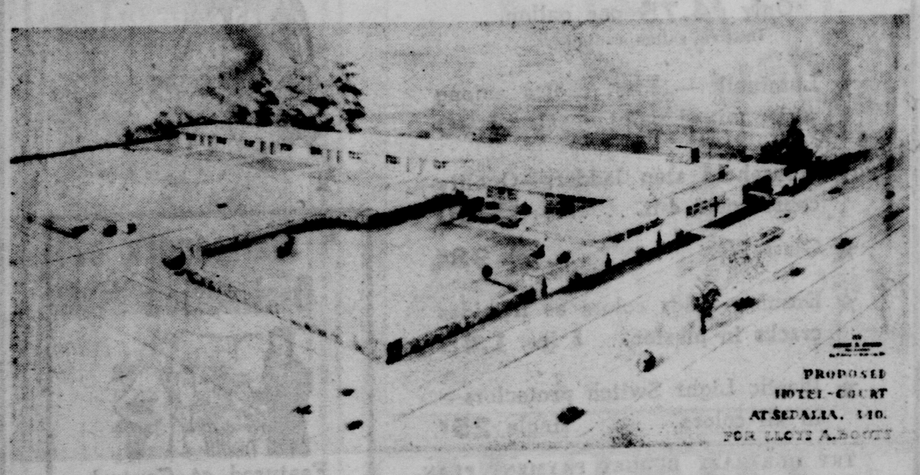
This is the El Rancho motel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wes Morris, located on the south side of Highway 50, about two miles west of Sedalia. The 22-unit motel is scheduled to be completed May 15. A central office and lounging room will be constructed in the center of the drive-way. E. E. Lingle is the contractor. (Padgett Photo)



This is the Sedalia Motel, located just west of the city limits on Highway 50. The 20-unit all fire-proof motel is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips. Shown to the right is the central office and above is living quarters for Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and family. The motel is slated to be completed June 15. Patterson Bros. are the contractors. (Padgett Photo)



This is an architect drawing of the proposed 10-unit hotel courts to be called Boots Hotel Court, located on State Fair Boulevard and Broadway. The construction started about two weeks ago, and the project is scheduled to be completed in 90 days, according to Lloyd A. Boots, who is the owner and is doing most of the construction work himself, since he is a contractor. The courts will be of masonry construction, will be modern in every way, and in each of the units will be a bathroom. The parkways will be of concrete. According to the building permit, this construction is a $50,000 project. Mr. and Mrs. Boots and two children, Bobby and Barbara Jean will reside in the rear of the courts, where they plan to build their living quarters. Eugene B. Hughes, of Webb City, was the architect.

Clean Up Time

If your yard is full of trash,
Clean it up,
Now's the time to get real rash,
Clean it up,
Clean up, papers, leaves and cans,
Old discarded pots and pans,
Get the rubbish off your hands,
Clean it up.
If your fence is broken down,
Fix it up,
If your porch sags to the ground,
Fix it up,
If your roof is kinda leaky,
If your paint is off or streaky,
And your whole house sorta squeaky,
Fix it up.
If your business house looks bad,
Paint it up,
Make your customers feel glad,
Paint it up,
Any business house that's cheery
Draws the trade from one that's dreary
So it's just a simple theory,
Paint it up.
If you want a nicer city,
Plant it up,
Do your part to make it pretty,
Plant it up,
Mow your grass and cut your weeds
Plant some shrubs and sow some seeds
And you'll do your civic deeds,
Plant it up.

Promote Safety, Economy, Utility And Beauty of Sedalia

(By Ray Lippard for Chamber of Commerce)

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce is launching a clean up, paint up, and fix up week May 7-13. This is one effort inwhich everyone can participate and to make it a success it is necessary that everyone do his share.

When Mr. Farmer wants to grow a crop he cleans up his field. If we want to grow a crop of fine citizens in our city it is necessary that we keep a clean wholesome environment.

Clean up and fix up and paint up promotes economy. It not only adds to the appearance but it adds to the value of property.

It also promotes utility. If everything is orderly it is much easier to do a job effeciently. And certainly time is an omportant factor in this high pressure age. It likewise promotes beauty. If we want a town that will both attract visitors and impress them atfer they arrive, we must certainly advertise our town with clean streets, attractive well painted homes and yards and gardens that are kept in good condition.

Safety Is Important

Over an above all the other considerations is the fact of safety. It was the privilege of the writer to attend a statewide fire prevention meeting at Jefferson City about six months ago. The thought there was to encourage the people of our community and all communities throughout the state to guard against fire hazazrds. To excercise precaution and carefulness to the end that we would minimize the number of tragic fires which not only take the toll of economic value but all too often lives also. Certainly by cleaning up attics and basements and trash gathering spots both in homes and business places we will make our entire community safer as regards fire hazards.

There is another angle to this safety and that is accidents caused by carelessness. Rubbish lying around the premises always constitutes a danger spot inside or outside the house. A clutter on the stairway may mean a fall and serious injury. Trash on the premises sometimes is likewise the cause of an unfortunate accident.

City Wide Campaign

This campaign of course is something that applies to everyone and is citywide. It means taking care of your home premises, of your business place and of the common property such as streets, parks, and alleys, etc. Lets not ony give this effort our enthusiastic endorsement but lets all join in the active efforts toward cleaning up our private properties and our public property.

There is an old Chinese proverb that "We do not stumble over mountains"; meaning that if we look after our own duties we shall be able to take care of the big job. Clean up week is a big job. Lets everyone do his share to promote safety, to promote economy, to promote utility and to promote beauty for our home town.

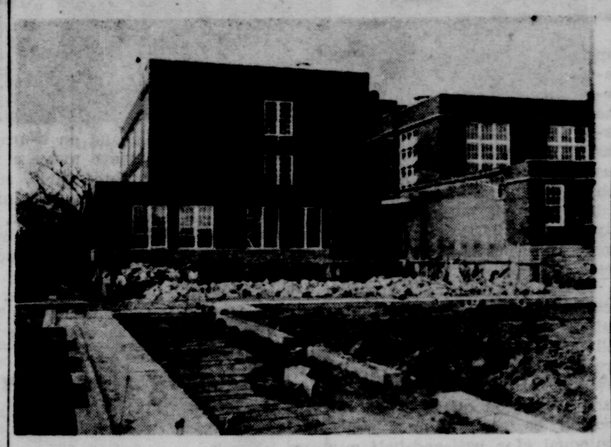
Lions Improve Civic Club Signs

Looking around for a civic project as its contribution in the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign the Lions club chose the sign posts with the emblems of the civic clubs on them at the entrance each way into the city. Then along comes the wind and helps to make their job, which was already a big one, a still bigger one. But the Lions club members don't mind that—they are just glad the wind came before they started their clean-up job instead of waiting until they had shined everything up and then come with all its fury and dust.

The members of the club are going to cut the grass around the signs, paint the sign posts, scrub up the emblems and put them back in place. They are going to have to get new chains for the signs, too, because the chains that were on them to hold them up have vanished—they have apparently gone with the wind.

It will be a good day's work by the time the organization gets everything back in order but it is a real worthwhile project because it gives those on the highways their first impressions of the town.

This new modern four-room house, at 1012 State Fair Boulevard, was completed the latter part of the week, and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo L. Morris. The contractors were brothers, coming one of Sedalia's loveliest districts. Mr. Morris is employed at the Askew Motor company in Sedalia. The Morrises W. E. and J. J. Murray. State Fair Boulevard is gradually belive at 501 West Fifth street. (Padgett Photo)



The foundation and rock work for the new Smith-Cotton high school music room, and the cafeteria is shown above. The old music room and girls' lockers were torn down. The cafeteria is expected to be completed by next school term. Cramer and Schrader have the contract for most of the improvements, and E. A. Brunson Construction company of St. Louis has the cafeteria contract. (Padgett Photo)

This is the new French colonial seven-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean, 1401 West Broadway. There are two rooms upstairs, and a bath and five rooms and bath downstairs. An all complete screened-in porch is in rear. Mr. Dean was the contractor. The Deans moved into their new home during the ice storm last December, just three days before Christmas. Arthur J. P. Schwarz was the architect. (Photo by Padgett)

This is the new modern five-room home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Murray and children, 821 Arlington avenue. Mr. Murray, who is a building contractor, built the house, and said he anticipated doing more work around the house. (Padgett Photo)

This is the new five-room house of Mr. and Mrs. George Boots, 810 South Carr avenue. It is all modern and has a full basement. The Boots moved into their new home about three weeks ago. Mr. Boots' brother, Lloyd Boots was the contractor. (Padgett Photo)

This house, under construction for the past year, located on West Broadway, is one of the largest houses being built in Sedalia at the present time. The ten room structure is the future home of Dr. and Mrs. Karl B. Gonser. One of the biggest features about this house is that it will be equipped with year around air-conditioning. None of the windows in the house were constructed to open. Fresh air will enter the house by means of about 500 feet of copper tubing, which has been placed under the ground. There will be six rooms downstairs and four bedrooms upstairs, with a full basement and a double garage in the basement. Dr. Gonser, who has done much of the construction work himself, said they planned to move in sometime this summer, and hoped to have the house finished this fall. (Photo by Padgett)

Building Continues, 45 Permits Issued By City Between January 1 and May 1

The building trend in Sedalia is still going strong, as new homes and public buildings continue to increase. However, the total sum of money spent for construction work the past year, compared to 1948 figures has declined slightly.

In 1948, approximately $1,650,000 was expended for construction work in Sedalia, compared to $1,250,000 spent for building projects in 1949. Many buildings, such as churches, swimming pools and other public construction were not included in the 1949 figure, as the figure represented 160 permits issued that year for houeses and commercial buildings.

Since January up to May 1, this year, 45 building permits have been issued at the city hall by Louis W. Dickman, building and electrical inspector, which represent about $340,000 in construction work now in process, not including the $733,725.82 public school project underway.

Many Hames Going Up

Houses, which have been built during the past year, or are now under construction are scattered all over town, but the greatest percentage of new homes being constructed, seem to be in the southwest and southeast areas of this city.

A proprietor of a wall-paper and paint store recently said they were selling more wallpaper and paint than they have in many years, so this is a good indication that property owners are in the "thick of things."—a paint brush in one hand, and a paste brush in the other.

And too, many of the owners of old houses are "fixing things up," which have gone neglected during the war years, mainly because materials were scarce and too expensive and labor was too high or hard to hire. Although there is still a housing shortage, competition in finding apartments and houses to rent isn't quite as bad as it was a few years ago, so landlords are "fixing up" now to make their renting quarters more attractive to the tenants.

School Project Underway

One of the bigget contruction jobs now in progress in Sedalia is the $733,725.82 public school project. Work started at Smith-Cotton high school, Whittier school and Horace Mann school several weeks ago. The major construction being done at Smith-Cotton is the erection of a modern cafeteria, an addition of three stories of class rooms in addition to an auditorium-gymnasium and boys and girls, locker and shower rooms.

At Horace Mann, three class rooms are under construction, plus a new auditorium-gymnasium. One class room addition and an auditorium and gymnasium the the major construction to be made at Whittier school.

Interior Repairs

Interior repairs, concrete corridors and stair-ways and a remodeled auditorium are some of the improvements planned for Broadway school. A new workshop addition will be constructed at Hubbard high school, and minor repairs will be made at Jefferson school. New concrete stairways and other improvements were made some time ago at Jefferson school. All improvements under the school project are to be completed by January 30, 1951, and it is anticipated the cafeteria at the high school will be completed before school opens this fall. A new gymnasium-auditorium was completed at Sacred Heart school last year.

A noticeable improvement to the city of Sedalia, is the construction of thre motels, now being built on the edge of the city west on Highway 50. All three are scheduled to be in operation before the Missouri State Fair opens in August.

New Tourist Courts

The first motel slated to be completed is the Morris El Rancho, located about 2 miles from Sedalia on the south side of Highway 50. The contractor is scheduled to complete the 22 unit motel by May 15.

The motel is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Morris, who will have their home built just west of the motel. Mr. Morris said he hoped to be operating the motel by May 15. The motel is composed of all modern units, 18 singles and four doubles, and will be heated in winter by a central heating plant. A deep well was drilled to the rear of the motel, to provide plenty of water. There will be an office and lounging room in the center of the motel side Elmo E. Lingle is the contractor. The motel will be landscaped and the semi-

Eliminate Fire Hazards; Fire Chief 'Don'ts'

(By Ed Ringen, for Chamber of Commerce)

We are approaching the Clean-Up, Paint-Up Campaign. Many people will be burning leaves, newspapers, and other rubbish which has accumulated through the winter months. While the purpose of this program is to further beautify our city by "lifting its face," we must also consider the danger of serious damage and loss due to carelessness with fire.

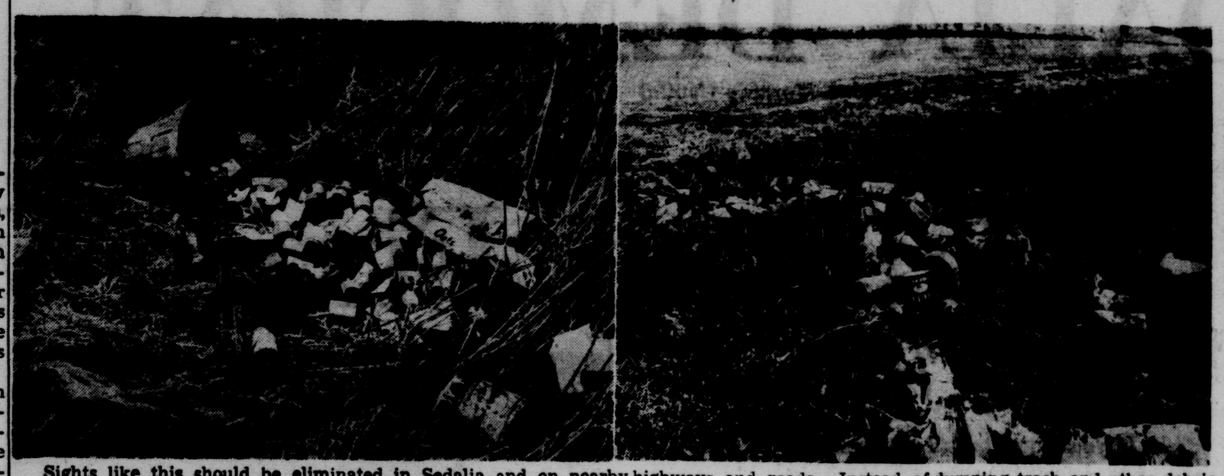
Fire Chief John Lueck stated in a recent interview that the majority of the runs by the fire department during this season of the year are due mainly to carelessness while burning rubbish. It was pointed out that while no serious loss has so far resulted from such fires this year, a definite hazard exists and can be eliminated only by the people themselves being extremely careful.

Some Common Mistakes

Some of the common mistakes were pointed out by the fire chief and should be particularly well remembered and avoided. Here are the "Don't: 1. DON'T start a fire near any building. Pick a spot far enough away so that there is no danger of the building catching on fire. 2. DON'T start a fire on a windy day. Choose a day which is still, thus eliminating the hazard of a wild, uncontrolled fire. 3. DON'T leave your fire. Stay with it and watch it until it has completely burned out.

Furthermore, carelessness which results in fire damage often occurs inside the house itself. Make certain that the electric fuses in your house are not too heavy to blow out in case of an overloaded circuit. Check the cords on your electric iron and other appliances. Any electric cord with badly worn insulation should be replaced with a new one. That's as good a place as any to start your Clean-Up Campaign.

Where NOT to Dump Your Trash



Sights like this should be eliminated in Sedalia and on nearby highways and roads. Instead of dumping trash and other debris at the city disposal grounds, or having trash hauled away, a few load up cars with trash, and drive out at night and dispose of the debris by dumping it alongside a road or into a ditch, such as pictured above.

City ordinance No. 2126, section 4, reads as follows pertaining to the above situation: "It shall be unlawful for any person, by himself, or his agent or agents, or as agent for another, to dump any dead animals, trash, debris, slop, cans, loose paper or decayed or decaying matter (vegetable or animal) on any public thoroughfare of such city or any vacant lot or tract or parcel of land in such city, or as near to the limits of such city as to constitute or add to a nuisance dangerous to the health of the inhabitants of such city."

The city disposal grounds, located five miles west of Sedalia, is open during week-days between 8:00 o'clock in the morning and 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of having trash of all sorts dumped on the grounds. On Saturdays, the disposal ground is open in the morning between 8:00 and 12:00 a. m. (Photo by Padgett)

St. Louis County Has Population Gain

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—Just as everyone suspected, St. Louis county, the suburban area where thousand of persons who work in St. Louis live, has scored a huge gain in population during the past ten years.

The first report on the 1950 census in the county, still incomplete, shows 330,027 county residents have been counted. That's 55,797 more than the total ten years ago.

It's a different story for the city of St. Louis. The census here still hasn't been completed and 756,814 residents have been counted. The 1940 population of the city was 816,048.

Building His Own Home

This five-room house, bath and full basement at 1600 South Moniteau avenue is the future home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Roberts, who now reside next door at 1604 South Moniteau avenue. Mr. Roberts, who is a coach carpenter at the Missouri Pacific shops, has been doing the construction work by himself and started digging the basement last June. When the house is completed, the Roberts will move in and rent their other home. They plan to construct a garage at the new residence. (Padgett Photo)

Screen Time is Here Again

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

It is time to again hang your screens and it is also time that they should receive their annual care.

Before screens are hung, wash them thoroughly and check the condition of the frame joints. If the frame is coming apart, strengthen the joints by screwing small right-angle metal straps to the frame corners.

To prevent staining of the window frames and to preserve the screening, coat with spar varnish or screen enamel. First, scrub the screening clean with hot water and soap, then wash with benzine or turpentine to remove all rust and corrosion.

Any good quality spar varnish can be used, thinned with the equal of a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. Wipe on the varnish with a cloth instead of using a brush. One coat should last for at least a full season. Paint the frame, also, to help prevent deterioration.

Small holes in the screen can be repaired simply with a patch of screening, placed over the hole and woven to the screen with a strand of wire. However, if the screening is badly broken or rusted, the only solution is to replace with new wire cloth.

To do this place the screen flat on a table. Pry up the molding which hold the screening in place. Remove all the brads or tacks left in the frame of the screen.

After removing the old wire, cut a new piece of non-rusting screening a little longer than the opening of the screen frame.

Start by tacking the screening down at the top of the frame. Then stretch it slightly and evenly and tack the bottom edge down. Keep the wires of the screening straight with the sides of the frame. Now tack one side down and then the other side. Renail the molding back with ¾-inch or 1-inch brads. Touch up the frame with paint or, repaint the whole frame.

Screen doors recieve a lot of banging and misuse. Therefore before installing, tighten the screws in the hinges. If they will not screw in tight, take them out and either put the hinges on the screen in a different location, or drive match sticks or splinters of soft wood into the screw holes.

If the door sags, fasten a metal rod with a turnbuckle to the frame at the intersection of the bottom rail with the outer vertical rail and securing the other end to the hinge rail at the highest point it will reach. After fastening, the turnbuckle can be used to raise the bottom of the frame to a right angle with the vertical rails.

Screen doors are rewired in the same way as window screens. The screening of the lower part of the door can be given added protection if a guard of heavy screen mesh is tacked to the frame over the regular screening.

Every screen door should be equipped for automatic and noiseless closing. An easy to install door check is the simplest way to accomplish this.

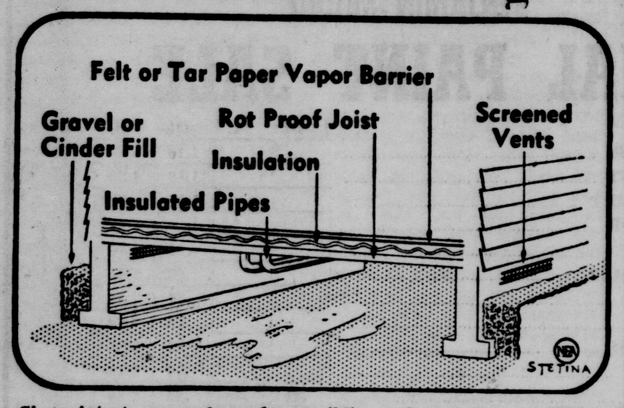
Basementless Home Needs Moisture-Proofing



Six points to remember when building a basmentless house.

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Nowadays many homes are being built without basements or over a 3 to 4 foot excavation. Moisture-control in this type of construction is an important factor in the life of your home and the health of your family.

Good ground drainage is very essential. The surrounding ground level must slope away from the house to provide the required drainage and should be at least one foot below the finished floor level, except in concrete slab construction.

A line of drain tile placed around the outside edge of the exterior foundation and connected to the proper drains will minimize the possibility of ground moisture seeping under the house.

In homes lacking a cellar but having a concrete footing, a coat or two of refined creosote, tar or other waterproofing compound on the foundation walls will help to stop this seepage. Also if there is a concrete sub-floor, it may be coated wit hthe same waterproofing compound.

However, where no concrete floor exists, all organic matter such as sod, roots, etc., should first be removed and the ground leveled off. Any holes and irregularities in the subgrade should be filled in and thoroughly tamped. A coarse granular fill should be placed over the entire area.

This granular fill may be made of either coarse cinders, gravel or crushed stone, ranging in size from ½ to 1 inch. The fill material should be of uniform size, without fine particles, so as to insure a maximum volume of air space in the fill and improve its insulating effects.

Good air circulation beneath a raised basmentless home is of prime importance. Screened vents or louvres should be located in each of the foundation sidewalls above the grade level to allow the air to flow freely.

A small exhaust fan located in one of the vent openings will move a larger quantity of air. The fan need only be run 15 or 20 minutes twice a day.

For best results, the screened vents or louvres should be left open the year around. In cold weather this results in colder floors, so greatest comfort is assured if the floors are insulated.

Before insulating the underfloor a vapor barrier of felt or tar paper should be placed between the floor and insulation. When insulation batts are used, place the unpapered face against the vapor barrier and the papered face down. The paper laps are turned down against and secured to the sides of joists.

Aluminum foil or sheet steel reflective insulation may be easier to handle in the cramped area beneath the floor and will give just as effective results as the massive types. All pipes should be insulated by wrapping them in asbestos pipe covering.

To preserve the life of your home, the elimination of rot, decay and the termite hazard to all joists, sills and sub-flooring must be accomplished. The simplest way is paint or spray these mem-

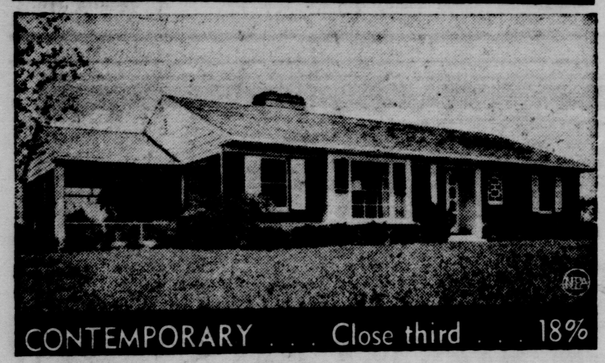
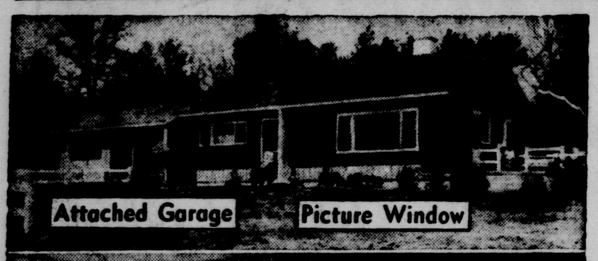
America's Homebuilders and What They're Building

CAPE COD . . . Tops for years . . . 27%

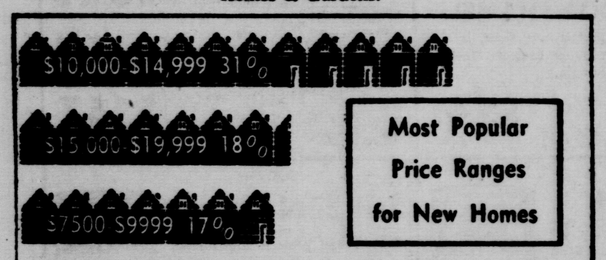
RANCH TYPE . . . Gaining fast . . . 24%



CONTEMPORARY . . . Close third . . . 18%



HOME FEATURES GAINING IN FAVOR—Sixty-nine per cent of new homes have picture windows; about half have an attached garage. Nearly one-third of the new homes have a combination living room and dining room. All these features are gaining in favor, according to a recent survey among homebuilders by Better Homes & Gardens.



Here are the preferred price ranges for new homes, according to a nationwide survey by Better Homes & Gardens. Only 14 per cent of new homes cost under $7500, and 20 per cent cost over $20,000.

Cape Cod is still America's preferred architectural style, but moving up fast in popularity are the "ranch-type" house and contemporary designs. Cape Cod is strongest in New England, in the East and West North Central regions. Ranch and contemporary styles are very strong in the West and Southwest; but even in New England, one-fifth of new homes are ranch or contemporary.

Cleanup, Paintup, Fixup, Week In Sedalia

The 20 unit motel to be called the Sedalia Motel, located just outside the city limits on the south side of west Highway 50, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, is scheduled to be finished June 15. It will be a fire proof all modern motel, with a central office and living quarters in the center of the motel. It will have a gravel semi-circle drive-way. Patterson Brothers are the contractor. A bath is in each of the units.

Hotel Court

Construction work started about two weeks ago on a 10-unit hotel court at State Fair Boulevard and Broadway. Mr. and Mrs. Loyd A. Boots are the owners, and Mr. Boots, a contractor himself, is supervising the general construction work. He hopes to have the courts completed by fair week. In addition to the units, he will build living quarters for his family there. The construction will be of masonry with a concrete parkway. Mr. Boots said he proposed to add more units later on. The hotel will be known as Boots Hotel Court, and will have double and single rooms with bath, and hot water and radiant heat.

Sewerage Plants

The $1,075,000 bond issue sewer project for the city of Sedalia, which was started May 3, 1949, is anticipated to be completed this summer. One of three disposal plants to be built is completed. The south sewage treatment plant, located at Twenty-eighth street and New York avenue, has been in operation since the first part of April, this year. The completed plant is designed not only to take care of the existing needs, but to take care of the anticipated development and growth of Sedalia in the next 25 to 30 years.

The west disposal plant, to be completed about July 1, and the north disposal plant, expected to be completed June 15, will be similar to the south disposal plant. When the plants and pump stations are completed, hundreds of Sedalia residents will be able to connect laterals on to the main line. The four pump stations are slated to be completed by June 1. A total of 40,800 lineal feet of vitrified clay pipe, and another 5,300 lineal feet of cast iron pipe has been laid.

More than 90 per cent of the sewer work is completed. Some of the work remaining to be done is construction of the remaining manholes, installation of the remaining three pumps, replacement of streets to original condition and clean up of properties affected by construction. Nearly all of the 141 manholes to be provided are completed.

New Swimming Pools

Two modern city swimming pools in Sedalia, one at Liberty Park and the other at Hubbard Park, were completed last fall, and will be opened for swimming on Saturday, May 27.

A new up-to-date municipal airport is planned to be constructed in the near future. It will be located just east of the Missouri Pacific underpass on the north side of east Highway 50.

City Hall Remodeled

The exterior of the city hall building was completed last year, as were other large downtown brick buildings, which were first sand-blasted, then pointed up and painted.

Several months ago, new white-way lights were erected on Broadway, thus eliminating traffic hazards at night. For awhile there was bitter comment, both pro and con, regarding the necessity of having to chop down a number of trees in the parkways, so that wires could be strung up for the lights, and poles erected.

Since the unforgotten ice-storm on December 21, 1949, which caused damage to hundreds of trees in Sedalia, trees have been trimmed by property owners. Seven-hundred trees were trimmed in the three city owned parks.

Country Club Improvement

Improvements are in the making at the Sedalia Country club. A recent improvement there is a complete new watering system to all tees and greens on the golf course, with pipes sufficiently large to enable the greens keeper to water all greens at one time. Formerly there was no water at the tees, and now water can be piped to each tee. The size of the tees has been doubled and in some instances tripled.

Several business establishments, clothing stores, restaurants, etc., have been re-modeled and redecorated in Sedalia, and in the past two years a number of new buildings have been constructed in the downtown area.

Several months ago, a city wide survey of the condition of Sedalia's sidewalks was made, and the survey is still in progress. During the past 20 to 30 years, many of the sidewalks have gotten into a deplorable condition, and are in need of repairs.

Want Sedalia Known For Its Magnolia Trees

Plans are being made for cleaning up and planting more shrubbery on the boulevards on Third street, Sixteenth street and State Fair boulevard by the Sedalia Garden Club Council and helping with the work will be volunteers from each Boy Scout troop in Sedalia.

The program is in charge of Civics committee of the Garden Club Council composed of Mrs. William B. Rich, Mrs. Fred Shaffer, Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Charles Arnest, Mrs. E. A. Edwards, Mrs. Leslie Hale, Mrs. James Ryan, Mrs. W. J. Dougherty, Mrs. H. C. Johnson and Mrs. T. E. Gasperson.

Assisting also will be the Twelve Mile Road District.

The boulevard planting was started a number of years ago as a Garden Club Council project and with the help of the Twelve Mile Roard District and the park board the ground was cleared and graded ready for planting. Shurbbery of various kinds were planted and the Garden Club Council would appreciate any donations of shrubs such as spirea, forsythia or anything that would mass well in such a planting.

More Magnolia Trees

Among other things to be planted will be three Magnolia trees. It is the desire of the organization to have the boulevards which form a horseshoe from Barrett avenue and Third street, down State Fair boulevard to Sixteenth and east to Barrett avenue to be planted with magnolias. Already three blocks on West Third street have been planted and a block on Sixteenth street. Although magnolia trees are rather expensive the Garden Clubs would like to have Sedalia known as the magnolia city like Springfield is known as the dogwood city and would appreciate the contribution from any public minded citizen of a tree or of a fund from groups for buying trees. The Garden Club Council has already spent a thousand dollars in the beautifying the boulevards with magnolias and other shrubbery.

Nothing Brings More Joy Than Having Flower Gardens

Nothing—no nothing—can give more enjoyment than growing flowers—even with the backaches, the weeds, and the dirt under your fingernails that just won't come out.

There is something thrilling about planting little tiny seeds and watching them grow, the first two tiny leaves that appear above the ground and then the other leaves as they come—finally the beautiful blossoms. Flowers to take to the sick, to give to your neighbors, to helpout for entertainments, or for your own dinner party arrangement, baskets for church, or just growing there in your yard for the people going by to admire. Out-of-town people are always impressed with a city of flowers and everybody should sow a few seeds around their home just to help make a more attractive town. If you don't have the green thumb that can grow anything you stick in the ground try some of the old standbys, cosmos, snapdragon, zinnias, and the most delightful little flower of all, petunias. For summer bloom there is nothing so abundant nor so beautiful.

Doesn't Know What She Planted

One woman is anxious to see what will really come up in her garden. She made a nice little dent in the soft dirt in the back of one of her flower beds where she wanted to plant delphiniums and planted the seed. She decided to not cover them up until she had planted a row of something else in front of them—then her seed planting was disturbed a few minutes and when she went back she forgot she had not made a second row for the other seed then suddenly she came to life again and realized what she had done—she had planted the other seed right on top of her delphiniums. In fact she planted what she had left from three different packages of seed and she had so many seed packages she doesn't know just what she planted.

No Telling What She Planted

Then she went over to another place in the yard and took out another bunch of packages — all annuals—and having an ideal spot behind some peonies that needed tall flowers to show over the peony bushes she told her mother she was going to plant cosmos there. Again her seed planting was interrupted and when she went back to it she opened up a package of seed and sowed it the length of the row of peonies. Then she went on sewing marigolds, petunias and various other flowers.

"I thought you had planted your cosmos," said her mother.

"I have," she answered.

"Do you have two packets?" asked the mother.

"No," came the answer.

Planted Wrong Thing

The woman looked over the empty seed envelopes then with a sigh said: "I guess it is snapdragon—this packet is empty—and I wanted to plant those snapdragon some place else."

She was thankful for only one thing, that the seed she planted behind the peonies didn't happen to be moss or petunias. The snapdragon were the tall variety and they might be able to peep over the peonies.

And speaking about peonies this is the time of year that every new gardener gets worried about the big black ants all over their peony plants. They are just certain that the ants will eat all the buds—but there is really nothing to worry about. Peonies are just like picnics—they always have ants. One young girl tried and tried to get the ants off her peonies but she couldn't, then it rained and she went out to find all the ants gone. She was so delighted until she happened to look under the leaves and there were the ants—they were just smart, when the rain came they just took shelter under the peony leaves.

Try a Perennial Bed

If you want something that comes up every year without having to worry about it, try a perennial bed and just about the most satisfactory flower that grows of that kind is the platycodon or balloon plant. It comes in shades of lavender-blue and also in white. There are different varieties, of the star shaped bell-like flowers and some are even double—but they bloom profusely with nothing stopping them, drought, hot weather, bugs or disease.

Another that withstands most anything is the sweet rocket with clusters of phlox like flowers in shades of lavender and white. There is supposed to be a red one, too, and we are just itching for the new plants from seed we planted last summer to bloom to see if we really do have a red one. A nice red flower that nothing bothers is the kitten ear and for a little bright blue flower that blooms all summer and will spread quickly try the plumbago.

Canterberry Bells a Joy

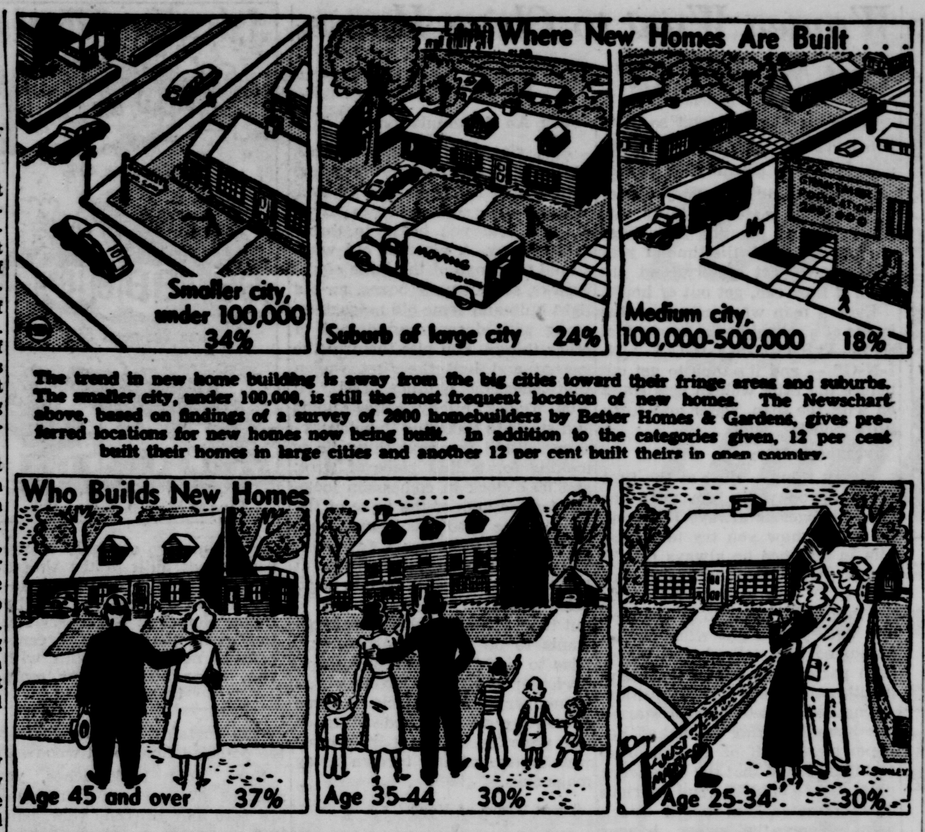
The canterberry bells are a joy in every garden in which they grow. There are two kinds of the biennial type, those are the kind you plant one year, they bloom the next and then die. There are the single bells and the cup and saucer, both are beautiful, in pinks, purples and white. The perennials are of several different varieties, all different and all very satisfactory, but do not come in the lovely shades of the biennials. Then there is also an annual type that blooms in late summer or fall.

The perennials offer such a wide variety of colorful and really easy to grow flowers that an established garden of them, with the exception of a little cultivating to get the weeds out, is a real pleasure. The seeds planted one year blooms the next but you may also buy the plants.

Shrubs, many of which may be planted now, are always a wonderful way to brighten the yard and during their blooming season give flowers for all occasions.

Then there are roses, most any type you want. One of the kinds that will cover your arbors and fences and give the least trouble are the climbers, with several now on the market being ever bloomers.

Yes, a garden of flowers is a wonderful thing, and every garden will help to make your town a more beautiful place to live.



The trend in new home building is away from the big cities toward their fringe areas and suburbs. The smaller city, under 100,000, is still the most frequent location of new homes. The Newschart above, based on findings of a survey of 2000 homebuilders by Better Homes & Gardens, gives preferred locations for new homes now being built. In addition to the categories given, 12 per cent built their homes in large cities and another 12 per cent built theirs in open country.

Two-thirds of the home building for owner-occupancy is done by families of which the head is age 35 or over. The Newschart above, based on a survey by Better Homes & Gardens, gives the percentage of new homes built by families in three leading age groups.

Check Extension Cords

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Every extension cord in your home is a compromise between safety and convenience. Therefore, before they give real trouble check and repair any damaged ones you spot.

Repairing a frayed cord or replacing a broken plug is both simple and good insurance. If the insulation is broken, but not the wires, remove the cord from the wall socket and cut off the worn covering.

Wrap the wires separately with rubber tape and then wrap them together, with friction tape.

If the wire is broken, cut out the damaged section and remove the covering for about 2 inches back on each of the cut ends. Scrape wire ends bright, twist together as illustrated, and wrap with rubber and friction tape. To add strength to a joint, offset the two splices slightly rather than have them side by side.

Many modern wall plugs cannot be repaired and must be replaced. Replacement male plugs are available at hardware stores as are the type already on older lamps. For loose cords in this type of plug, remove the fiber shield and tighten the screws.

To replace a broken plug or cord, push the cord through the cap from the rounded side. Take off the outside braid of the cord for an inch from the end, exposing the two separate covered strands of wire inside.

Cut the insulation from these wires and scrape them bright. Tie an underwriter's knot in the wires where the insulation ends and pull it against the plug shoulder. Run each wire clockwise around a prong and a binding screw. Be sure there is no contact between the bare wires.

On the other end of an extension cord is a female plug or tap, in which loose and broken wires are repaired in much the same manner as in a plug. But, before working on a tap be sure the main house switch is turned off.

The tap is opened by removing the screws or small bolts that hold its two parts together and the spring contacts and binding screws will be exposed for repair work.

Care must be exercised when using extension cords too.

1. Never jerk an extension cord from an outlet by pulling on the cord. Always grip the plug.
2. Never run cords where they can be stepped on.
3. Never allow a cord to become pinched or kinked.
4. Never nail cords to the floor or wall and keep them away from radiators and other metal equipment which might become electrified.

Good Flashing Helps Weatherproof House

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Every house, regardless of its type of construction, has certain vulnerable points which must be properly protected to keep water or moisture from seeping through. Generally, these trouble points lie where two surfaces join together.

Flashing has proved to be the best means of sealing these gaps. Flashing of non-rusting sheet metal, such as copper, is most economical and easiest to apply. In temporary construction a heavy tar paper is often substituted for metal.

Where two roofing surfaces meet at an angle, the resulting joint is first covered with flashing before the roofing is applied. This makes a watertight joint that prevents water from getting under the roofing.

When valley flashings are rusted out, repair of a permanent nature can be made by using the squares of copper bent on a line between two corners to the valley angle. The bent square can then be inserted under the shingles, starting at the bottom and working to the top.

Squares must be large enough to permit the upper edge to fit up under the second shingle about 2 inches. If nails are encountered, cut them off with a shingle hook or an old chisel. Be sure to replace the nail when the flashing is completed.

Around dormers or between any wall and roof surface, the flashing should extend up under the siding and out over the shingles. Strips 3 or 9 inches long should be applied in a series of overlapping sheets, starting at the bottom. If the siding is already in place, it can be bent and shoved up under the siding. The shingles are then laid on top of the flashing or roof, cement may be used to fasten the flashing on top of exisiting shingles.

For flashing around chimneys the metal is bent L-shaped with a lip at the top, bent away from the base of the L. The top lip should be solidly set in the mortar between bricks.

The base should be long, so that it covers enough roof to prevent water backing up either under it, if it is applied over the roofing, or under the roofing material if the flashing is under it.

In the reflashing of old chimneys the attempt is often made to fasten the metal to the outside of the chimney with mortar and roofing cement. It is extremely difficult to get a bind where some seepage will not occur.

The top lip of the flashing should be set into the chimney even if, in a repair job, it means chipping out old mortar, insertion of the lip and refilling with fresh mortar.

If flashing should come loose from a joint in the brickwork, it can be put back by chipping the mortar out of the joint and replacing it with roof cement instead of mortar.

All window and door frames, where their headings and casings fit against the wall, should have adequate flashing whether there are dry caps there or not. This flashing is merely a strip of metal bent up under the siding over the window and down over the frame. After bending to shape, nail in place with bronze hardware nails.

How New Homes Are Built

The Newschart above shows what percentage of new houses in the United States are built by contractors and what percentage are built by owners. Figures are from a survey of 2000 homebuilders made by the magazine Better Homes & Gardens.

Simple Plumbing Repairs

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Waiting for the plumber while the basement floods is funny in a cartoon, but in real life it is far from amusing.

To prevent such a situation, it is advisable that the entire household be familiar with the location of every shut-off valve. A coat of white paint applied to the valves will make them easy to recognize.

It is also a good idea to label the main shut-off valve, usually located near the meter, still more prominently, by painting a short section of the piping leading to and from it.

Before most repair work can be done on the supply system, the water must be cut off.

When a common compression faucet drips, look for the trouble in the seat washer. To replace this washer, unscrew the cap nut, turn the stem until it can be lifted out, and remove the brass retaining screw holding the washer.

If this screw is badly corroded, it should be replaced. Clean out the threads with a tap of the proper size and then seat a new washer.

To stop a faucet from leaking around the stem, try tightening the cap nut. If this doesn't work, replace the stem washer. Simply remove the handle, unscrew the cap nut and lift it off the stem.

There isn't anything more annoying than a toilet that overflows or doesn't stop running. There is no individual valve to shut off the flow of water through a toilet. To stop the flow of water, turn off the main valve or flush the tank and tie the shut-off float at a level that will shut off the water before the tank starts to refill.

If water runs steadily in the toilet bowl, the trouble generally is in the rubber ball stopper. Unscrew the ball from its guide rod and examine it. If the ball is worn or has lost its elasticity, screw on a new one.

However if the stopper ball is in good condition, clean and replace. Also clean the valve seat. Adjust the rod guide so the stopper ball and its valve seat are lined up perfectly. There should be enough clearance between the rod guide and the connector link so binding doesn't keep the ball from seating tightly.

When water in the tank constantly runs into the overflow pipe, inspect the float. If the overflow stops when the float is raised, bend the float rod slightly in the middle to lower the float a bit. If this doesn't stop the overflow, the float may be leaky and it should be replaced.

A jammed supply valve will also cause an overflow. The valve is not complicated, but it is delicate. Generally the trouble is that a screw is too tight, or that one is corroded.

Women Want to Clean House, But Men Want to Get Away

When the windows get so dirty you can't see out, the walls need wiping down, painting or papering, and the dirt in every corner of the house suddenly turns into little gremlins pointing their fingers at you—that's the time of year the women get gittery and the men, if they can, get out of house.

Even a man who never saw the inside of a school house knows that spells— "H-O-U-S-E-C-L-E-A-N-I-N-G" — and it's time to get out before the little woman gets started with the soap, water and furniture polish.

Everybody Busy

Funny thing — just at the time of year you want him mist, the paper hanger is always busy and no matter how you try to engage him in advance he always forgets about you when the right time comes. Of course you may give up in disgust and do it yourself and agin you might wind up, all entangled in a roll of wall paper, with paste in your hair, eyes and mouth and a very bad disposition.

One Sedalia woman who started her house cleaning early had her paper stemed off of a room or so and then dound that the woodwork paint had bubbles and various other diseases that might attack paint. Then the paper hanger couldn't come for a few days—so with her whole house a mess her father-in-law decided to make her a visit. She would have been so happy to have him at any other time — but here he was — and here was her house in a mess and thre wasn't a thing she could do about it. When he saw the paint he offered to help her by painting the woodwork and she had to pay about as much for some overalls for him and the things to paint with as she would have to have had had it painted. But he finished the woodwork and went home. Eventually the paper hanger got back to her and now when most people are just starting, her house cleaning is all through.

Got New Stretcher

One couple is all set now for stretching their curtains. Living in a house with very high ceiling they tried to wash their curtains last year only to find that the curtains were way too long for the stretchers—so they went down this year and bought the longest curtain stretchers they could find.

Funny thing how many things happen just when you are in the midst of housecleaning. Everybody wants to invite you out somewhere or to come and see you. Just about the time you get in the middle of cleaning the attic, the garage or the basement and get yourself nicely covered with dirt and dust somebody you hardly know comes to call. You are afraid to go to the door because it might be just who it is or somebody like her and you're afraid not to go for fear it will be something important — so to the door you go looking like a tramp. You invite them in, a bit embarrassed at the situation you are in and afraid to it down on your good furniture because you have just been sitting on a dusty box or trunk, and you spend one of the most uncomfortable half hours of your life.

Such An Accumulation

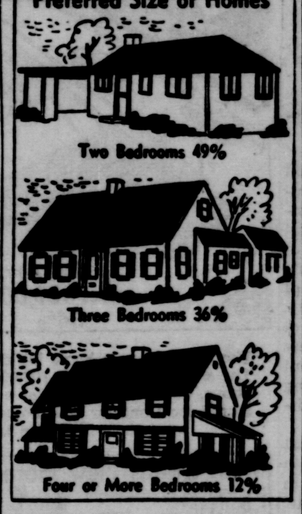
And cleaning out such places, along with closets and drawers you wonder how your family ever accumulated such a large array of junk and you begin to throw things away. A piece of old wire, an old torn map of the Lake of the Ozarks, some empty boxes, an old light bulb and some old magazines, along with dozens and dozens of other things. You pile them in the garage and hail the first wagon that goes by hauling trash. At 5:00 o'clock hubby comes home and starts to tinkering in his workshop — and the next thing he is looking for is that piece of wire; at 6:00 o'clock in comes son looking for the map of the Lake of the Ozarks—he and his gang want to go down there for a few days and want to map out the trip; at 7:00 o'clock sister wants to send off a gift and can't find a box to put it in; at 8::00 o'clock Grandma wants to do a little darning and tries to find the old light bulb to darn on; and at 9:00 o'clock you remember that the article on home decorating you wanted so much that gave those helpful little hints was in one of the thrown away magazines.

Great Time of Year

Its a great time of year — this spring housecleaning time — this rubbing, scrubbing and tubbing—there is a wonderful feeling as you open wide the windows and smell the clean smell of soap and water as you wash the woodwork, mingle with the warm air of the spring, as you see the freshness of the brightly papered walls, the sparkle of the window panes, the crispness of the curtains, and the shine on the polished floors and woodwork.

Sure, your back aches, your muscles are sore, your fingernails are soft and broken, your hands look unsightly, you haven't had a really decent meal for yourself and faimly for a week or more, and you're so tired ouy can't hardly move—but when that last little housecleaning touch is done—it's a grand and glorious feeling.

Preferred Size of Homes



Approximately one-half of the new homes built in the United States have two bedrooms, according to a recent survey by Better Homes & Gardens. The Newschart above gives percentages of new homes built with two, three and four or more bedrooms.

How to Refinish Woodwork

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

If there is a room or two in your home that has battered, dingy woodwork, why not do something about it? You can freshen up an entire room, even restyle it, by giving its woodwork a new finish.

No matter what finish is now on the woodwork, it must first be cleaned thoroughly. Old varnished surfaces generally require the use of varnish remover to clean.

Apply with an old brush, let it soak a few minutes, then scrape off the sludge with a putty knife. After the last traces have been removed, wipe the surface with a cloth saturated with denatured alcohol.

Old enameled or painted surfaces should be sanded with No. 0 sandpaper, brushed clean, then washed with a water solution of sal soda. Varnish remover may also be used to take off the paint.

When the old finish is removed, fill all cracks, nail holes and other blemishes with putty if woodwork is to be painted or wood filler for natural or stained and varnished finishes. Then smooth with No. 0 sandpaper mounted on a wood block. Dust surface just before applying any finish.

If the woodwork is to be left natural color, just apply one or two coats of interior varnish followed by a coat of clear wax.

When a stained tone is desired, brush on one coat of oil stain; allow it to soak, then wipe with a cloth to bring out the grain. Early wiping gives a lighter color; later, a darker one. Follow with a coat of thinned shellac. When dry, sand lightly and apply another coat of shellac or varnish. Waxing finishes the job.

For a bleached finish, use oxalic acid crystals or any bleach manufactured for the purpose. Follow this by sponging with clear water to remove the residue of the bleaching agent. When dry, apply a coat of varnish and one of wax.

For beauty and long life, painted woodwork should be a three or four coat job. One or two coats of undercoat or primer, then two coats of desired paint. Sand lightly with No. 0 sandpaper after each undercoat has dried.

Use a 1½-inch brush on narrow strips, such as window bars or other molded surfaces. For wider surfaces, use a 3-inch brush for faster and more even work.

Load your brush by dipping two or three times about an inch deep, wiping out on a wire stretched across the top of the bucket. Apply the paint or varnish freely in parallel strokes. Then wipe out the brush on the pot wire and cross-brush the surface. This second brushing insures even distribution of paint.

The best temperature for any kind of woodworking decorating is about 70 degrees.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

Postal service in Sedalia and in the nation right now is in process of readjustment to comply with a directive of Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson who has ordered drastic changes to become effective July 1.

Postal patrons here have not yet felt the impact of curtailed service which will become nation-wide in order to offset the department's growing deficit.

Ample notice is being given the public of impending changes. These were substantially reported in last Tuesday's Democrat and Capital in the form of a communication from the Letter Carriers' Association to City Council.

This order means all mail deliveries will be curtailed to one trip per day except in the district which is strictly a business district and this district will receive a second trip sometime during the afternoon. All mail not distributed to the carriers by 8:30 in the morning will not be delivered in the afternoons as here-to-fore but will be delayed one full day except in the business district.

Also window service and pick up of mail from street boxes will be affected. There may be a time lag of as much as forty-two hours on deliveries. There will naturally follow a slow down on mail addressed to out of town points. It will probably mean loss of jobs for 10,000 postal workers.

All of this, and much more, in reduced service has come about because of the proposed $25,000,000 cut made by the House Appropriations committee in postal appropriations for the coming fiscal year.

Already Congressmen are beginning to hear from the folks back home, from those who are far-sighted enough to realize the significance of the drastic economy moves in a department which has long been known as a public service institution, one not operating to "make money" from the public.

There has been inference the proposed drastic cuts in postal service is a pressure tactic of the department to restore its budget requirements.

But as Postmaster General Donaldson says: "To reduce cost of department operations any appreciable amount at all in the face of reduced appropriations would require taking away from the public some of the service they are now getting . . . it would be wrong to try to balance the postal budget by cutting service and by not raising the rates or the fees on classes of mail and special service transactions."

On April 20 Senator Langer (N.D.) introduced a bill to rescind the Postmaster General's order and directing that services be maintained unless otherwise provided by Congress. Senator Langer's intentions were included in Senate resolution 261 and Bill S. 3450, both of which have been referred to the Senate Post Office Committee.

In the meantime postoffices in every town in the country are spending time, effort and expense preparing for the readjustment to become fully effective July 1.

Once the curtailment is established July 1, if postal service should be ordered restored to normal after that day, there would be another period of several months of wasted time, effort and expense to readjust to normalcy.

This is serious business involving the public interest, and the public should react to it by thoughtful consideration of what curtailed postal service means to them. If they intend to protest, they must do it now, and to their Congressman.

Public opinion for economy in government is solidifying. This trend in public thinking is wholesome to observe. But there is such a thing as having a sense of values when it comes to effecting savings commensurate with the loss of service.

Economies anticipated in the proposed drastic cuts in postal service do not appear to have been gauged by a sense of values.

—o—

Some one once said that a committee is a body that keeps minutes and wastes hours.

Yet committees are the refuge of a presiding officer who knows how to delegate authority, and then relax.

Another definition: A committee is a group of important persons who, singly, think they can do nothing, but together, agree that nothing can be done.

Hendrik Van Loon has a choice definition: A committee is a group which succeeds in getting something done only when it consists of three members, one of whom happens to be sick and another absent.

Along comes William Feather, editor of Imperial Type Metal Magazine, who in the May issue opines about committees in the following manner:

"When you're young, committee meetings appear to be an efficient way of getting things done—at least we once thought so. Maybe we were flattered by being asked to serve on committees. We had an opportunity to observe older and better minds in action, and this gave us self-confidence. Sometimes we observed that the gap between our mind and theirs was not as wide as we had supposed.

"In later years we have begun to lose faith in committees, except as a means of delaying action and diluting responsibility.

"The worst feature of committees is the wasteful expenditure of energy involved in getting the members together at the appointed time. The only method we have known that was approximately efficient was to schedule the meeting for the luncheon or dinner hour. The stomach is a more effective reminder than half a dozen secretaries. But unless the host promises to pay for the meal, the attendance is usually short of a quorum.

"Assuming that a quorum is present, the mental and financial power of the personnel will likely be low. The strong wise guys will have found convenient conflicting last-minute engagements. The usual corrective is for each of those present to assume responsibility for getting one backslider to attend the next meeting. This procedure is pretty much of a bore to all concerned.

"Hence, much as we despise any form of organization that smells even faintly of dictatorship, we find ourself growing tolerant of the one man committee, particularly when we are responsible for the product of the committee."

—o—

Those responsible for creating discordant situations should first learn to play the tune before they plead for harmony, or scowl at another's cacophony.

Who first put the rift within the lute?

"It is the little rift within the lute
That by and by will make the music mute."
—Tennyson.

—o—

Sad it is when a sermon of marked erudition falls upon the ears of the uncomprehending.

—o—

Then there are those who are so opinionated—the one-track mind type, you know—that they actually deny comprehension of what they really comprehend. They read into written or spoken word ulterior motives. They are eternally suspicious of anyone who does not agree with them. Like a little dog they bark at the slightest noise or the smallest moving shadow. Day by day they must live in a personal world of mental turmoil. They should re-read "Abundant Living."

—o—

Borrowed but good:

The eager relatives gathered for the reading of the will. It just contained one sentence: "Being of sound mind, I spent every cent I had."

—o—

Well, it appears that on the Sedalia political stage, numerous party loyalists (Democrats and Republicans alike) may be divided into two classifications — the appointed, and the disappointed!

—o—

During these days of loyalty investigations, when you are under emotional stress and can think of nothing better than to call another fellow a Communist, it is a sure indication you have a limited vocabulary. Use of the word is beginning to sound sort of sissified, anyhow. Let's stick to the good old-fashioned initial words like the president uses.

—o—

Hurrah for Clean-up, Paint-up Week! While we are about it let's all take a dose of sulphur and molasses and clean out the poison in our systems now that spring weather is here—or is it?

—o—

Still good after 1900 years is Plutarch's advice: "The conduct of a wise politician is ever suited to the present posture of affairs. Often by foregoing a part he saves the whole, and by yielding in a small matter secures a greater."

To all mothers who want tulips growing on their loved one's grave.

I don't think it was human fingers that stole the tulips from a grave. It was moles. My son-in-law told me moles love tulip bulbs.

Now I made a box out of in-woven wire large enough to hold about 10 or 12 bulbs, dug a place about 8 inches deep and buried the wire box, then put about two inches of dirt in the bottom, planted the bulbs, covered them with three or four inches of dirt, then put a wire top on it, being sure there were no holes. Then cover with more dirt, level or heaped a little.

I did this and I had tulips for many years on my daughter's grave.

You see the tulips come up through the wire. Sure hope you all will try this.

White House Advisors Split Over Aid to Small Business;

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—White House advisers sat up late trying to get a final decision on the President's small business message before he left on his western trip. A highly important issue was involved, with advisers split wide open over it.

THE ISSUE WAS: Whether to promote government loans to small business through the RFC, or to set up new private banks for loans to small business.

LINED UP AGAINST RFC LOANS WERE: Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Federal Reserve Chairman Tom McCabe.

LINED UP FOR RFC LOANS WERE: Stephen Spingarn, White House assistant; and Senator Taft, who, as ranking GOP member of the joint committee on the economic report, was consulted.

Both sides, however, agreed on what's happening to small business. It can't borrow long-term risk capital.

Small business can get plenty of short-term money from commercial banks, but not ten and twelve-year money. Furthermore it can't borrow from most insurance companies, which frown on speculative ventures and also want to deal in large amounts. In addition, the private capitalists of the old days are gone, and the investment bankers won't undertake to float stocks or bonds unless the issue runs into several millions.

To remedy this, it was proposed to put the RFC in the Commerce department and let it specialize on loans to small business. However, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Senator O'Mahoney and others felt that government should not subsidize business; also should not be in the position of having life and death loan powers over business.

Therefore a plan was worked out with able Chairman Tom McCabe of the Federal Reserve Board whereby private banks could be set up, with the backing of Federal Reserve government money, for the express purpose of lending money to small business.

It was admitted that this plan would be more complicated, but in the long run would be better than outright government loans to small business.

NOTE—There's growing sentiment both inside the government and on capitol hill to abolish the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Established during the Hoover administration to cope with the Wall Street crash, it has now pretty much outgrown its need.

Europe vs. McCarthy

Few people realize how badly American foreign policy has been undermined by the McCarthy-Communist campaign. Here are a few samples of what's happening abroad.

IN CHINA, the name "McCarthy" is pronounced exactly as if it were "MacArthur," and the impression has spread that General MacArthur was waging a near-revolt against the State Department. In fact, the impression has been created in some parts of the Far East, where the public is not well informed, that the U.S.A. is near revolt.

IN PRIMITIVE ALBANIA, the Communist government, after long pressure from the West, was expected to do a Tito. But it hasn't. And a partial reason has been Soviet propaganda that the State department was full of Communists—"an American Senator says so"—and that the United States would soon come over to the Communist Albanian side.

IN FRANCE, ITALY, BELGIUM and other Atlantic pact countries, the reaction has been most harmful of all. For some time these countries had experienced a wave of "neutrality," which has now grown to new heights. People in these once Nazi-occupied countries have argued that they did not want to get in the middle of another war, would much rather be neutral. That has been one reason for opposition to the North Atlantic pact.

Now, on top of this neutrality wave has come the McCarthy charges of Communists in the State department, which to poorly informed Europeans means that the United States is likely to go over to Russia leaving Western Europe out on a limb.

Therefore, it's not difficult to understand why neutrality sentiment and opposition to the North Atlantic pact has grown more than ever.

Report to Senate

Prior to his departure for Europe, Secretary of State Acheson told the Senate Foreign Relations committee behind closed doors that the United States is prepared to fight rather than retreat from Berlin. He also said the threat of a Soviet invasion of Yugoslavia had "calmed down," and reported that the British aren't getting along well in Communist China, can't even get the Chinese Communists to discuss exchanging ambassadors. Finally Acheson disclosed that Communist guerrillas in southeast Asia are getting their arms, not from Russia, but from the Philippines. They are stolen from surplus war stockpiles.

They May Yet Get Out of the Woods

Music Modes

IN the biography shelf of the Sedalia Public Library lies a book entitled "We Called It Music"—this is, actually, an enormous understatement and it is authored by one of the leading exponents of the rocking, bouncing and fast paced music called "Dixie," "Chicago Jazz" and a special Greenwich Village variety. He is Albert Edwin Condon. Of course, to the thousands of jazz lovers he's just plain, Eddie Condon, master of the banjo, the guitar and one of the biggest jazz organizers in the country.

Eddie was born five years following the turn of the century on November 16, in Benton county, Indiana. From the time he jangled his father's nerves and was sent to the basement to learn his chords, by the light of the furnace, through its open door, Eddie has virtually lived with one purpose in life—jazz. His style of telling his adventures into the world of jazz music is with such a witty sense of humor and so full of informality, that you can not help but realize what a personable character he really is. His events, with the growing child of music, are stories about the green jazzmen who have now passed. The book is dedicated to Bix; and for your information, it would be near suicide and would take a lot of nerve to ask Eddie—"Who's Bix?" You would probably be doused with a retort that would end your questioning for hours. You see Eddie was quite impressed with Bix and Bix's musicianship.

All Were Impressed

In fact everyone that had been fortunate enough to be an audience for the man was impressed. He was unique in his style and his never ending drive and working of new ideas, not only with his cornet, but with his piano too. When Eddie first saw Bix his impression was "what can this guy do?" . . . Bix was in his usual form. He wore a peak hat with a crushed peak, a collarless shirt and a rumpled green overcoat that didn't enhance his appearance. From that moment when the first note slipped out of Bix's silver cornet, Eddie was his ardent follower. After that first band, in which they both played, Eddie pulled every string he could get his hands on to bring Bix into the same outfit he was working with. And the result of his efforts found the two working together quite often along with a variety of other personnel.

Went Out With Bing

Once, when they were both working in Chicago—with different bands however. Bix was with Whiteman and Eddie was with another unit—they were invited out to a private party to furnish some of their special styled jazz. They were accompanied by another young man — also with Whiteman—by the name of Bing Crosby. The boys "played the devil" out of their favorite jazz numbers. The party was going well and Crosby kept saying, "Lovely People." Bix, however, was having a little trouble with one of the hosts. Incidentally, the invitation was extended to the boys by a friend of Bing's. The guests were not really acquainted with them. Bix would get into an argument with a big burly man and would pop off with "Aw shut up." This went on for hours. Finally, when the boys were driving away in a chauffered car of the hosts, Eddie said, "Remember the guy you kept telling to shut up?" Bix said, "Sure, his name is Capone — Bottles Capone," said Condon. Bottles was Al's little brother, but he didn't need Al to take care of him. Crosby ended the conversation with "lovely people."

The series of hectic and entertaining adventures that compose the book end with a story about Fats Waller's Carnegie Hall concert. The event was a big one for jazz and was brought about through the efforts of Eddie, a friend by the name of Ernie Anderson, Fats and a girl that was to become Eddie's wife, Phyllis Smith.

Hectic Adventures

Now Fats was a lover of many things but the final analysis left three: his piano, his music and gin. Before the concert Fats indulged in the latter and when he was ready to drop his shot glass and stop talking to a host of his friends, who had gathered back stage, he strolled out before the crowd. He was scheduled to play ninety-one numbers. In the first group he was to merely give his interpretations of the various selections. Regardless of what he started on he would somehow invariably drag in traces of Gershwin's "Summertime."

Always "Summertime"

The original melody would take over for the intro and then the improvisation would start — then there would be "Summertime." He couldn't get away from it. He even included in his groups a few variations on a theme by Tschaikovsky. Suddenly the lazy haunting strains of "Summertime" appeared again. Gershwin was honored. In fact following the concert Oscar Levant remarked "I never realized until I heard Fats tonight how much Tschaikovsky owes to Gershwin." The definite presence of the "Summertime" theme did not degrade the true essence of the concert. Fats managed to bring something new and different to every number and although "Summertime" was popular it was not hackneyed with identical or repeated renditions. The concert was a fine success and Fats was there with his favorite phrase—"Fine, perfect, wonderful."

This 308 page book winds up with an informal discography of Eddie Condon's recordings. There are several factual chapters intergrated into the Condon writings by Thomas Sugrue. The discography is by John Swingle. The book was published in 1947. The review is rather late, but regardless, the material within the book covers is good reading and entertaining.

THE STORY: Falling in love had been far from Clemency Norton's plans when she became nursery governess in a luxurious home in the North African desert. But she soon lost her heart to Piers Amberley, owner of the home and brother-in-law of Syrie Amberley who had engaged Clemency for her daughter Baba. Syrie, despising Jon, her husband, and in love with Piers herself, is angered over Clemency's engagement to Piers. Jon himself comes to the nursery where Baba is ill, and tells Clemency she "ought to know" that Piers and Syrie once had been engaged; that after Syrie's marriage, Piers had invited them to live at his home so that he and Syrie could be together. Although Jon apparently had been drinking heavily, Clemency is indignant at this slur on Piers and later finds Piers and Syrie talking. Their remarks lead Clemency to believe Jon had spoken the truth. After Clemency rushes out of the room, Syrie tells Piers to let explanations wait until Clemency has cooled off.

CLEMENCY went to the night nursery, glad of the dim light as she thanked Justine for watching Baba. The Frenchwoman would have lingered to chat, but it was manifestly impossible at the sleeping child's bedside. Justine murmured that the little one seemed feverish, and left almost at once.

Clemency stood by the cot, her clenched hands pressed tightly against her breast, conscious of that awful bruised feeling inside her. The minutes passed without her being aware of their passing, until the sound of someone moving in the nursery roused her.

"Hush!" Clemency warned in a quick, urgent whisper as the communicating door was pushed open.

From the lighted room behind, Syrie beckoned. For a moment Clemency was filled with a fierce resentment against that summons, then she went through into the other room.

"You look ghastly!" exclaimed Syrie. "Don't you want something to pull yourself together?"

"No, thank you." Clemency replied. "You wanted to speak to me?"

"Yes. Importantly. Sit down, please."

Clemency sat on a chair next to the table, her eyes on Syrie's face as the other remained standing.

• • •

SYRIE burst out: "I could kill Jon! Of course I felt sure that he would make mischief. He has made himself crazy with jealousy of Piers."

"Is it true," asked Clemency, "that you and Piers were engaged before—"

"Before I met Jon. Yes." Syrie nodded. "But that was long ago. And—whatever has been between us is finished and done with. I wish you would understand that." She spoke with quick urgency. "Just what did Jon tell you?" she asked.

"That Piers brought him here because he wanted you near him." Saying the thing made it worse—if that was possible. "Is that true?" she heard herself asking.

Syrie looked at her, and turned her eyes quickly away. "Jon was drunk. I suppose. You must know he drinks."

Clemency rose, her low voice suddenly strong and steady. "I don't care about that. I want to know how much of the truth he spoke."

"Listen," Syrie urged. "I came here to try to make you believe how little it all mattered. It's been over and finished with for a long time. I hated you—but I know I've got to give him up to you. He loves you—really. You're a new beginning for him."

Every carefully chosen sentence—those sentences which seemed to come so spontaneously—struck a fresh knife into her listener's heart. "My dear," she said, her great eyes suddenly filling with tears, "men are—men! I suppose I was really to blame. After all, I married Jon; but you don't know how sickening he is, how weak. And Piers— Oh! I suppose I ought to have insisted on going away; but—you know what it means to love Piers!"

"Then—it's true! He was—your lover? Oh—"

It was a cry from the heart.

Syrie simply repeated obstinately, her eyes on the floor:

"I tell you, it's all over now—it was over months ago. Before you came here."

"What does that matter—if it once existed? How could you? How could you both?" Without waiting for a reply to the question Clemency went back into the night nursery and through to her own room.

• • •

TWICE during the night Clemency had gone in to Baba, hearing the child tossing and turning. Once Baba had coughed herself awake, but she grew quieter after Clemency gave her a dose of the simple soothing syrup that was always kept in the nursery cupboard.

Each time Clemency had returned to her room and flung herself down on the bed again.

Now at last she knew that the ghastly night was past and dawn was here. Yet she dreaded the day even more.

Bruised, shamed and humiliated, the one clear thought in her mind was that she must get away from here at once. To remain under this roof after what she had learned, was impossible; the very thought of seeing Piers terrified her.

That Piers, whom she had believed to be everything fine and splendid, should have done this thing was incredible and unforgivable.

Yet she knew that she loved Piers and would love him as long as he lived, even though she did not want to face him, would have given anything not to have seen him again. Once more that panicky desire to fly clutched hold of her. But where to, and how?

Sitting up and pushing the hair back from her face she looked at the diamond circlet on her finger. The symbol of a dream that was over. She pulled it off and sat with it in the palm of her hand.

She decided that she would put it in an envelope and just give it to Piers—but if only she could get away without seeing him!

Abundant Living

John 1:12—13; 15:1—18

RECEPTIVITY—THE FIRST LAW OF LIFE

We carry over from last week our ladder out of negativism and inferiority. Since the Kingdom belongs to you, (9) remember the two conditions for receiving and transmissing the resources of the Kingdom: receptivity and response.

These two words are not only the alternate heartbeats of the Kingdom; they are also the alternate beats of the whole of life. Everything grows and develops by those two things: receptivity and response. John sums up this thought in these words: "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become." How did he get power—power to become? First, by receptivity—"as many as received him."

A universal principle is here laid bare. Take a plant—how does it get power to become? By being proud, self-sufficient, unrelated, and unresponsive? No; by surrendering, adjusting, receiving, giving. Suppose a plant tried to get power by asserting itself, by trying to "lord it" over the other plants—result? It would lose its power over other plants and its power to become. It gains power by surrender and by response to its environment. When it is adjusted it takes in from air and soil and sun, and gains power to become. Plant sin is anything that hinders that receptivity and response.

Someone has defined life as response to environment. You and I live physically when we respond to our physical environment; we can take in food and light and air. When response is shut off, we die physically. Our spiritual environment is the Kingdom of God. When we respond to it, surrender to it, adjust ourselves to it, receive our very life from it, then we live—and live abundantly. We are in a state of receptivity, which is a state of faith, confidence, appropriation. We absorb Kingdom life as the body absorbs food; we breathe in its purifying breath as the lungs breathe in air, we take up its vitality as the skin takes in vitamins from the light of the sun.

To believe is to receive and to receive is to replenish.

O God, Thou who dost wrap me round as the atmosphere wraps my body round, let me respond to Thee as my physical body responds to its environment and lives. Let me breathe Thee now—deep breaths of Thee; let me receive Thee into every pore and fiber of my being. Help me to live by Thee—then I shall live. Amen.

Tonight at 7 p. m. over KMBC, Charlie McCarthy gets into another spot, and attempts to use songstress Dinah Shore as his guest star to raise money to pay for damages in his latest escapade. It's another hilarious half-hour with all the familiar Bergen characters taking part.

At 8:30 this evening, KMBC will present the Horace Heidt program in its third and last origination from overseas. Tonight's program originates in Vienna, Austria, and features U. S. soldiers stationed abroad, as contestants on the youth opportunity program.

Livestock marketcaster Bob Riley originates several programs over The KMBC-KFRM Team each day, direct from the Kansas City Livestock Exchange building. Bob's up-to-the-minute marketcasts, plus his comments and analysis of market trends and conditions, are of invaluable aid to people living in the Kansas City Trade Area. Bob's first weekday morning broadcast is presented at 6:25, on KMBC. He's back again at 9:50 a. m. with a report of early morning activity at the stockyards, and his final summary of the day is heard at 12:30 p. m., as part of KMBC's Dinnerbell Roundup. Bob's an expert in his field, and is regarded as one of the top authorities in the Midwest.

Ray Milland stars in "Confession" on Hollywood Star Playhouse Monday evening at 7 on KMBC. This particular story is an espionage thriller involving the Gestapo of a country behind the Iron Curtain. It has a unique story line, one that will be of particular interest to drama fans. We'd like to invite you to tune in.

Ralph Edwards and his "This is your Life" program makes its debut over KMBC on Tuesday evening at 8:30 p. m. This delightful human-interest program features the life stories of real people, in a series of flash-backs. We think you'll enjoy this program a great deal, so don't forget to add it to your "must" list on Tuesday night at 8:30 on KMBC.

A specially created KMBC program "Square Dance Time," heard at 8:30 each Friday night, continues to win new friends. The program, featuring David Andrews as emcee, and members of the famed Brush Creek Follies cast as star performers, moves along at a lively pace. Western songs and music, plus light comedy and banter, makes the program one of those easy-to-listen-to favorites. A lot of fine entertainment is packed into the program, and just in case you missed hearing it the last several weeks, we'd like to suggest that you tune in this Friday evening.

Life with the Tax Gremlins:

Thank You for Nothing

EDITOR'S NOTE: "Life With the Tax Gremlins" is a 12-part thumbnail story of the nation's complicated tax structure. The characters: Uncle Sam himself, his Gremlin, State and Local Tax Gremlins, and you—the taxpayers. It's from an "American Affairs" pamphlet published by the National Industrial Conference Board of New York, an independent, non-profit fact-finding institution supported by business, labor and other groups. Some of the articles include comment by Richard A. Mullens, Washington tax expert and author of NEA's annual "Income Tax Primer," which appears each year in The Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

We have to share our cigarettes with all three Gremlins.

The federal tax is .....7 cents
The average state tax is 3 cents
Indirect tax .....1 cent

Total .....11 cents

What the big gremlin takes is $1.2 billion a year. That runs the Federal Government for 11 days.

If everybody stopped smoking cigarettes, what would happen? That would make everything worse. The government would have to increase taxes on something else to fill the Gremlins' bag. Moreover, the cigarette factories would close and then more taxes, not only to take care of the unemployed but to support the tobacco growers.

So we have to smoke for the Gremlins.

Kelly-Miller, First Big Circus To Visit Sedalia In Seven Years Coming Wednesday, May Seventeenth

Above: One of the many beautiful horse-drawn animal dens, that will bring the second largest wild animal circus in America to Sedalia for an afternoon and night performance on Wednesday, May 17th at the West U. S. 50 grounds.

REAL OLD FASHIONED CIRCUS COMING

With many horse-drawn cages, and floats, the Al G. Kelly & Miller Bros. Circus will give a version of the real "old time circus," that in recent years have been absent when circuses have visited the community.

The Kelly-Miller organization, prides in its long string of pure-bred Percheron and Clydesdale draft horses, that are not only a show by themselves, but are of great assistance in moving the large all-steel wagons during the unloading and loading of this big circus. So, in reality "the old-timer" can't truthfully say "It isn't like the circus I saw when I was a boy."

On Wednesday, May 17, which marks the arrival of the first big circus to our community in seven years, the draft horses will play no small part in making one of America's most cherished holidays "Circus Day" a complete success.

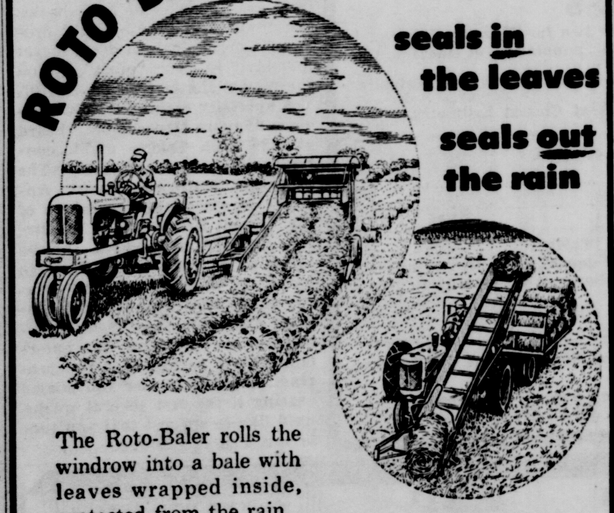
ROTO BALING



The Roto-Baler rolls the windrow into a bale with leaves wrapped inside, protected from the rain.

To feed it simply unroll the bale . . . and you have the hay just as it was in the field — soft, leafy, with the color and protein still there.

Rolled bales shed rain like a thatched roof. They store compactly, will not buckle, may be unrolled, or fed whole in the open feed rack.

The ONE-MAN ROTO-BALER is priced for home ownership. Stop in and talk to us about a Roto-Baler for your farm.

Mirrors Aid Polio Patients

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Boredom is one of the major hindrances to recovery of polio patients in iron lungs. The victim lies prone in a respirator, a single narrow mirror affording the only view of the outside world.

Thanks to William Smith, patients in the Rancho Los Amigos polio ward have a renewed interest in life. Smith, at the request of his wife, herself a polio patient, installed huge rectangular mirrors over the heads of every patient in the ward. They are able to watch nurses and others with ease.

Jerusalem Tns Youth Villiage

JERUSALEM—(AP)—A new youth Villiage is operating in the urbanarea of Jerusalem for immigrant children from all parts of the earth. The villiage consists of 250 acres and 20 buildings.

Its population already numbers 150 children between the ages of 10 and 17. They came from India, Turkey, North Africa, Poland, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and France through the "Youth Aliyah" organization. Another 100 children are expected shortly.

Men Without Football

CHICAGO—(AP)—It's not lack of manpower that keeps the University of Chicago ont of big time football. The latest count shows that the total enrollment on the campus is 8,421—including 6,324 men.

Former Paper Boy Writes Paul R. Mines

Tells Him of Conditions He Finds on Saipan

An interesting letter from Edward H. Bryant, former Democrat carrier boy, now in the navy and stationed at Saipan, was received by Paul Mines, circulation manager.

The letter, in part, follows:

"I have been on the move ever since I left home Christmas. I got back to Port Hueneme the third of January and left there the 23 of January, and went to T. I. in San Francisco. Stayed there until the 2nd of February, when I went aboard the U.S.S. Virgo A.K.A. 20 to come to Saipan. We left the States the 4th of February, but the 6th we had taken on 4,100 pounds of high explosives, and talk about a bunch of scared boys, we really were.

"We landed in Guam on the 23rd of February and while I was there I got to see Bill DeHaven. I saw him twice before I left. I left Guam the first of March and got to Saipan on the 2nd.

"While I was at T. I. I saw Jim Dittmer and Karl Brosing, two boys I graduated from high school with.

Had An Accident

"Right after I got out here I had an accident. There were four of us going out to dump some junk over the cliff into the ocean. At the time of the accident we were turning an all-metal table over to get it to the end of the truck so we could roll it over the side. The table weighed about five or six hundred pounds and I had just about two inches to stand on the truck when the table was turned over and it knocked me off backwards onto the ground. Then I rolled over the cliff and fell about 15 feet to a ledge and then rolled down to another ledge about five feet below and then rolled into the water.

Carter, who was with me, had gotten down to the first ledge and was throwing a rope to me. I tied the rope around my waist and the boys tried to pull me out, but while they were tying the rope to the truck, I was swinging in a 15-foot arch by the waves. They took me back to the hut and I put on some dry clothes and then they took me to the hospital for a check-up, but all they could find wrong was that I had a cut on my right leg, and they took a stitch in it. Just the day before we had seen two or three sharks in the water and they were about eight or ten feet long, so you can see what I was thinking about all the time I was in the water."

Winnipeg Menaced By Flood

Raging Waters Crush Dykes—In U. S. Storms Leave Vast Destruction

By The Associated Press

Rampaging flood waters crushed all dykes but one protecting Winnipeg, Canada, Saturday and total evacuation of the city of 300,000 became a grim possibility.

Meanwhile, a vicious spring storm turned its destructive course into Canada after leaving a trail of multimillion dollar damage, and at least 11 persons dead and scores injured in the central United States.

A twelfth victim was drowned in New York, where an offshot of the midwest storm roared up the St. Lawrence river valley with winds up to 70 miles an hour, overturning boats and damaging docks.

Fresh floods, from melting of recent heavy snows, hit Crookston, Minn., and moved toward Grand Forks, N. D. Neither city has completely recovered from floods which hit them last month.

A. J. Taunton, deputy city engineer in Winnipeg, said "things have gotten out of hand" and that "the city has come to the end of flood defense fighting."

Presumably he meant no further efforts could be made to hold back the fast-rising waters of the Red river.

The Canadian storm skipped across Ontario with winds up to 80 miles an hour.

The steel framework of a school being erected in New Toronto, a Toronto suburb, collapsed.

Three persons were killed in both Iowa and Wisconsin, two in Illinois and one each in Nebraska, Texas, and Ohio.

Cooler temperatures followed in the Wake of the storm and locally heavy rain or snow fell in North Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and the Lake area Superior region.

The winds, which reached up to 100 miles an hour in gusts in a few spots, pounded the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

The gales flattened buildings, uprooted trees, smashed windows and ripped out communications. Damage in Superior, Wis., alone was estimated at several million dollars.

The winds followed on the heels of Thursday night's tornadoes in Texas and Oklahoma which killed one person and injured several others.

Find Pensioner And Wife Shot

REYNOLDS, Neb., May 6—(AP)—An ailing World War One pensioner and his wife were shot to death today in what Jefferson County Attorney Robert B. Denney termed murder and suicide.

Between the shootings, the man stalked the neighborhood of his home armed with two guns. Two persons said they were fired on.

The county attorney said Ralph Flagle, 58, first shot his wife, Nera 57, and then took his own life

There will be no inquest, Denney said.

Approve Strike Settlement

DETROIT, May 6—(AP)—CIO United Auto Workers members gave over-whelming approval today to the strike settlement their union leaders reached with Chrysler Corp.

Acheson off To Europe for Conferences

Calls on West To Rally Against Communists

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson set out for Europe today with a grim warning that the non-Communist world faces "increasingly crucial tests in the years immediately ahead."

He said that because of the threat of international Communism, the free nations of the world must speed up the mobilization of their "moral and material strength" and must do so "with utmost vigor."

That, he emphasized in a formal statement, will be his own major purpose in talking with British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Minister Schuman in Paris and London next week, and in meeting with the North Atlantic Treaty Council the week following.

What he hopes for and trusts to get out of the diplomatic conferences, he said, is "a new sense of community in the North Atlantic area."

He declared that he was encouraged in his approach to the meetings by the bi-partisan cooperation he has received from Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress alike.

Emphasizing the importance attached to Acheson's trip, President Truman saw him off at the airport.

Wishing Acheson "bon voyage and good luck," Mr. Truman told his chief diplomatic official:

"I know very well you are going to have successful meetings in Europe which will make a contribution to the peace of the world."

President of Nicaragua Dies

PHILADELPHIA, May 6—(AP)—The president of Nicaragua, Dr. Victor Roman Y Reyes, died at Hahnemann hospital here tonight. He was 77 years of age, and suffered from cancer.

President Roman came to Hahnemann hospital—where he had served his internship a half century ago—to undergo treatment for a cancerous ulcer of the stomach. He was operated on April 3.

Doctor Roman Y Reyes was elected president by a constituent assembly August 15, 1947. He had previously been foreign minister for a year. Earlier he had served as consulant San Francisco, minister of hygiene and senator.

Back Broken in Two Places In Fall

James E. McNeal, 1020 East Broadway, broke his back in two different places Saturday morning. While painting his front porch he slipped from a six-foot ladder and fell backwards, striking his back on a portion of concrete.

He was taken to the office of Dr. D. P. Dyer for X-Rays and then was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin's ambulance.

Mr. McNeal is a coach truckman at the Missouri Pacific shops in Sedalia.

C. C. Roundup To Enlarge Membership

A Chamber of Commerce membership drive, in the form of a "Spring Roundup" will be held Tuesday. O. W. Wiley, director of the membership division of the Chamber of Commerce, is in charge.

Approximately 75 businessmen and members of the Chamber of Commerce have agreed to participate in this round up and will call personally on several hundred prospects. The Chamber of Commerce is anxious to have all who are not members to join next Tuesday.

A Round Up day is planned to start with a "Saddle Up" breakfast at the "El Rancho" Bothwell, more commonly known at the Hotel Bothwell, to which all workers are invited. There they will receive the contracts they are to make during the day. During this breakfast "Constable" Noel Tweet will make a statement as to the laws of the range and O. W. Wiley, head of the "cattlemen's association," will outline the activities for the day. Also a skit on salesmanship has been prepared by "Hop-along" A. W. Haller and "Lone Ranger" Abe Silverman, to be given at this time.

To Dress "Fittin'"

All workers are encouraged to dress fittun' for the role as cowhands working on the range roundin' up all prospects for membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and some of them are even expected to arrive on horseback.

Sitdown Delays TWA., Airliner

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, May 6—(AP)—A man who identified himself as H. V. Kaltenborn, the radio commentator, staged a "sit-down strike" today aboard a TWA airliner here, Joseph McStay, assistant TWA station master here, said.

The plane, Chicago-bound from New York, was delayed 11 minutes. The man boarded the plane in New York without a reservation, McStay said, promising to get off in case sufficient passengers with reservations at subsequent stops filled the ship to capacity.

This happened at Zanesville. The man, according to McStay, refused to leave, saying he had to be in Columbus, Ohio, by 7:30 p. m. EST. It was then about 5:30 p. m.

Finally, McStay and the pilot, Capt. B. McConaghy, offered to pay his taxicab fare to Columbus, about 60 miles away. The man would not leave the plane until cab driver Russell Albert came aboard and promised to get him to Columbus by 7:30 p. m.

H. V. Kaltenborn was registered at a Columbus hotel tonight, but could not be reached for comment. He is to address the Ohio State University's Radio Institute tomorrow.

Music in the Home Week, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, Chairman

This week, in addition to being Music Week, is "Music in the home Week" and Mrs. Abe Rosenthal of the Helen G. Steele Music club has been appointed as chairman of the Helen G. Steele club's "Music in the Home" program.

Music in the home has become more active and more predominate than it has been in the years past. Music in the home now has several mediums in which it can be enjoyed, the record player, the radio and more recently the television set.

Years ago the music of any great value could be had only by actual personal performances of artists and orchestras. Now the grandeur of a big symphony orchestra or of the extremely high priced artist can be heard right in the homes of the average music lovers.

Another Meaning

Music in the home has another meaning too. Often it is a family affair with the entire group participating in group sing or even instrumental performances. Small children are first conscious of "music in the home" when they are taught to sing little folk songs by their mother and father. When they leave and attend the elementary grades or school they have additional contact with music and bring it back to their home life. In later years music lessons become a part of the home life with the youngsters practicing vocal as well as instrumental instruction.

Hymnals Given Away

Religious music has its palce in the music in the home and this is exemplified by the response that was made when the Helen G. Steele Music club placed the hymnals they received from the late Mrs. Charles Bard estate in the corridor of the county court house. The hymnals were to be given to anyone who desired one. The supply was soon liquidated by the many people that called for them.

It is in the home where music is first learned and it is there where it is most readily enjoyed.

The Weather

Increasing cloudiness north, followed by showers in afternoon north and mostly cloudy with showers and scattered thunderstorms south Sunday, continuing Sunday night; cooler north Sunday; Monday partly cloudy and cooler with showers southeast and extreme south ending during day; highs Sunday 60s northeast to 80s southwest.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

To trust God, as seen in the face of His Son, and to believe that He loves us, that is faith, that is what we must do to be saved. And to love God, as seen in the face of His Son and to seek to testify our love by our whole life—that is Christian duty; that is all we have to do.—A. H. Boyd.

Round Table Discussion At Rotary Club

A round table discussion on "Conservation and Resources' will be conducted at the Rotary Club meeting Monday noon at the Bothwell hotel by Gen. John C McLaughlin, Kenneth U. Love, Rev. D. Warren Neal and George H. Routszong.

Dr. Roy M. Keller will be program chairman.

Negro Youths Admit Killing

Confessed Other Crimes to State Highway Patrol

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Two slender Negro youths, A.W.O.L. from the airforce admitted to the State Highway Patrol here today they killed a Stanley, N. M., rancher last Tuesday night.

Afterward, they confessed, they embarked on a running foray of crime, involving car theft, armed robbery and kidnaping, Capt C. E. Potts of the patrol said.

Captain Potts said the pair signed statements admitting that one of them, Howard Taft Miller, 19, of Guilford, N. C., killed the rancher because Miller wanted to go home to see his mother.

The other young Negro was identified as Jesse Session, 20, of San Francisco. Both were privates at Kirtland air force base at Albuquerque, they said. Both waived extradition to New Mexico. Authorities in Santa Fe said by telephone they would start after the two immediately.

Their victim was identified by New Mexico authorities as George Davis, Jr., 29 years old and unmarried.

Miller said in his statement they hitched a ride with Davis from in front of a tavern near Cline's Corner, close to Albuquerque. Davis came from the Tavern, Miller and Session said, and he agreed to give them a lift.

Slain at Side of Road

About four miles down the road, their confessions agreed, Miller forced Davis to stop and at gunpoint took him off to one side, about 40 feet from the highway.

New Mexico authorities said Davis was beaten about the head and a single bullet had coursed upward from his upper shoulder, striking finally at the base of his brain.

Miller admitted in his confession he made Davis lie down before Miller shot him point blank with a 38-caliber pistol. He said he took $7 from Davis' body.

From that time on, their confession said, they either hitched rides or stole cars to continue their flight. They told the patrol they stole a car near El Reno, Okla., and at another point, somewhere in Oklahoma, robbed a filling station.

Oklahoma police reported at Enid, Okla., filling station was robbed early Friday and the attendant was forced to accompany the two Negro robbers for three hours.

The car they admitted stealing in Oklahoma broke down in St. Clair, county Mo., the two told the patrol.

Fled in Automobile

They stopped at a highway intersection near Weaubleau, Mo., and when a St. Louis driver paused at the junction, they said, they jumped in his car.

The St. Louisan, P. S. Larson (9540 Old Bonhome), drove the two to Eldon, Mo., 30 miles southwest of here. He got out last night on the pretex of getting some sandwiches. He called the highway patrol, but the two men fled in his automobile.

The patrol threw up roadblocks and last night officers warned residents in the area to look out for the fugitives. The high school youth, Pettrich, remembered the warning when he spotted the pair this morning. He called the patrol and officers captured Session and Miller without trouble. Larson's car was found where it had been abandoned.

Potts said the pair would be returned to New Mexico but kidnaping charges would also be filed in Missouri, "just in case they go free in New Mexico."

Potts said he had not had time to check with Oklahoma police on the robbery because "we had so much on them.

"But when we found out about the murder we decided to give New Mexico the first chance."

Friday evening State Trooper Pete Stohr, Wayne Allman and Glenn Means, who had been checking overweight trucks in the Sedalia vicinity were notified to go on the road blocks of the State Patrol in an endeavor to apprehend two Negroes, wanted for kidnapping and murder.

Allman and Means went to Highway 52 and 65 and worked east while Trooper Stohr hurriedly drove through Sedalia and began checking cars on Highway 50 and worked to Tipton where he was stationed at 50 and 5 highways.

Over $1,000,000 Worth of Cattle

KANSAS CITY, May 6—(AP)—More than $1,000,000 worth of dairy cattle from Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri went on parade today at the second American Royal dairy cattle show.

Entered in the show are 1,100 animals selected in regional shows earlier this spring in the three states.

Six breeds are represented—Guernsey, Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey, Milking Shorthorn and Brown Swiss.

The Guernseys will be judged first starting tomorrow. A. M. Paterson, secretary-manager of the show, said the Guernseys will be taken to Oklahoma City next Wednesday for the national Guernsey show and sale.

The eight-day rodeo held in connection with the dairy show opened today.

Verne Elliott, producer of the Rodeo, said at least two-thirds of the nearly 200 cowboys entered are either present or past champions in their specialities.

Senator Harry Darby, Kansas City, Kas., was elected president of the American Royal Association in a meeting of the board of directors today.

John Wilkin, Kansas City, was elected to the board to succeed Clarence Cox, who resigned.

Since Darby will be in Washington mos of the time, affairs of the Royal will be carried on by ar executive committee.

Fire Renewed By McCarthy

Senator Myers Defends Integrity Of Department

WASHINGTON. May 6—(AP)—Senator McCarthy tonight accused the Truman administration of "deceit and dishonesty" in dealing with his charges of communists in government. McCarthy was accused in turn of failing to offer "any evidence whatsoever" about wholesale disloyalty.

McCarthy, speaking at Chicago, assailed President Truman's action in making available to the investigators state department loyalty files on 81 cases cited by the Wisconsin Republican. He said these files were inadequate and "phony."

But Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, deputy Democratic leader in the senate, said in a speech at Honesdale. Pa., that McCarthy had failed to come through with anything but "new charges" when investigators tried to pin down his allegations about state department employes.

Myers, who did not mention McCarthy by name, declared that the government's employes "have been given a clean bill of health after thorough investigation" during the government's four-year loyalty program which works "hand in glove" with the FBI.

Would Retain Faith

"We can't afford," Myers said, "to lose our faith in the integrity of the Department of State at this critical point in world affairs."

McCarthy bitterly attacked Secretary of State Acheson again, saying "the days of dilettante diplomacy are running out on Mr. Acheson and his fancy comrades of the Kremlin."

Contempt citations for Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field were laid before senate communist investigators today with a recommendation that they take action against the pair.

The group will consider Monday whether to vote to cite the two men who defied a senate Foreign Relations subcommittee by refusing to answer a number of questions.

Meanwhile, on the house side, the attorney for William W. Remington turned his fire on Chairman Woods (D-Ga) of the Unamerican Activities committee.

The lawyer, Joseph L. Rauh, charged that Wood has pre-judged the new loyalty investigation of Remington, young commerce department official who has denied testimony that he was a communist.

As Rauh met reporters in a news conference, the committee was hearing from Elizabeth T. Bentley, avowed ex-courier for Russian spies, who first leveled the communism charge at Remington. She appeared today behind closed doors.

Turn Heat Against Gambling

Directed On Big Time Set-Ups In Cities — Congress Joins In Probe

By Don Whitehead

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The "heat is on" big-time gambling.

City and state officials have joined forces with the federal government in a move against the nation's tremendous bookmaking and organized gambling business.

It's a hidden, fast flowing pipeline pumping money out of the American purse. Unofficial estimates are that illegal betting runs into many billions each year. The profits are fantastic.

And one official said: "Where there is big money—there is murder."

City and state officials say frankly the underworld has grown too powerful to be controlled on a local level. They insist it can be broken only with the help of Congress through tough new laws.

Harken To Appeals

Spurred by these appeals:

(1) The Senate has approved a special investigation of crime rackets and gambling syndicates—and what should be done to control them. This inquiry will start in a few weeks.

(2) A Senate Commerce subcommittee is studying legislation designed to cripple the bookies by denying them gambling information on sporting events.

(3) The House is considering a bill passed by the Senate to ban the shipment of slot machines into states where they are illegal.

In all these efforts, Congress is trying to draw a line between legal and illegal gambling. That's not easy—because some form of gambling is legal in many states.

It's no federal offense to gamble. And there are many who believe gambling never can be controlled by passing a law—no more than prohibition stopped people from drinking.

But city, state and federal officials got together last February in the attorney general's conference on law enforcement.

Move For Curb

Officials agreed that if bookmaking could be crippled—then the heart would be cut out of big time gambling operations.

And so a bill was drawn which in broad terms would ban the movement of "gambling information" across state lines.

The intent primarily was to strike a blow at the bookies by denying them fast "flash" news on horse race results. This would be done in two ways: (1) By forcing a delay in transmission of race results: and (2) By making it a federal offense to transmit across state lines information used for gambling purposes.

The responsibility for enforcement would lie with the federal communications commission and also with those sending the news. Attorney General McGrath told Senators he did not want the FBI put in the position of policing the law.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee has been studying the controversial bills—getting shades of opinion all the way from law enforcement officials to the big-time gamblers themselves.

Can bookmaking be crippled seriously by a federal law cutting off fast horse racing information?

The senators called in gray-haired "betting commissioner" James J. Carroll who told the lawmakers he was a "price-maker" who would accept bets on "any event in the world"—if had the information needed to quote odds.

"Betting would not be limited by the absence of rapid race news information," Carroll said. "I was

Fatal Ending to A Domino Game

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 6—(AP)—A domino game between two aged relatives ended today when the younger man dropped to the floor, dead with a bullet hole in his left eye.

Frank Plamore, 76 year old night watchman here, is jailed for investigation in the death of his nephew, Wesley Enlow Thompson, 66, of Seagraves, Tex. No charges have been filed.

"I told him to stop but he kept coming at me with a knife," Palmore told police. "I shot once to warn him and once to stop him."

Retired Railroad Man Has Many Hobbies He Will Enjoy

Frank H. "Granny" Hausner, sheet metal worker, has retired from service at the Missouri Pacific shops. Mr. Hausner began his railroad career with the Missouri Pacific in 1900 working at Metz, Missouri, on the section, where he worked for about six months when he quit and went to Kansas City, Kansas, where he entered the Kansas City Theological Seminary, better known as Heinz University, where he studied for the ministry for six years. During this period he worked part time for the Kansas City Gas Co., and also met Fannie Jane Self whom he married in Kansas City, Kansas, on June 6, 1901. One daughter, Irma, was born and now lives in Kansas City.

In 1916 Mr and Mrs Hausner moved to Sedalia where he was employed as a laborer with the Missouri Pacific, later being transferred to the pipe shop On November 6, 1922, he went to work as a sheet metal worker and has been employed in that capacity until his retirement, March 20, 1950.

Well Known Employe

Mr Hausner who was one of the Missouri Pacific's best known employes aside from being a mechanic of the highest type, gained renown for his extensive hobbies which he cultivated. He was one of the best known collectors of cacti in the United States, having more than 200 species growing in his yard and in his basement. One of the most famous of this collection was a cactus which was found growing around the wall of the renowned roadside spring which is in Galilee and still is in existence. This spring was the one in which Christ drew the water which he turned to wine

Also a collector of rare rocks, Mr. Hausner, has a collection of rocks from all over the world, some of which he collected and others which were given to him by friends. Some of the most famous are a stone from the log cabin of Lincoln's birthplace, and a gizzard rock from a dinosaur.

He also has a rock from the top of Mount Vesuvius in Italy as well as other rocks from foreign countries.

Grows Flowers

His most recent hobby is that of growing flowers, Mr. Hausner, grows Iris, which he has collected for over 30 years and at the present time has about 70 varieties He also grows everblooming gladioli, and his specialty is roses. This year he has all of the new 1950 roses and two everblooming climber roses, the K. A Victoria, which is a white rose and the New Dawn, a white rose. These bloom until freezing weather. Every year he sells off his present crop of roses and starts the following year with the latest variety.

Aside from taking care of his flowers, Mr Hausner, is an expert with the needle, making embroidery work and during the bad weather, is busy crocheting window curtains, several of which have been completed and are in use at his home. Mrs. Hausner says that he is also an expert cook, cans, pickles, preserves, and can do just about anything that can be done in the cooking line

In speaking of his leaving the service, Mr Hausner, commented on the fine association of his many friends, Miss Mary Smasel, shop nurse, employes, foreman and officials of the Missouri Pacific which have helped him make his railroad career a very pleasant and happy one.

Mr. Hausner has always been a loyal Booster, has never sustained a serious accident and for many years was active in union work, holding the office of corresponding secretary for about seven years

Mr and Mrs Hausner will continue to make their home at 1109 East Sixteenth street, in Sedalia.

British Think Americans Are Hard Workers

LONDON, May 6 — (AP) — American output is high because American workers don't know how to lay down on the job, a group of British building industry leaders said today. They added that the American housewife's desire for better homes boosted the incentive to work.

The British management and labor union leaders made this report after a six-week tour of the United States to study building techniques under a joint Anglo-American plan for promoting the free exchange of industrial and technical information.

"The American has never acquired the habit of doing less than he is capable of doing," the group reported, adding that "the influence of his wife and her desire for a well-equipped home should not be underestimated."

They also cited "the ready supply of materials" as another reason the ouput of American builders is about 50 per cent greater than that of British builders.

Census Enumerator Also Baby Sitter

DENVER, May 6—(AP)—Census enumerator Bertha Berger found a young father baby-sitting for his infant son Thursday.

The baby was crying and the flustered father told her he was too upset to answer questions.

Mrs. Berger, the mother of four school-age children, pitched in. She changed the baby's diapers and prepared formula. With the baby quiet, the father calmly answered her questions.

"Where's the baby's mother?" she asked

Execution Of Four French Traitors

PARIS, May 6 —(AP)— A firing squad executed four French traitors Friday. One of them, jauntily wearing a rose in his lapel, asked the riflemen not to shoot him in the head because he was bequeathing his eyes to a Paris hospital.

He was Maurice Bay and the firing squad obeyed his request. A French physician removed the eyes and said they would be used in an operation on a blind man now in the hospital.

The others executed were Henri Nicolas, Maurice Sion and Rene Lefevre, all condemned for being members of an infamous "French Gastapo" which arrested and tortured Frenchmen for the German during the Nazi occupation of Paris.

Pelt German Soccer Players With Tomatoes

NEW YORK, May 6—(AP)—Sixteen German soccer players were pelted with tomatoes and apples by a small group of youths Friday as the visiting athletes posed for pictures on the steps of city hall.

The players were showered just after they were officially greeted by Council President Vincent R Impellitteri.

ADVANCE-DESIGN TRUCKS

See these great new truck buys in our showrooms today!

PAYLOAD LEADERS
Cost less to operate per ton per mile!

Right from the start, you can figure on more payloads because Chevrolet trucks take less time on the job . . . cost less to keep up. They reduce total trip time with extra high pulling power over a wide range of usable road speeds. Advance-Design construction saves you money on repairs. It all boils down to this: You can depend on Chevrolet trucks to deliver the goods at low cost per ton per mile. Stop in and see these new P•L trucks now on display.

Far ahead with all these PLus features

Performance Leaders

Most Powerful Chevrolet Trucks Ever Built!
New Chevrolet trucks have stepped-up power and performance. Improved Thrift-Master Valve-in-Head engine features greater horsepower and finer performance with new Power-Jet carburetion. Brand-new Load-Master 105-h.p. Valve-in-Head engine provides greater pulling power and reduces total trip time in heavy hauling.

Popularity Leaders

Preferred By Far Over All Other Trucks!
Official records show that Chevrolet trucks are America's fastest selling trucks! For the last 12-month period, they have outsold the next two makes combined! And that's convincing proof of the owner satisfaction they have earned through the years—proof that Chevrolet is the nation's most wanted truck.

Price Leaders

First For All-Around Savings!
No matter how you look at it, you're money ahead with Chevrolet trucks. Chevrolet's rock-bottom initial cost—outstandingly low cost of operation and upkeep—and high trade-in value, all add up to the lowest price for you. Yes, from start to finish, Chevrolet trucks are the price leaders!

Most Beautiful Girl in Movies Weds Heir to Hotel Fortune

By Gene Handsaker

HOLLYWOOD, May 6—(AP)—Elizabeth Taylor, generally considered the most beautiful girl in the movies, wed Conrad Nicholson (Nick) Hilton, Jr., an heir to one of the world's biggest hotel fortunes, at 5 p. m. (PDT) today.

It's Hollywood's wedding of the year.

Her wedding gown, which probably will set the style for June brides the country over, is described by its designer as simple, with a high neckline, narrow waist, and billows below. The guest list numbers 600, but at least 10 times that many may tie up traffic outside.

The brunette beauty with the heart-shaped face, flawless features and violet-blue eyes, is 18.

First Marriage For Both

It's the first marriage both for Elizabeth and for her 23-year-old hubby, dark-haired bridegroom. His father's 13 hotels, include the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City and the world's largest, the 3,000 room Stevens in Chicago, have been estimated to be worth $125,000,000.

The ceremony was in the Catholic church of the Good Shepherd, a Gothic structure in Beverly Hills. Its pastor, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Patrick J. Concannon, officiated. Elizabeth although suffering from a cold went through a rehearsal for the ceremony.

Fifteen wardrobe - department seamstresses at her studio, M-G-M, have worked intermittently for two months on her trousseau. It was fashioned by Studio Designer Helen Rose, who has costumed Elizabeth for four pictures, including two movie weddings.

Simple Wedding Dress

Miss Rose made two preliminary sketches of wedding dresses for the real-life ceremony. Elizabeth chose the simpler. The dress, of white, pure-silk satin, required 25 yards of material. It's "very bouffant," Miss Rose says, meaning it stands out around the hips.

The bodice is tightly fitted around Elizabeth's 21½-inch waist. The hem is bordered with seed pearls and satin-lined bugle beads. Her crownlike halo will be trimmed with seed pearls. The bridal veil, several yards long, is of silk illusionnet. The gown will be worn over a full organdie petticoat made of small ruffles. Her bouquet will be of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The "something old" was a lace handkerchief that her father gave to her mother on their wedding day. Something new, Elizabeth reasons was her entire bridal outfit. Borrowed was an undisclosed something from her maid of honor and long-time neighbor and friend, Ann Westmore, daughter of make-up man Wally Westmore. Her "something blue" was a garter given her by another girl—Elizabeth doesn't remember who—about five years ago.

Granted A Divorce

A divorce was granted in circuit court Friday to Almeda Stinnett from Oliver Stinnett with the restoration of her name Almeda Clements. Attorney for the plaintiff was G. W. Anson.

Asks Damages Of $21,300 In Suit

A damage suit, asking $21,300 was filed in the circuit clerk's office Friday afternoon by Ray A. Oaks of Kansas City vs Glen Chamberlin of Houstonia. Lawyers for the plaintiff are Harvey Roney of Kansas City and Fred Wesner.

Oaks alleges he received painful and multiple injuries in an auto collision at the intersection of highways 40 and the Blue Ridge cut-off in Jackson county on August 15, 1949. The amount of damages asked for his personal injuries is $20,000 dollars. An additional $1,300 was asserted as the amount of damage to the 1949 Ford sedan he was driving at that time.

Smelser 4-H Club Meeting

On Aprily 21, the Smelser 4-H club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Schroder for its monthly meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Connie Brandhorst. Roll call was answered by telling the color of a bird seen recently.

In the business meeting it was decided that a softball club be formed. Mrs. T. Thomason read several letters of interest and gave a report on the traits of the club.

After the meeting was adjourned, the members sang a few songs and refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Schroeder. Two visitors, Eleanor Leftwich and Albert Upton attended the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Olson on May 19.

Three To Jail In Gambling Activities

KANSAS CITY, May 5—(AP)—Three men were sentenced to one year in the city jail and ten others fined Friday for participation in gambling activitis.

Receiving the jail sentences were Sam Martino, 42; Pete L. Kassell, 37, and James D. Allis, 59, all of Kansas City. Judge James P. Hawkins of Buffalo, Mo., assisting with the docket here, assessed the penalties. The men earlier had been fined in municipal court following a raid on a storeroom and had appealed their cases.

Beautiful in Any Dress

Whether her own wedding dress or the one used by Elizabeth Taylor above in the movie "Father of the Bride," she's a very beautiful girl. The above dress is reported to be similar to the one which Miss Taylor wor Saturday when she wed Nick Hilton, heir to the Hilton hotel chain. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Cat Uses Cheese Smear For Mice

BRAZIL, Ind., May 6—(AP)—An now we have a self-baiting mousetrap.

The trap is a cat named Jiggs, who likes cheese about as well as mice do.

Jiggs' owners, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, declare this is the way he operates:

When eating cheese, he saves the last scraps to smear his face. The face is poised close to a mouse-hole. Result—a cheesy aroma in the mouse-hole.

It doesn't take long, the Lewises said, for nature and Jiggs to do the rest.

Demonstrate School Work

The Scott school closed April 21, with a basket dinner at the noon hour followed by a program.

The Junior American Citizens club met in regular order with one pledge to the flag, followed by the national anthem, the American creed, the club prayer and motto.

Jean Jeffries, president, presented the teacher, Mrs. W. P. Tucker, who had charge of the program.

Demonstrations of school work were given by Roy Jeffries and Wally Jeffries demonstrated manuscript writing as used in spelling. Joyce Leigh Evans illustrated her talk on Holland with a poster she had made; Robert Streeter, Gladys Jeffries and Jean Jeffries demonstrated their knowledge of the new Missouri Constitution by taking an oral, eighty question quiz.

Supt. C. F. Scotten was the speaker and at the close he presented the eighth grade diploma to Robert Streeter, who had graduated with the group in Sedalia, April 13, at the Epworth Methodist church.

The P.T.A. entertained the community at a wiener roast the week before the closing of school.

Mrs. Tucker has been selected as teacher again for next year.

Basket Dinner at Prairie Hill School

The Prairie Hill school held its last day of school on Thursday, April 20, at which time a basket dinner was served at the noon hour to parents and friends.

After dinner a program was presented by the school.

Presentation of awards for special work and attendance was made by the teacher, Miss Doris L. Swearngin.

Called To A Grass And Trash Fire

The fire companies were called to 215 East Main street at 4:32 o'clock Friday afternoon where burning grass and trash were quickly squelched with one pump bucket. The building is owned by Harry Brougher and is occupied by the Kansas City Star's local paper office. There was no damage.

Hal Boyle
COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

VIRGINIA CITY, Mont., May 7—(AP)—Justice isn't blind any more in this one time rip-roaring mining camp, but the justice of the peace is.

He is "Blind Bob" Gohn, who also operates a tavern and general store here and believes he is the only sightless bartender in the west.

"I never heard of any others," he said, deftly mixing a highball. "I lost my eyes here in the mines back in 1920. I got blasted."

"Blind Bob," a pleasant voiced man of 50, is full of the lore of Montana's most famous gold mining camp.

"They took 300 to 500 million dollars out of Alder gulch here nobody knows just how much," he said. "And there's still plenty of gold here." Lately however, the gulch probably hasn't produced as much gold as the pockets of visiting tourists.

Quietly Rotting

Virginia City, once boisterous with 10,000 to 20,000 miners, was quietly rotting into just another ghost town of a fabulous past until a wealthy rancher, Charles Bovey, decided to restore its vanished flavor.

Bovey has been gradually rebuilding the town into a showcase of the old west, combining the area for authentic historical relics.

"Last year we had about 100,000 tourists," said blind Bob.

He is the grandson of George Gohn, who came here a few days after gold was first discovered in 1863. His pioneer grandfather was a member of the original committee of vigilantes who brought law and order into Montana territory at the end of a rope.

Some fourteen murdering road agents who were hanged by the vigilantes back in 1864 still lie on nearby Cemetery hill.

"It's much quieter around here now," said blind Bob. "About all I have to deal with as justice of the peace are fish and game violations and highway traffic cases."

Knows Citizens Well

There are only about 315 permanent residents left and Bob can tell them all by their voices and many by the sound of their footsteps.

"Most of them still live by mining," he said. "The hills are full of mines, but only two are working now. But if they ever find the Mother Lode, you'll see this town come to life again."

That is the goal still of many oldtime miners here—the Mother Lode—a legendary deep lying parent rift of metal they feel may spill out more wealth than Virginia City ever knew in its heyday as "the richest place on earth."

Meanwhile, the tourists are helping to give the town an Indian summer prosperity.

Knows His Stock

Blind Bob knows by memory the exact location of the hundreds of items he stocks in his tavern store, a building that once housed Montana's territorial government. He says that lack of eyesight doesn't hamper him much behind the bar.

"My only worry is an occasional stranger who hands me a one dollar bill and tells me it's a five," he said. "And of course the jukebox gives me trouble.

"You see, I mix highballs by the sound of the gurgles. When the jukebox is going, it's hard to hear the gurgles. That's why I hate the jukebox," blind Bob grinned. "It gets me so mixed up I can't see what I'm doing."

W. R. Courtney Made Treasurer

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—Robert E. Allen of Perry, Mo., was elected president of the Missouri Bankers Association at the closing session of the annual convention today. He succeeds Leslie K. Curry of St. Louis.

George U. Richmond of St. Joseph was named vice president and W. R. Courtney of Mexico treasurer.

The convention rejected a proposal of the Associate Bankers of St. Louis for a new small loan legislation. The resolution would have put the M. B. A. on record as favoring a maximum interest rate of 24 per cent on installment loans of $200 and less, gradually decreasing rates not exceeding 16 per cent on loans between $200 and $1000, and still lower rates averaging not more than 12 per cent on loans of $1000 to $2000.

Before going to Mexico W. R. Courtney was with the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company. Allen is a son-in-law of Mrs. John L. Sullivan, 418 East Seventh street. Mrs. Allen is the former Miss Catherine Sullivan.

Laugh About Divorce Rumor

PARIS, May 6—(AP)—Rumors of impending divorce proceedings between actress Rita Hayworth and Prince Aly Khan were dismissed as ridiculous today by both friends and legal advisors of the couple.

Aly's lawyer, Charles Denizot, just laughed when told about the report published in a Rome newspaper.

"There were such reports a year ago," he said, "just after they were married."

At Cannes, where the couple lives, Mrs. George Catroux, wife of General Georges Catroux, former French ambassador to Moscow, and an intimate friend of Rita and Aly, flatly denied the reports.

"They are an extremely close couple," said Mrs. Catroux, who is a municipal councillor for the city of Cannes. Her husband was one of the witnesses at the wedding, a year ago.

Answer Telephone Promptly Be Courteous When Talking

(Furnished By Southwestern Bell Telephone Company)

Usualy when a person comes to call on us we extend to him the hospitality of our homes. We make it a point to show him that he is welcome and we strive to be pleasant. We should be just as pleasant when he comes to our telephone door. Here we have only the courtesy of an immediate answer and the tone of our voice to show him that he is welcome.

Let us repeat—for none of them is new—a few suggestions that will help, with mention of a few of the more glaring common failures.

When placing a local call some people tell their secretary to "Get Mr. Smith;" and then they either just wait or start doing something else. They have hardly had time to do anything before the telephone rings and Mr. Smith is on the line. The few seconds saved for the party originating the call have availed him nothing. Mr. Smith, the man who is granting the audience, has been kept waiting and an operator or secretary has been needlessly tied up on the call. Certainly this is not courteous to Mr. Smith, nor is it an efficient way of doing business.

Loses Time

This happens more often on out-of-town calls, and at the present rate of speed on these calls is hardly more justifiable than on local service. Again you have the discourtesy of making the person with whom you desire an audience await your pleasure, the fact of inefficiency in tying up one or more persons needlessly, and, if the call is passed station-to-station, a greater charge on the call since the conversation in this case is timed from the answer of the called station.

It is important in filing out-of-town calls that we first give the operator the called place and then the called number. In many instances this will enable the operator getting the name of the called place to immediately pick up a circuit to the place called and start working on the call. While waiting for the distant operator to answer she records the details and while waiting for the called station to answer she gets the calling number. This practice saves time on the call and has the parties talking that much sooner.

Too, it's faster for a customer to give the long distance operator the number of a distant party with whom he wants to talk. Passing the call by number will save time, since the operator will have to go to information for the number if you don't give it to her.

Be Courteous

Courtesy and efficiency are closely allied even on the simplest of telephone calls. In intercommunicating systems as well as on all other calls one should be careful to use those practices which have been proved to be best.

There will be occasions when it will be necessary for someone else to answer your telephone or for you to answer another's line. In answering another's line you should be careful to announce whose line it is and your name. This assures the calling party that he has the right line, but that he has someone other than the party whom he called. He can immediately start his conversation in the light of this new development. If it is necessary to refer to this call at a later time he has something definite with which to identify it. He has talked with you and he remembers your name.

Aside from being the courteous way of answering another's line, it is the only efficient way of doing it. Neither the calling party nor you are bothered with needless preliminaries, and you are both free to go about your work with the least delay. Such a contact gives satisfaction.

There may be occasions when some people have clerks or secretaries answer their telephones for them. When the calling party asks for the party called he is greeted with, "Who is calling please?" Many people consider this an affront. It means to them that if they haven't the password they won't get in. For the most part, nearly everyone can and should answer his calls when he is in the office.

Telephone courtesy is as important as the common courtesy which we expect in our face to face meetings. We all use the telephone to such an extent today that we can be judged in some measure by the way we meet the people with whom we talk on the wires. We want to make sure that neither our courtesy nor our efficiency are impugned by our telephone personalities.

Some Do's and Don'ts

When answering another's line, say so, and announce yourself. It saves time and misunderstanding.

Give out-of-town calls by number. It makes service faster.

Refer to the telephone directory before calling Information for local numbers you don't know.

Pass your own toll calls. The average time for putting a call through is now down to a minute and a half, and 95 out of every 100 are being completed while the calling party holds the line.

Don't make the party you are calling wait for you. You are seeking the audience.

Don't ask, "Who's calling, please?" when answering another's line.

Cancer Crusade Goal Has Now Passed Fifty Per Cent

The Cancer Crusade sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club has passed another mile-stone, in that contributions now reach just past the 50 per cent mark. The Detection Center at the Bothwell hospital for the use of all Pettis county citizens is the chief project of the Pettis County Cancer committee and is one of five in the state of Missouri.

Several projects are under way and everyone is urged to "Give to Attack Cancer"; "Tag Day" was held yesterday with Girl Scouts selling tags on the principal streets. North Sedalia was canvassed under the leadership of Miss Jane Cox, secretary of Hubbard school, who with 12 eighth grade girls contacted every home in that area, with the collection point being the Clyde Robinson store on North Osage.

Workers at Theaters

The Cancer Crusade workers from the B. P. W. club are now working at the three theaters in Sedalia, with one collection under Mrs. Lillie Thomas being taken at the Drive-In theater. The cooperation of the theater managers, Joe Ruddick and J. T. Ghosen on this civic service project is much appreciated.

The benefit dance given by the Loyal Order of Moose in the Moose hall, Saturday night, was a civic service in the fight against cancer which is much appreciated. Mrs. Bertha Rose Welch was in charge of a group of B. P. W workers who worked with the members of the Moose lodge in promoting this project.

Just Imagine It's Yours!

You say you have never driven a Cadillac?

Well, it's a lovely day—and there are beautiful roads to travel down and interesting places to visit—and a little dreaming never hurt a soul . . . so just slide over behind the wheel. It's yours!

First, you'll just want to sit for awhile, with your hand on the slender, obedient wheel—and get a close-up view of the ingrained goodness that makes this car so unmistakably . . . the Standard of the World.

And then you turn the key, touch the soft-throated engine into action—and you're away.

The steering wheel all but reads your mind! The brakes are as soft as velvet, and immediate in their response! The road has become a boulevard—and the turns and lights seem so very close together!

And the soft, easy quietness of it all! You just sit and relax—in complete contentment—and the miles go by—and the miles go by . . . "Oh, how I wish this car were mine!"

Well, it's time, we think, to stop dreaming—and lend an ear to this: the lowest-priced Cadillac costs less to buy than certain models of numerous other makes of cars; it is so enduring that it will give a lifetime of service; and it is so economical that it actually approaches the low-priced popular cars in gasoline mileage.

Yes, it's time to go into action—and to make this car your own!

All the service does, he said, is to "relieve the anxiety" of those who bet by giving them the outcome of the contest in a hurry.

"The way to stop bookmaking," Carroll said, "is to legalize betting."

And then the senators heard from Frank Erickson of New York who admitted he made a net profit of $100,000-a-year in the betting business.

Erickson — whose headquarters recently was raided in New York —testified he had been in the bookmaking business 30 years.

"I never had no protection from police," he insisted.

Call For Information

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The Washington Post said tonight the Justice department has directed United States attorneys all over the country to collect information on racketeers, gamblers and other underworld figures.

In a copyrighted story, the Post said that the department sent to the 93 federal prosecutors a list of some 150 names with orders to send all information available about them to Washington by next Wednesday.

A Justice department spokesman said that such a letter had gone out two weeks or more ago. He described it as a mimeographed "form letter" and said he did not know that it had any particular significance.

Aspirant for Congress Visitor

Wilbert C. Bothwell, 39 year old, Springfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sxith District, visited in Sedalia, Saturday afternoon, getting acquainted, on his way through from St. Louis to Springfield.

Mr. Bothwell is married and the father of two sons, and has been a professor of economics at Drury College since 1946, and is director of adult education at Drury. Mrs. Bothwell is secretary of the Greene County Women's Republican club.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served four and a half years in the U. S. Army Air Force. During the war, he taught bombing and served as intelligence officer in the South Pacific with the Eighteenth Fighter Group of the Thirteenth Air Force.

Mr. Bothwell taught six years at Washington University in St. Governmental Research Institute. Louis, and while there, was with the Governmental Reserach Institute. In St. Louis, he directed investigation of the jury system prior to the war, and also participated in the St. Louis police survey. He served as secretary of the first state wide committee for the division of constitution of Missouri.

The Republican candidate said he would start a vigorous campaign June 1. Other Republican candidates for Congressman from this district on the Republican ticket are: Harvey Dow of Sedalia; O. K. Armstrong of Springfield and George Stevens of Springfield.

Democratic candidates filing for the office are George H. Christopher, Amoret, Robert W. Moore, Springfield and Thomas H. Nixon of Springfield.

Gives Ruling on Payroll Data

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The National Labor Relations board ruled unanimously today that an employer must give a union full payroll data when the union asks the information for collective bargaining.

The board held that a union is entitled to the names, positions and wage rates of employes—both on a current basis and for at least a year past—in order to have a full picture of the wage situation.

This was the first time the NLRB ordered general wage rates made available to unions. In a series of recent decisions it has decided that data on individual, or merit pay raises, also must be given a union on request as a basis for determining union wage demands in bargaining.

The ruling said such payroll data is required to be given the union for all employes in the bargaining unit represented by the lnion. NLRB officials said this means that payroll data must be submitted for any non-union employes within the unit, as well as employes who are union members.

Challenge Given To President

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Republicans hurled ten broadside charges at the Truman administration today and challenged the President to answer them on his 16-state campaign tour which he begins tomorrow.

GOP leaders already have laid plans to make a series of replies to the Truman speeches. They got in the first word with a statement accusing him of resisting attempts to "drive Communist from his administration."

The statement also laid the loss of China at the administration's door—"a major defeat in the cold war."

Its issuance underlined a new GOP strategy of trying to nullify the Truman "give 'em hell" type of campaign which upset Republican calculations in 1948.

The statement came from national chairman Guy George Gabrielson; Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, chairman of the Senate campaign committee, and Rep Leonard W. Hall of New York, chairman of the House campaign committee.

It derided the Presidents official opening of the national congressional campaign as a "quarter million dollar cross-country junket" by "our commuting President."

Henry H. King Dies at Liberty

LIBERTY, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Henry H King, 93, an early day Missouri school teacher died tonight. He was the father of Frank H. King, Associated Press general executive of Dallas, Tex.

King died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Donald Pharis, three miles east of Liberty. He had been ill only a few weeks.

Born in Clay county, Mo., June 19, 1856, King was a school teacher until he retired about 30 years ago. At one time he served as superintendent of schools at Excelsior Springs, Mo

He also wrote extensively on the history of Clay county.

Survivors in addition to the daughter and son include two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in Liberty. Burial will be at Excelsior Springs.

Drove Car Off Ferry Into Lake

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., May 6—(AP)—A man believed to have been Jack Budd, about 40, Fayetteville, Ark., businessman, drove his automobile into the middle of Norfork Lake late last night.

Baxter county Sheriff Ernie Gentry said tonight he had little doubt but that the man was Budd

Burt Lance, attendant on the state-operated ferry on highway 62, said the driver suddenly started his motor and drove off the ferry when it was about halfway across the lake.

Gentry said that Budd had been staying at a tourist court at Mountain home. He had business interests here as well as at Fayetteville. He visited with some Fayetteville men at a camp on the lake last night and made an appointment to meet them today, Gentry said. He has not been seen since. Nor has his new Packard sedan

Henry Copeland, who lives on the opposite side of the lake from Mountain Home, said his automobile was parked immediately behind the car—a Packard sedan—which was driven into the lake He said the driver raised the windows of the automobile before starting the motor and driving off the frryboat.

The lake at the point where the automobile entered the water is believed to be at least 75 feet deep and possibly twice that.

Believed Drowned Trying to Save Son

ELDON, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Merrill Snell, 35, of Jefferson City, apparently drowned in the Lake of the Ozarks today, the state highway patrol reported, in an effort to save his four-year-old son, Mark.

The patrol said Snell's body had not been recovered late tonight from about 100 feet of water in a cove on the north side of the lake, a few miles above Bagnell dam.

A relative of Snell's in Jefferson City said apparently Snell's small son fell out of their outboard-powered boat as they were taking a spin late today. Without cutting off the motor, Snell jumped in to try to save the boy. Relatives suggested apparently the man was struck by the boat and knocked unconscious.

The lake cabin owners across the cove, Walter Deem of Chesterfield, Mo, and William Cooper of Rocky Mount, Mo., saw the boat circling aimlessly and saw also the boy's body afloat nearby.

They rescued the youngster and with artificial respiration revived him.

Efforts to recover the father's body are continuing.

Texas Republican Go to Congress

AMARILLO, Tex., May 6—(AP)—Panhandle voters today elected Texas' first Republican congressman in 24 years—Ben H. Guill of Pampa.

Returns from all of the 28 counties in the 18th congressional district, with seven complete, gave Guill nearly 2,000 votes more than his nearest opponent, a woman who left a government job in Washington to run.

Guill had 8,118 votes to 6,220 votes for Mrs Altavene Clark of Amarillo, the only woman among the 10 Democrats who opposed the Pampa businessman.

J. Blake Timmons, Texas legislator from Amarillo, had 5,674 votes. Walter Rogers, Pampa lawyer, was fourth with 4,966.

More than 90 per cent of the total vote was in. This clearly gave Guill victory in the "sudden death" special election in which no majority was needed.

He already had issued a victory statement at a celebration with friends in Pampa.

Westminster Loses In Baseball Game

FULTON, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Westminster college athletic teams suffered a double defeat here today, losing to Quincy college of Quincy Ill, 5-4, in a 10-inning baseball battle and to Washington university 19½ to 7½ in golf.

Washington's Jim Mateson had a 35-34—69 for medalist honors in the golf competition.

Doubleheader Won by Missouri Over K-State

MANHATTAN, Kas., May 6—(AP)—Missouri got strong pitching from Bob Smith and Gene Crenshaw today to win a Big Seven Conference baseball doubleheader from Kansas State 6-2 and 3-1.

Smith turned in a five-hitter in the first of the two seven-inning games, while Crenshaw limited the Wildcats to three blows in the last game.

Bob Harting's two-run homer off Perk Reitemeier decided the nightcap. Reitemeier, who also hurled a three-hitter, got K-State's only run in that game with a 400 foot circuit clout.

Jack Frier of Missouri and K-State's Bob Bremmer and Dick Johnson homered, in the opener.

Missouri has won six and lost four games, while K-State's record is 3 won, 5 lost.

First game:

Missouri	102 021 0—6	8	0
K-State	020 000 0—2	5	4

K-State	000 010 0—1	3	0

Crenshaw and Murrey, Reitemeier and Schumacher.

Coe and Goldwater to Clash in Golf Finals

DALLAS, Texas, May 6—(AP)—Stringbean Charlie Coe, the national champion from Oklahoma City, and bull-shouldered Bob Goldwater of Phoenix, Ariz., entered the finals of the Western Amateur Golf tournament today after hectic battles that were decided on the thirty-sixth greens.

Coe, the poker-faced, grim thin man, had to fight off a garrison finish by curly-haired youthful Mac Hunter of Los Angeles to win two-up and he had to shoot two-under-par 70 on the 6,470-yard Dallas Country Club course to do it.

Goldwater beat Francis (Bo) Winnifer, Oklahoma A. and M. student, by the same margin in a ding-dong battle. Whereas Coe had Hunter four-down at the end of the first 18, Wininger and Goldwater were all even.

Coe and Goldwater will clash for the championship tomorrow.

Truman Adds Another Speech

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—President Truman added a ninth major address today to a 16-state stumping tour which he will start tomorrow on behalf of Democratic candidates for Congress.

A schedule already so tight that it promised to keep the President busy day and night was expanded at the last minute today to include the additional address—this one at Cheyenne, Wyo., May 9.

The President's 12-car special train will carry him 6,400 miles through predominantly Republican territory, as far as Grand Coulee dam in Washington state, where an address is scheduled for May 11.

Of the nine important speeches, the hardest-hitting is expected to come at Chicago on May 15, where the President will stop on the way home to deliver a full-scale political address at a big party rally.

Uphold Life Sentence To Neff

TOPEKA, Kas., May 6—(AP)—The Kansas supreme court today upheld the conviction and life-at-hard-labor sentence of George Neff, Perth, Kas., farmer, for the murder of his brother-in-law, Kenneth Wynn.

The decision of the state's highest court was unanimous.

The three trials commanded statewide attention with the prosecution contending Neff 47, planned Wynn's slaying as the climax to a 22-year illicit love affair with Kenneth's wife, Olevia Wynn, a younger sister of Mrs. Neff.

Roundup of Big Leagues On Saturday

A Total of 31 Home Runs Were Scored That Day

NEW YORK, May 6 — (AP) — Home runs were the order of the day in the major leagues today.

A total of 31 home runs were hit in nine major league games, one shy of the record for most home runs socked in both leagues in one day. The record of 32 was created in 15 games on June 13, 1937.

The American league slammed 16 of today's home runs and the National 15. A total of 64 pitchers were employed in the nine games and only two, Chuck Stobbs of the Boston Red Sox and Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics went the distance.

The Red Sox belted the most homers, six, to enable Stobbs, who tossed a four hitter, to breeze to a 11-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Five Homers For Braves

The powerful Boston Braves hit the most homers in the National league, five as they outslugged the Cincinnati Reds, 15-11. The Braves now have hit 13 homers in their last three games, a National league record.

The Chicago Cubs socked three home runs in the sixth inning but were forced to go ten before they edged the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-4. Preston Ward singles home Phil Cavarretta, who had singled and advanced to third on an error, with the winning run. The error was Brooklyn's first after 62 straight innings of errorless ball.

Two grand slam home runs were as the New York Giants prevailed over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-8.

No home runs were hit in the Philadelphia Phils' 11-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals but the two clubs banged out 27 hits. The Phils took a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Max Lanier and clinched the decision with four in the ninth.

Four home runs were hit as the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yangs split doubleheader. The Indians won the first game, 5-4, with rookie Luke Easter supplying the punch with a three run homer.

The Yanks took the second, 7-4.

The game was called in the eighth because of darkness.

Home runs by Ferris Fain and Paul Lehner plus Kellner's six hit pitching allowed the Philadelphia Athletics to trounce the St. Louis Browns, 12-4. The A's wrapped us the game with four runs in the first inning. Ken Wood and Sherm Lollar hit four-baggers for the Browns.

The league-leading Detroit Tigers out batted the Washington Senators, 8-6.

Head Cage Coach Was Appointed for Central

Wind Topples Wall

Bricks litter the sidewalk near the downtown section of Kansas City, Mo., after part of a brick wall near the top of a three-story apartment building was blown to the street in a 70-mile-an-hour gale. Two cars parked at the curb were damaged by the debris. The high winds swept out of Kansas as an aftermath of a tornado which struck near Great Bend. (Associated Press Photo)

State Officer Here

Mrs. John Haas, state president, and Mrs. Albert Seibert, past national presiden both of St. Louis were guests of the executive committee of Pettis Chapter 31 War Dad's auxiliary Tuesday at a noon luncheon at the Bothwell hotel with a business meeting following. All members of the committee were present.

Plans for the state convention in June in Jefferson City were made.

Junior-Senior Prom Friday at Hubbard Hi

Several Guests From Other Schools In Nearby Places

At Convention Hall, Liberty park, at 8:00 p.m., Friday, the Junior and Senior prom of Hubbard high school was held. The music was furnished by Charlie Green's orchestra of Kansas City, Kas. Some of the selections played were "Stardust," "This Is My Last Affair," "Again," and "Bewildered." A medley of waltzs was dedicated to the principal, "My Buddy," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Tomorrow and When I Grow Too Old to Dream." Numbers were also dedicated to the sponsor of the Junior class, Mrs Anderson and to the president, Miss Arline Carter.

The theme of this affair was "A Garden of Friendship" where couples danced behind an imitation brick wall surrounding the garden that was filled with flowers, plant flowers and candles that represented the stars. The entrance to the garden was a beautiful white archway through which the grand march promenaded. South American punch was served by sophomore girls wearing turkey hats and Indian costumes.

Some Invited Guests

Some of the invited guests were: Mrs. Opal C. Valentine, Mrs. Carrie Patrick; past president of the P.T.A., Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alexander, Mrs. Lorene Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Abbott, Mrs. Don Gerhardt. The out-of-town guests present were the juniors and seniors of Dalton, Mo., along with their principal, Beverly Foster; the Fayette juniors and seniors along with their principal, C. C. Hamilton and Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, a member of the faculty; Jefferson City juniors and seniors of the Lincoln University Laboratory high school accompanied by two faculty members, Miss Marcella Donnelly and Mr. McAfee. Out-of-town guests were presented by Miss Neppie Gerhardt of Hubbard school.

Motion Pictures Taken

Motion pictures were made of the occasion by Dr. A. R. Maddox who stated that he plans to show them to the students of Hubbard school and to the community.

J. B. Hylick, principal of Hubbard school, expressed his appreciation to the entire group for their fine order and conduct, and said to them that it was the purpose of Hubbard school to expose to them a wholesome idea of night life at such an affair. He thanked the school administrators for making it possible for their children to contact other children outside of their communities in such a wholesome affair.

When People Think of Sedalia They Think of Rosenthal's

If you know Sedalia, then in all probability you know Rosenthal's for the two have been growing together for thirty-nine years. Today, Sedalia is one of Missouri's leading communities and Rosenthal's is one of Missouri's fine department stores.

Sedalia, to many people, defines a way of life — a comfortable, gracious, kindly, warm way of life, and Rosenthal's has helped to bring about that feeling for our city through its understanding and helpful service to the people of this community.

Rosenthal's is proud of the part it has had in the building of Sedalia. Sedalians do have the better things of life because Rosenthal's and other Sedalia stores, have sought out the better goods from all over the nation and world in order to supply Central Missourians with the best for better living.

Rosenthal's realizes its responsibility to the community, and it has never shirked its responsibility — and now, as in the past it is prepared and eager to accept its obligations gladly.

Now, another year begins for Rosenthal's — its 39th — and all of us here are rolling up our sleeves to do an even better job of helping our friends, neighbors, and customers to the way of life they want and expect.

Town - Country Credit Union Has Election

Responsibilities Of Directors Are Outlined

A meeting of employees of Town and Country Shoes was held on Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium for the purpose of completing the organization of their Credit Union. Chester Wilson representative of the Federal Credit Union League in Kansas City, gave a brief summary of the history of Credit Union movement throughout the United States and explained the methods of organization and objectives. Mr. Wilson pointed out that Credit Unions have four primary objectives:

1. To establish a system which meets the credit needs of workers.
2. Aids the employee to learn how to manage his money.
3. Provides a system for systematic savings.
4. Places financial support behind the consumption of goods.

Following the explanation of the underlying principles of the Credit Union, the meeting was thrown open for questions and discussion.

The organization consists of 7 members to the Board of Directors, 3 members to the Credit Committee, and 3 members to the Supervisory Committee.

Board of Directors

The following members were elected to the Board of Directors: Paul J. Hedderich, Jr., president; Jemes Anderson, vice-president; Ralph Hodges, treasurer; Miss Betty Hume, secretary; Martin Biggs, member; Miss Carmen McMillin, member; Quenton Bird, member.

Those elected to the Credit Committee were: Kenneth Campbell, J. W. Anderson, and Miss Juanita Schmidt.

Those elected to the Supervisory Committee were: Virgil J. Brown Ad Taylor, and Glenn Elliott.

The duties and responsibilities of the Board of Directors are substantially the same as those in any other business organization. The president presides over the meeting, the vice-president fills the position of presidency in event of vacancy, the Treasurer is responsible for the record keeping, making collections, deposits, issuing checks for loans, and the sale of shares of stock, the secretary assists in record keeping, including recording minutes of meetings and other related tasks.

Responsibilities

The by-laws provide for a Board of Directors meeting to be held during the third week in each month. The responsibilities of the Credit Committee are to review and pass on all applications for loans made by members of the Credit Union. The Credit Committee is responsible to the Board of Directors and are governed by rules and regulations established by the Board of Directors. It is planned for the Credit Committee to meet three times a week to carry out their functions. The Supervisory Committee is required to audit the books and records of the Credit Union once each quarter and twice a year make necessary reports to the Federal Credit Union Bureau.

The Town and Country Shoes Federal Credit Union is the first industrial Credit Union to be organized in the City of Sedalia. The employees of Town and Country Shoes have expressed great enthusiasm for the founding of a Credit Union and have pledged their support in carrying out its objectives.

Choral Club To Sing May 23

Sedalian and residents of the surrounding communities will have another opportunity to hear the Sedalia Men's Choral club in their annual Spring Concert at the Smith-Cotton auditorium on May 23 at 8:15 o'clock, with Abe Rosenthal conducting and Miss Lillian Fox as accompanist.

The club has added many new members to its library of music and includes many of Fred Waring's popular arrangements, which have always been in demand by the club's audiences.

Many people from neighboring towns have written to the club secretary requesting information about this concert and it is expected to be one of the best attended performances of the year.

To Show 1951 Kaiser Cars

The first 1951 Kaiser models to reach Sedalia will make their bow here at Jerry Brown Motor Co.

Jerry Brown, head of the local deglership at 201 North Missouri avenue, said that the initial cars to arrive from the factory at Willow Run, Mich., are four-door sedands. They will be shown beginning at 9:00 a. m. Wednesday, May 10th.

He said that other Kaiser models, including two-door sedans, business coupes, and Traveler utility cars, will arrive at a later date to complete the 1951 series of 12 body types.

The popular-priced Kaisers comprise the second of three new 1951 lines of cars to be marketed this year by Kaiser-Fraizer. The first was the medium-priced Fraizer series, which was introduced a month ago. The third line is the un-named low-priced model, which is due to arrive in dealer showrooms in July.

The K-F cars are the first 1951 models to be introduced by the auto industry.

Past Noble Grands to Meet

The Past Noble Grands of Loyal Rebekah Lodge will hold its monthly meeting May 12 at the home of Mrs. J. F. McKeehan of LaMonte. A contributive dinner will be served at noon. There will be transportation for all who desire to attend by telephoning the vice-president, Mrs. G y Snyder.

Interesting Program by Women Given on May Fellowship Day

The annual May Fellowship Day of the Sedalia Council of Church Women opened with a dessert luncheon served by the women of the First Baptist church in the basement of the church. Mrs Elmer Maune gave the blessing. A short worship service led by Mrs. Ernest Liebel, president, Sedalia Council of Church Women, and assisted by Mrs. William Dick, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, and Mrs. A E. Jackson opened the meeting.

Symbolic of the theme "Our Daily Bread" were the loaf of bread and the candle which formed a worship center on the speaker's platform. The program consisted of a round table discussion on "The Economic Needs of Our Community." Mrs. Roger Fuller, speaking on "Income," stated that 75% of Sedalians earn an income of $3,000 per year or above which compares favorably with the average national income. One thousand Sedalians receive old age pensions and 300 receive social security. Assisting Mrs. Fuller in research were Mrs. Philip Gudorp and Mrs William Dick.

Talk on Housing

On the subject of "Housing," Mrs. P. Cecil Owen learned that one-fourth of Sedalia's population lives in sub-standard homes and there is a definite need for 300 to 400 new homes to be built. She cited these sub-standard homes as a contributing cause to juvenile delinquency and said there was need for a city sponsored welfare plan. Mrs. Everett Stump and Mrs William Sims assisted her in research. Mrs. Ernest Martin and her assistants, Mrs. E E. Wheeler and Mrs. Frank Lewis, investigating "Health Service," found that through the facilities of the three local hospitals the citizens of Sedalia are well served medically but there is a definite need for a Negro dentist to serve the Negro population. All doctors are generous in the care of underprivileged children and some of the civic clubs furnish glasses and dental care. A dental clinic is badly needed. According to Mrs Martin, plans are underway for the purchase of a visual testing machine for school children. The mass chest X-ray program serves all races but hospital No. 2 needs a portable X-ray machine.

Talk on Education

Mrs. Charles Hurtt speaking on "Education" said that 10% of Smith-Cotton, 12% of Sacred Heart and 25% of Hubbard students fail to finish high school mainly because they quit school to go to work. Smith-Cotton has 25% going on to college, Sacred Heart 14% and Hubbard 2% These figures do not apply to business college or other schools which some students attend upon graduation.. Mrs. Ray Hatfield and Mrs. Lester Harrell assisted Mrs. Hurtt in research.

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson speaking on "Employment" said that only in time of war is there the possibility of full employment. Due to various factors it is impossible to give really accurate figures on the employment situation. A survey of 75% of employers in March of this year showed a decrease in employment here. Mrs. Frank Yeager assisted Mrs. Ferguson in research.

Talk on Women Workers

Mrs. R. R. Jiedel investigating "Women Workers" found women employed in widely diversified fields and salaries for the most part seemed to compare favorably with other localities. Teachers salaries are lower than other professional women receive. All local factories employing women operate under the minimum wage law Mrs. Harry Kanter assisted her in research. Mrs. William Bessmer reviewed the state laws on "Child Labor" and stated there are some violations of the laws in Sedalia. All children employed must secure an age certificate. All firms which are unionized are careful to observe the laws. Mrs. Bessmer said that in her opinion parents should think twice and investigate thoroughly before urging their young children to seek employment. Mrs. Bessmer was assisted by Mrs Richard Gray and Mrs. Orville Perkins.

Discussion Period

A general discussion period followed. The offertory prayer was given by Mrs. A. E. Jackson. Mrs. T. E. Gasperson sang "Because of Thy Great Bounty" (Crowell-Hoffmeister) accompanied by Mrs. A. R. Beach who played during the meditative postlude. The Lord's prayer was repeated by the group, each according to his faith. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Abe Rosenthal.

The Girl Scout Council will meet in the Girl Scout office on Thursday morning at 9:45 a.m. Troop 33 of Whittier school held an overnite camping trip at Camp Sakajawea last week-end. The girls enjoyed several cook-outs which were done under the supervision of their leader, Mrs. Mary Houston. Mrs. C. R. Hall is assistant leader of the troop.

The Regular Leader's Association meeting was held at the Parish hall on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Mary Houston presided over the meeting and Mrs. Harry Lambrith led the group singing. New officers elected were: Mrs. Elmo Harlan, president; Mrs. Betty Wilding, vice-president; re-elected were: Mrs. Clay Williams, secretary; Mrs. T. J. McNally, treasurer. Harry Naugel gave a short talk on the Statue of Liberty that is to be erected in Sedalia.

Many troops are planning their Court of Awards, at which time the girls will receive badges which they have earned during the past year.

Red Cross Corner

Mrs. Fred Lange and Mrs. A. A Studebaker, nurse's aides, assisted at the cancer clinic, at Bothwell hospital, last Friday.

Miss Agnes Quin and Mrs. Emmett Sullivan, former chairman and co-chairman of surgical dressings, met with the ladies of the Presbyterian church on Thursday, and instructed them in making rolled bandages. The chapter was glad to send these volunteers, and if there are other groups with similar programs, we will be glad to have them call the chapter office, No. 618.

Heels!

For mileage around the house, Airmaid suggests low heeled shoes with good support. You'll keep that cloud-walking look and feel much longer this way Do not stalk around in dilapidated high heels!

For town there are mid-heels to keep you comfortable and smart. Keep your high heels for dress-up, and you'll have a prouder posture. If you simply can not maneuver in high heels, there are scads of low heels with dress-up touches this season.

Rose Society Meeting at Ferguson Home

The Sedalia Rose Society held its regular monthly meeting Thursday evening, May 2, at the home of Mrs A. A Ferguson, 1600 West Seventh street, with Mr. and Mrs Leslie Hale assisting.

A dessert course was served after which the meeting was presided over by Mrs Herbert Seifert, president.

Reports of the various committees were given and plans made for the annual Rose Show which will be held June 2, at the Elks Club with Mrs. A A. Ferguson as chairman and Victor Gill as assistant chairman.

The exhibits of the month were very unusual, among them being the hugonis roses, full blown specimen Leonard Baron rose, arrangements of apple blossom with apples grown on the same tree last season for balance; a mantel arrangement of crab apple and magnolia, a buffet arrangement of different kinds of jonquils, a miniature arrangement of for-get-me-nots, ranunculus in a gold shoe, pansies, iris, Blue-eyed Mary and for the table centerpiece a double African violet from Mrs. Ferguson's collection of African violets

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

LETS GO FOR A SWIM will be on the tip of your tongue very soon—so better get ready now. A real carnival of colors are being shown in swim suits, and it looks as if one-piece suits will lead the parade this season.

Treat yourself to a shade in a swim suit that you wouldn't otherwise buy in a dress or suit With adequate swimming facilities in Sedalia now, you will need more than one suit. Have a practical one and then let the others be more glamorous We have satin lastex, nylon and the new nyralon. Go shopping now and try on the different styles. Sometimes the style that you least expect to be able to wear is the one that does the most for you.

Mr. and Mrs Robert S. Frye, who were married April 21, at the First Christian church in Lee's Summit. Mrs Frye was formerly Miss Mary Catherine Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Palmer, of Lee's Summit Mr. Frye, of Sedalia, is the son of Mr. and Mrs Bert Frye, of LaMonte

'see you at . . . the Country Club'.

The show must go on — at 6 00 o'clock tonight Gentry Patterson has spliced the film together for us and we're ready to go. Some of the youngsters get pretty tired so we thought it would be a good idea to show the movies first, then serve dinner. These are among the first pictures that John Van Dyne has taken and I think they're good Hope you enjoy them! Sure miss the "Pies" He'll be gone about three weeks more but things are not standing still at the club

The drapes for the dining room have been ordered and will be in before too long—we hope Extensive plans for the rest of the club house are being discussed and will be under way in the near future Hurray for the house committee!

We had more than expected for the ladies golf luncheon. Twenty-two to be exact—which is a good beginning for a new season. Norman is going to give group lessons for a small nominal fee. If you want to take private lessons, you can. The lady golfers will meet each Wednesday The Ladies Day card parties will continue to be held on Thursday This week the winners in bridge were, Mrs Henry Harris and Mrs Carrie Hieronymus. In canasta, Mrs Hermon Bloess and Mrs Victor Scott

Last Wednesday night about 40 people turned out for the square dancing. Clyde Bronton and his musicians played and they have been engaged for this Wednesday night too He is more than willing to teach the "regulars" new figures and they in turn can help the beginners. General Jack McLaughlin, one of the favorite callers, was out of town last week but he's back now and we can have variety with Clyde Broton's callers joining.

Don't forget game night Tuesday May 9th Swiss steak dinner too Reservations by Monday noon.

Four new golfers of an entirely different group were seen on the course last Monday afternoon. Stan Walch, Mike Hayes, Larry Cottingham and Jack Tope. They had planned to go out again Friday but it was too windy—even for those boys. Speaking of golf and wind, let's ask Ennis Courtney how he happened to fall in the creek. There wasn't any wind that day—was there—nobody pushed you—did they—and you never, never lose a ball—do you, Ennis?

Any boys looking for jobs, look in the want ad section next Sunday. We need caddies and it will be a good job for you if you are interested Swell way to learn to play golf too!

Our membership has increased in more ways than one The Dan Drews have a new son That makes four kings and one queen They almost "drew" a "full house" or do they have a full house anyway!

Frye, of Sedalia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Frye, of LaMonte, at 7:00 o'clock Friday evening, April 21, at the First Christian church in Lee's Summit. Before an altar setting of fern, white snapdragons and lighted white tapers, the double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Merle L. McConnell.

A program of organ music with Miss Virginia L. Inman as organist, preceded the ceremony and Mrs. Henry Poos sang: "At Dawning," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with fitted bodice and flared skirt over hoops which lengthened into aisle wide train. The collar was embroidered in seed pearls and the long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a half hat of matching satin and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible to which was attached an orchid.

Miss Joan Palmer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Davis was bridesmaid with Misses Nancy and Louise Glasscock as candlelighters.

Mr. Richard Frye, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and Mr. William Crawford was groomsman.

Dr. Robert Marshall and Mr. Clark Jones were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church with Mrs. Louise McConnell cutting the cake which was served by Miss Mary Sue Williams and Miss Betty Marie Smith.

Miss Palmer, mother of the bride, was dressed in a grey crepe dress with matching accessories and her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Frye, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of the Lee's Summit high school and is employed at the Farmer's Trust company in Lee's Summit. The bridegroom was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school, Central Missouri State college and the University of Missouri. He also attended Northwestern university and is now employed as an engineer for the Missouri Public Service Corporation in Sedalia.

Those from out-of-town attending the wedding were Miss Ella Peithman, Mrs. Rose Hausam and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Black and children, all of Sedalia, O. W. Peithman, of Knob Noster and his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Baker and Mr. Baker, of Kansas City.

Middleground Won Kentucky Derby—$92,650 For Owner

Hill Prince 2nd; Mr. Trouble 3rd; And Sun Glow 4th; Your Host Was 9th

CHURCHILL DOWNS. LOUISVILLE, May 6— (AP) —Middleground, a chestnut racer from the fabulous King ranch in Texas, came a-running in the stretch at Churchill Downs today to outgame everything that challenged him and win the 76th Kentucky Derby with something to spare.

The son of Bold Venture, never in the early contention, proved himself a better colt than Your Host, the California favorite, Hill Prince, the Virginia threat, and all the others of 13 rivals when the chips were down.

Nearly Broke Turf Record

He ran the classic mile and a quarter in two minutes, one and three-fifth seconds, only one-fifth of a second off the Derby record set by the immortal Whirlaway in 1941.

He rewarded R. J. Kleberg, Jr., owner of King Ranch, with $92,650, and gladdened the hearts of the great Texas contingent in the crowd of close to 100,000. Hill Prince finished second, Mr Truble third and Sun Glow fourth in a field which was strung out for considerable distance.

Hill Prince, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, made a stubborn run at Middleground within the last 100 yards, but he couldn't take him. Only two weeks ago they exactly reversed the order of today's finish in the $40,000 Wood Memorial at Jamacia.

Your Host Fails

Your Host the pride of the West Coast, went out in front as he was expected to do. The fleet-footed winner of the Santa Anita derby dashed into the lead in the first run down the stretch and looked like the probable winner approaching the mile.

But then he failed to live up to the hopes for him, and as the big field came into view around the final bend Your Host began to fall back and make way for some other three-year-old who still wanted to run. At the finish he was gasping ninth, all out of gas, and you never saw a bluer crowd than the Californians who thought they had a super race horse.

The Returns

To show how little the large crowd thought of Middleground as against the "big" horses, the Texas beauty paid $17.80 for each $2 winning ticket. He paid $5.40 to place and $3.80 for show. Hill Prince returned $3.80 and $3.20; Mr. Trouble $3.60 to those who thought he might show.

On The Mark, which ran as an entry with Middleground, finished eighth, Oil Capitol, the gray son of Mahmoud and the hope of Oklahoma oilman Tom Gray for first money, came galloping in fifth. It was, in the estimation of sound racing men, a well run derby.

Summer Sports For Children

Jack Cunningham, chairman of recreation for the Chamber of Commerce and Teen Town, has announced plans for an eight-week summer playground program to be held at Liberty Park, under the direction of Howard Glavin, assistant football coach at Smith-Cotton high school.

The program, consisting of tennis, croquet, marbles, softball and swimming. will be open to children from school age 6 years on up. The program will be sponsored by various local civic organizations. The tentative arrangements are for the program to start at 9:00 o'clock on morning, Monday through Friday, and continue through 11 o'clock. It will open shortly after June 5.

Badminton and other games that will probably employ the swimming pool will be brought into the program later. Evening twilight leagues of softball and adult softball will also be added as the organization of the program progresses.

Anyone interested in signing for softball games should contact Coach Glavin, according to Cunningham.

Cunningham said: "The committees of the two groups, Chamber and Teen Town are working out a fine program that should interest all of the children in Sedalia. The program will be slightly hampered this first year, however, by the lack of financial support, but it will be built into one of the finest playground program in this part of the state, once it gets rolling."

Meeting For Women Bowlers Tuesday Night

Tigers Won Big Seven Track Meet

Four New Records Were Posted in Dual at Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 6—(AP)—Missouri's distance runners ran one-two-three in the mile and two-mile today as the Tigers defeated Nebraska 68 1-6 to 62 5-6 in a Big Seven Conference Dual Track meet. Four new records were posted. Missouri clinched its victory by winning the mile relay.

McGuire Paces Tigers

Bill McGuire of Missouri set new meet records of 9:44 in the two-mile and 4:21.1 in the mile, with teammates Bob Fox and Chester Franz running second and third in both to sweep the 18 points in the two races.

Nebraska struck back in the hurdles, taking all but half a point in the two events. Bob Berkshire, Wendoll Cole and Ray Magsaman swept the lows in that order for the Cornhuskers. Berkshire and Cole ran first and second in the highs, while Don Bedker of Nebraska and Frank Bardot of Missouri tied for third.

The Nebraska sweep in the low hurdles pulled the Cornhuskers within striking distance of the Tigers, who had set the pace all the way. But the Husker threat vanished when Missouri's Jim Whitacre, Gil Phillips, Randy Vanet and Elmer Klein won the mile relay.

New All-Time Mark

Top performance of the meet was the 6 feet 6 inches by Missouri's sophomore high jumper, Gorden. It not only was a new meet record, but was Gorden's best effort in competition and a new all-time Missouri high jump mark.

Nebraska claimed one new record. Harold Kopf was clocked in 1 minute 54.8 seconds in the half-mile.

Ben Hogan Leads Greenbrier Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 6—(AP)—Ben Hogan finished the first 54 holes of the Greenbrier open golf tournament today with a phenomenal, 17-under-par 193.

Bantam Ben picked up a five-under par 65 to go with two previous 64's in stretching his lead over second-place Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., to seven strokes with a single round remaining.

Never has the historic, 6,368-yard old White course taken such a sustained beating as that handed out by the plucky Texan in his drive for the first title of his determined comeback campaign.

Alexander, with his 132-68—200, slipped four strokes off his own brilliant six-under 64 of yesterday because he was unable to hole any putts of longer than five feet.

Host pro Sammy Snead and Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., with 134-69—203 and 137-66—203, respectively, were tied for third and fourth. Then came Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., and Norman Von Nida of Sydney, Australia, with 205's.

Hogan needs a four-under-par 66 tomorrow to equal Byron Nelson's all-time PGA-recognized total of 259 for 72 holes of competitive play. The record was set at Broadmoor in Seattle in 1945.

Hogan insists "I'm not staging a comeback, I just had a little rest and am picking up where I left off."

Home Opener For Chiefs Tonight

Sedalia Club Will Play Boonville at Liberty Park

The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs will play their home opener against the Ban Johnson Boonville Lions tonight at 8:00 o'clock under the lights of Liberty Park. Joe Imhauser, ace righthander for the Sedalia Chiefs, will be on the mound.

Uniforms will be given out this morning to about 20 Chief players. Before June 1, the field will have to be cut down to 15 players, so today's game will have an important bearing on who is to remain on the team and who is to leave.

It is anticipated that the Chiefs will play a league or non-league team every Wednesday night at Liberty Park, during baseball season.

30 Game Schedule

Every member of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League is scheduled for 30 games, 15 in the first half and 15 more during the second half. Climaxing the season will be a playoff between northern and southern division winners.

The way the respective managers view the forthcoming pennant races in the recently expanded Central Missouri Ban Johnson league is Brookfield or Chillicothe in the northern division and Moberly and Sedalia to resume their 1949 duel in the southern division.

Chillicothe has available many of the standouts that made Manager Bob Moore's Indians a threat throughout the 1949 campaign. Brookfield, after a season of idleness, will return to the Ban Johnson wars with some of the division's top talent.

Defending Champs

The Moberly Miners, defending champions, lost one of the best second basemen in the circuit when Jim Dent passed the 21-year limit. Jessee James, fireballing righthander, who had a 12-5 record last year, signed a professional contract. Even so, Manager Jim Hampton's Miners, with nine holdovers and six members of Moberly's championship Legion team in tap, are the natural choices of rival pilots.

Hampton, with considerable justification, looks for the most trouble from the Sedalia Chiefs. Manager G. O. Hawley has back all but one member of a 1949 squad that carried the pennant fight with Moberly to the final game of the season.

Sedalia's Hurler

Sedalia will pin its hopes on stocky Joe Imhauser, a swift righthander with a wicked curve. Considered one of the league's brightest professional prospects, Imhauser already has written one of the league's most impressive records.

Making their initial bid for Ban Johnson laurels in the new southern division will be Newton, Unionville, Kirksville and Macon. They, with Brookfield and Chillicothe, comprise the newly organized division.

When the cry "play ball" sounds today around the circuit, every member will swing into action. In the northern division, Kirksville will be at Macon, Brookfield at Newton and Chillicothe at Unionville.

Inaugurals in the southern division will send Boonville to Sedalia, Jefferson City to Mexico and Moberly to Columbia.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

TODAY the Ban Johnson Chiefs will try to get the Sedalia baseball season opened. The Cubs tried last week, but rain, a heavy diamond, put a damper on their opening day. The Chiefs looked over weather reports Saturday night, and then decided they would get the 1950 break and open up against Boonville today.

The Cubs will journey over to Armstrong, and the Pettis County Post No. 16, Junior American Legion makes a trip to Warsaw, while the Teen-Age Blues will do battle at LaMonte.

Not only will today be the opening of the South Circuit of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, in Sedalia but the entire North and South Circuit teams will also get started. The Chiefs are keeping their fingers crossed in a hope to win their first league contest and take the first half of the season play.

SPEAKING of Leagues, many of the "old timers" will recall the old Missouri Valley League. Last week we had a visitor in the Democrat office, R. E. Bradley, who played a short time with the old Sedalia team.

Bradley was taking a look at the old files of the Democrat and just going over "memories". He called my attention to the fact it was April 7, 1907 the Valley broke up, the Sedalia team gave up its franchise, and a reorganization of the league held.

With the blowing up of the league, the reorganization resulted in the Kansas State League being formed. Sedalia was not a member of the league.

Bradley recalled many old time players.

While here he visited with Hubbell White, M.K.T R.R. cashier, 214 East Sixth street.

It appears that a number of these baseball managers, secretary of baseball clubs, and secretaries of several other sporting clubs and associations either don't read sports scraps, or do not take our paper. Apparently they failed. at least, to read the "get your news in early" portion of this column last week

For the information on the deadline, it's 9:30 o'clock in the morning on weekdays and noon on Saturdays. There may be an exception on Saturday, providing we are notified before that time there will be a story for the Sunday paper, but it will not be used if it comes in too long after the noon hour. And that's for sure.

Sedalia Cubs Play Out of Town Today

The Sedalia Cubs will play their second out of town game of the season today, when they meet Armstrong. The Cubs will leave in a group from the Pla-Mor recreation at 11:00 o'clock this morning.

The Cubs will play their first home game on the night of May 12, under the lights of Liberty Park, against the Jefferson City Dodgers. Last Sunday the Cubs were scheduled for their home opener against the Holden Chiefs, but were rained out. The tickets purchased for that game, may be used for the May 12 game.

Teen-Age Blues Play LaMonte Team Today

The Teen-Age Blues will journey to LaMonte this afternoon for a baseball game with the LaMonte team, starting at 2:15 p.m.

This will be the first out-of-town game for the Blues, after losing their first two tilts at home with Kansas City teams.

The probable starting line-up for Sedalia will be: Thomas 2b, Lane ss, Watson cf, Vaught 3b, Walter rf, Higgens 1b, Wall lf, Lees c, Fisher, or Smith on the mound.

The Blues will leave from Housel Park at 12 o'clock noon.

Unconditional Release To Veteran Hurler

PITTSBURGH, May 6— (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today handed an unconditional release to Harry Gumbert, veteran right-handed hurler.

The rangy flinger compiled a record of 143 victories against 113 defeats during his 14 years of major league pitching. He spent seven years with the New York Giants and played in four world series.

Gumbert was purchased by the Pirates from Cincinnati last season. His 1949 record was five wins and seven losses.

The record list his age as 36.

Gumbert said he has no immediate plans.

Tigers to Sub-Region Meet, Monday

Local Baseball Team Will Play Kansas City Squad

The Smith-Cotton Tiger baseball team will engage in its first game in the state sub-region tournament, Monday night at 8:00 o'clock against Clennon of Kansas City at the C.Y.C stadium in Kansas City on Swope Park Drive. In the other game of the sub-region, the Grandview high school team will clash with LaSalle high school of Kansas City at Grandview, Monday night.

Winners Play Tuesday

The winners in the Monday night games will play for the championship of the Kansas City sub-region at Grandview Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock. The winner of the K.C. sub-region will then tangle with the winner of the Mexico sub-region, sometime within the next two weeks. The winner of this tilt will represent the North Missouri region in finals of the state tournament to be held in St. Louis on May 24 and 25.

Tigers Round Into Shape

The S-C baseball team has been working out for the past three weeks under coaches James Ball and Cecil Glenn and is beginning to round into good shape. The squad to make the trip Monday night will be limited to 15 players, due to the lack of traveling accomodations. The team will leave Sedalia for Kansas City around 4:00 p.m. Monday.

Probable Pitcher

The probable pitcher for the Tigers will be Bob Ray or Bill Brown. The other two pitchers rounding out the pitching staff are Ralph Schulz and Dave Johnson.

The probable starting catcher for the game is Leon Nold. Kenneth Neidholt, rounds out the catching department

Other Line-ups

Don Broaddus will probably appear on first base and Johnny Cochran will probably be on second base. Ralph Walker will play shortstop. In the outfield will be: Bill Holst, Bill McCrary and Dale Ruffin. Bill Morgan will play third base, with Bill Arnold, a utility player.

Junior Legion Team Opens Season Today

The American Legion Junior baseball team, which is sponsored by the W. A. Smith Ford Motors and the American Leagion Post 16 will open its season today at Warsaw against Warsaw Junior Legion.

Manager Homer Earhart said he was not sure as to the starting pitcher but would be one of these: Dave Johnson, "Skip" Schulz, Bill Arnold, Virgil Rodgers or B. Barnes. Around the infield will be Floyd Burton at first, Down Percival on second base, Bob Shawver, the captain at short and Bill Morgan on third base In the outfield Bill Dey will be in left, Don Broaddus in center and Bob Bartlett in right. John Cochran will be behind the plate. Manager Earhart asserted that he did not plan to work any pitcher over five innings until July, so several boys will probably see action.

The team will leave from Smith-Cotton high school at 12:15 p.m. on the Legion bus.

The first home game will be May 14 with Joplin.

Tickets Now Available for Swimming

Opening Program At Sedalia's New Pools on May 26

Sedalia's first swimming pool season ticket has been sold as a birthday gift. It went to Barbara Dougherty, who Saturday celebrated her eleventh birthday, and it was a gift from her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dougherty, 916 South Massachusetts avenue.

P. A. Sillers, who will manage both swimming pools, has announced the season tickets are now ready for sale. There are three kinds of tickets, the adult ticket, children's tickets, and the parent ticket, the latter which is sold jointly when a child's ticket is sold, if it is desired. Tickets can be obtained by calling Mr. Sillers at 3664 up until May 20, when they can be obtained at either swimming pool, while arrangements are being made for the opening.

Pools Will Be Cleaned

Water will be put into the pools on Saturday, May 20, but not until both have been scrubbed down with soap and water. A representative of the Wallace Terrin Co., maker of the chlorinator equipment which is to be used at both pools, will arrive in Sedalia May 21 to make necessary adjustments, "shoot" the water with chlorine and then work it to condition for swimming.

More than 500 suits, swim towels, clothes baskets, and other necessary equipment has been on order and expected the coming week.

Life guards will be on duty at both pools for the safety of the swimmers, and they not only will be instructed lifesavers but trained in first aid.

Water Safety Show

The show on May 26 will be in connection with water safety. There will be demonstrations of diving given by well known and expert swimmers. Various instructions in the art of swimming will be given at this time, life saving demonstrations and everything which goes along with the swimming sport.

Mr. Sillers is urging swimmers and prospective swimmers to obtain the seasonal tickets. "They are nice graduation, commencement, and birthday gifts." he said.

11 to 7 Win For Phillies Over Cards

Redbirds Used Seven Pitchers In the Game

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—One Cardinal hurler looked as good as another to the Philadelphia Phillies today as they pounded seven of the St. Louis pitchers for an 11 to 7 victory.

The show started with three runs against Max Lanier in the first inning. It ended with four tallies in the ninth, including three of them on a single by Stan Lopata that Harry Walker fumbled allowing Lopata to get home behind two base runners.

Dick Sisler walked twice and singled once, batting in two runs with the single.

Two Redbirds were effective against Philadelphia bats—Al Brazle and Erv Dusak. Dusak held the Phillies hitless in two innings, but he went out for a pinch-batter and the Phils then picked on reliefers Ellis Deal and Fred Martin for their last four runs—the margin of victory.

Bob Miller started on the hill for the Phils but he was replaced by Hank Borowy and later Jim Konstanty as St. Louis picked up a few runs and threatened the Phils' lead.

Expert on Tax Addresses Insurance Men

Devotes Greater Part of Time To Income Taxes

"You were working for Uncle Sam the first two months of last year," Ernest T. McClure, insurance man and said to be one of the best posted men in Kansas City, on taxes, told his audience at the monthly meeting of the Sedalia Life Underwriters Association in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel, Saturday afternoon.

The speaker said, "I recently learned that the average citizen worked the first 61 days in 1949 just to pay his federal taxes. Now that didn't include the hundreds and hundreds of other taxes—the city—the state—the county—and all of the taxes which go to make up our daily living. For example, there is the sales tax, the cigarette tax, the liquor tax, the amusement tax, etc."

Announced St. Louis Meeting

Abe Silverman, president of the local association, presided and introduced the speaker, and announced that the annual meeting of the Missouri Association Life Underwriters convention in St. Louis would open May 18. Silverman also announced that officers for the ensuing year would be nominated at the next monthly meeting, and appointed the following nominating committee: George Yeaman, L. G. Brown and Virgil Ragar. The meeting was attended by eight Sedalia attorneys, three certified public accountants, and members. Silverman pointed out that any citizen of Sedalia is always welcome to attend the meetings.

Mr. McClure in his prepared speech, gave an informative talk upon the three main divisions of taxation; income taxes, estate or inheritance taxes, and gift taxes.

Income Tax

Touching on the income tax division, the speaker discussed the taxes affecting life insurance payments by the beneficiary because of the death of the insured. He related that proceeds received upon the death of the insured was, generally speaking, not taxable income to the beneficiary. He pointed out that the beneficiary was excluded from the gross income whether the beneficiary be an estate, an individual, a trust or a corporation.

He asserted that the principal exception to this rule is when the proceeds are held on deposit with the insurance company and the beneficiary receives pure interest.

Inasmuch as income taxes affect everyone of us every day, the speaker spent more time on that division of taxes, than on estate or gift taxes.

"After all," the speaker related, "estate taxes are payable only in event of the death of a wealthy individual. Gift taxes are payable only if a wealthy individual desires to distribute part of his wealth during his lifetime."

The Smith-Cotton "Kid Day" though somewhat hampered by the high wind and traffic accidents otherwise was well enjoyed. The seniors roamed the streets all day and had a genuinely merry but quiet time of it, dressed up like early grade school children and armed with water guns.

The assembly which started the day off Friday morning had gay decorations and all of the usual "Kid's" acts in it along with some new ones. The program was: "Brush Those Tears From Your Eyes" played by the small senior band; a song and dance number by the "Q.T." club members; a boys' quartet: Leo Eickhoff with a comic farewell address; Dorothy Wasson with a poem; piano duet by Jean Hains and Carolyn Cooper, the "Lucky 12 Club" with another song and dance; the will; a boys group singing "Cigareets and Whuskey and Wild, Wild Wimin"; the prophesy; a comedy band trio; Bill Franklin singing "Shortnin' Bread"; a sextette doing "Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch", and group of girls with a farewell song to the school. The band closed the program with an appropriate number.

After the assembly a picnic was held at the country home of Virginia Fairfax. After the picnic the entire class went to a movie at the Fox theater.

Taylor-Hilton Wedding At Hollywood Glamorous

By Bob Thomas

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 6—(AP)—Calm and beautiful as a fairy princess, Elizabeth Taylor recited wedding vows with hotel heir Conrad Hilton Jr., today.

While 2,500 movie fans milled outside the Catholic church of the Good Shepherd, the dark-tressed actress declared:: "I will," in a steady but restrained voice.

The wedding went off on time and without a hitch. At 4:50 p. m. a black limousine delivered the bride and her father, art dealer Francis Taylor, before the church. The crowd gasped at her beauty as she stepped out in her billowing white gown.

At precisely 5 p. m. the church organ began intoning and Miss Mary Jane Smith sang two religious airs. At 5:10 the wedding march began playing and young Hilton and his brother, Barron, the best man, stepped before the altar. The near capacity-audience of socialites and movie prominents rose.

The six bridesmaids, all in yellow, walked slowly down the yellow satin carpet. Miss Taylor followed holding on the arm of her father.

Miss Taylor and Hilton stood steadily before the rail in front of the golden altar and listened as Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Concannon asked them to be "loyal and true to the end."

Ripple of Laughter on Kiss

After the vows, the bridegroom slipped a diamond-studded platinum ring on the bride's finger, declaring that he "promise unto thee my fidelity." She gave him a plain gold band after reciting the vow. After the priest pronounced them husband and wife and congratulated them, Hilton grasped his bride and delivered a kiss that caused a ripple of laughter in the church. As the pair marched down the aisle she paused to kiss her father and mother.

At the reception at the Bel-Air country club, a reporter asked Miss Taylor if she was nervous in the church.

"Nervous? Why I was walking around in a daze," she answered. "I had butterflies in my stomach, too."

Young Hilton was asked if he was nervous.

"I was," he said.

The couple is to leave soon on a European honeymoon but they are going on a short trip before starting on that one. Asked if he would say where they were heading tonight, Hilton replied: "It's not too far away."

The bride is 18 and generally termed the screen's most beautiful girl. The bridegroom, a tall, handsome Texan of 23 years, is the son of Conrad Hilton, whose hotel holdings are reportedly worth $125,000,000.

The wedding gown was a production in itself and aroused a brief controversy. One reporter printed that it would feature a plunging neckline. The horrified designer, Helen Rose of MGM, quickly squelched the report. "The gown is about as unplunging as anything can be," she reported.

The gown, which Miss Rose termed a "nice modest, pretty dress that any girl would wear," would probably be beyond the means of most brides. The studio is footing the bill and won't disclose the amount. The gown required 25 yards of pure-silk satin and handfuls of seed pearls and beads. It fluffs out at the hips an is tightly fitted above the waist.

Autos Damaged In A Collision

Considerable damage resulted to two automobiles, about 10:30 o'clock Friday night, in a four-car accident at Third street and Grand avenue. Occupants of two cars which participated in the beginning of the accident escaped injury, the other two cars were parked.

The two principal cars in the accident were a 1935 Ford coach driven by Mrs. H. F. Smith, 1901 South Sneed, who was driving north on Grand avenue, and a 1937 Ford coupe driven by Victor Propst, Centertown, Mo., who was going east on Third street. The two parked cars were those of Charles M. Scruton, a 1939 Chevrolet coach and D. Kelly Scruton, a 1949 Cadillac sedan, parked on the north side of Third street.

The Propst car struck the side of the Smith car, the Smith car swerved to the east and struck the Chevrolet and then struck a guy wire on a light pole, the Chevrolet bounced into the rear of the Cadillac. The Smith car and the Cadillac were considerably damaged.

Police made an investigation.

Entry Of George Miller Exhibited

Young artists of the eastern Kansas and the western Missouri district which covered fifty-four counties received one college scholarship and twenty eight prizes and honorable mentions at the National Scholastic Art contest which was held in Pittsburgh, Pa., where 32,000 entries were judged by nationally recognized artists.

The preliminary for this contest was held at the Emery Byrd Thayer store in Kansas City last March and George Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Miller, 1403 West Fourth street, a student at Smith-Cotton high school received a first prize award at this judging.

At the national contest at which this award entitled his work to be shown, George's pastel entry was chosen as one of those at this affair to be put on exhibit.

Sedalia Dental Assistants Society

Monday evening May 1, the Sedalia dental assistants met in the office of Dr. Thomas D. Schaad for their first certification class. Dr. Schaad instructed the class his topic being on "chairside assisting." The certification class is a 104 hour study course given to all dental assistants wishing to become better educated in the field of dentistry and assisting the dentist. Classes are to be held one evening a week with the dentist as instructors.

GOP Women To Meet Tuesday

The Pettis County Republican Womens' club will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday in the Assembly room at the courthouse at 2 p.m. Mrs. Frank Evans, program chairman, has planned a varied program with Chester Wolf, an attorney, as the speaker for the afternoon.

Music will be given by the a cappella quartette, "The Harmony Four," and Mrs. Herbert Shepherd, club pianist. There will also be an election of delegates to the State Republican Womens' convention in Jefferson City, June 3.

Republican Women Invited

All Republican women who are interested and those who assisted as judges, clerks, and workers in the recent city election are invited. In keeping with the national Republican policies of schools for GOP workers, a short interim of instruction on the new election laws will be a part of the program.

Two committee appointments have been made by Rose Leibbrand, president: Mrs. Herb Studer, membership chairman and Mrs. Frank Evans, program chairman. Mrs. Herbert Shepherd was appointed club pianist.

25th Council Anniversary

The Smith-Cotton high school's senior student council will celebrate its silver anniversary this year with the annual banquet in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel on Friday, May 12th.

The room will be decorated and entertainment will be furnished by the members of the council. The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock.

The guests for this affair will be all of the past presidents, their wives or husbands. Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Franklin, parents of Bill Franklin the present senior council president, Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Hunt, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benson, and the members of the board of education and their wives.

After the dinner there will be a short musical program furnished by the present members of the council, after which there will be roll call by years answered by that year's president.

A formal dance to the music of a group of high school seniors, will close the evening.

To Research Hospital

Mrs. Frank Coffman, 1411 South Ohio avenue, will enter the Research hospital in Kansas City this morning for surgery.

Sedalian Gets 'One' Rating

At the Missouri high school speech contest which is sponsored annually by the Speech Association and which was held at the University of Missouri this year, Shirley Jo Wilson of Sedalia, representing Smith-Cotton high school, won a one rating. This rating was given to only two schools in prose reading, which was her field. The other award went to Lebanon.

The contest was organized by the committee in speech association in Missouri, of which the Smith-Cotton speech coach, Miss Anna L. Sawford, is a member.

The following fields were open for competition at the contest: Dramatics, public speaking, extemporaneous speaking, prose reading and verse reading. Those who participated in these events won their right to do so by taking first place in district contests held in April.

Those from Sedalia who attended the contest were: Shirley Jo Wilson, Carol Lance, Alberta Lane, Miss Ida Cruzan and Miss Anna L. Sawford.

Senate Passes Big Aid Bill

Quarter Billion Pared Off Next Installment In Marshall Plan

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The Senate passed a $3,122,450,000 foreign aid bill Friday night after economy advocates had taken a $250,000,000 slice off the next Marshall plan installment.

The vote to approve the big measure was 60 to 8.

Final passage climaxed three weeks of sporadic but heated debate on the global aid measure which the House passed March 31

Besides providing for continuing the Marshall plan of economic aid designed to bolster Europe against Communism, the bill calls for assistance to Korea and other areas.

Although administration leaders lost in their effort to win approval of the full $3,100,000,000 requested for the European recovery program, they scored a victory by gaining clearance for President Truman's "point four" plan to aid backward areas of the world.

Sanction "Four Point" Program

By a 37 to 36 tally the Senate adopted a $45,000,000 authorization to start the "point four" program after rejecting 41 to 33 a Republican move to turn the matter over to a bipartisan commission for further study.

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the appropriations committee served notice, however, he opposes the technical aid proposal and said he will seek to block the $45,000,000 outlay when the actual money bill comes up later.

The present bill is an "authorization" measure which puts Congress on record as favoring the aid, but appropriates no actual money.

The House previously had approved the "point four" plan but trimmed the amount to $25,000,000

As passed by the Senate and House the big foreign aid measure authorizes $2,850,000,000 for the European recovery program; $100,000,000 for Korea; $100,000,000 for economic aid to the China area; $25,450,000 for Arab refugees in Palestine and the "point four" plan.

The legislation now goes to a Senate-House conference group to work out differences in the two bills.

Beat Back Billion Cut

The biggest Senate fight came over the Republican drive to whack up to $1,000,000,000 off the Marshall plan program for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

The administration forces beat back the billion dollar reduction proposal of Senator Kem (R-Mo) by a tidy margin, 62 to 17. But on the next move to cut it $500,000,000 they just squeezed through on a 40 to 40 tie vote.

It was a coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans which finally put across the $250,000,000 reduction on a 47 to 33 roll call vote.

The voting came after warnings from Democratic leaders that a deep cut in the Marshall plan funds might force this country to increase its defense outlays vastly

Just before the voting got underway Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois declared that an "isolationist" policy would turn America into a "garrison state" and double the present defense spending total of $13,000,000,000.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate foreign relations committee made a plea against any cuts in the foreign air measure.

In a last minute effort to head off the economy forces, Connally made public a letter from Marshall plan director Paul Hoffman expressing concern over the proposed cuts. Hoffman went on to say that the reductions not only would affect the European aid program severely but also place in jeopardy the $10,000,000,000 already invested in the stop-Communism plan

The Senate also defeated, 52 to 24, an attempt by Senator Kem to bar aid to any nation which sent to Russia or its satellites any materials that could be used "to maintain or expand directly" the military forces.

Beaten 46 to 31 was an amendment by Senators Young (R-ND) and Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) that would have required ECA to buy farm and food products in the United States if they were classed as surplus or selling below government price support levels.

Sedalia Cleanup, Paintup, Fixup Week

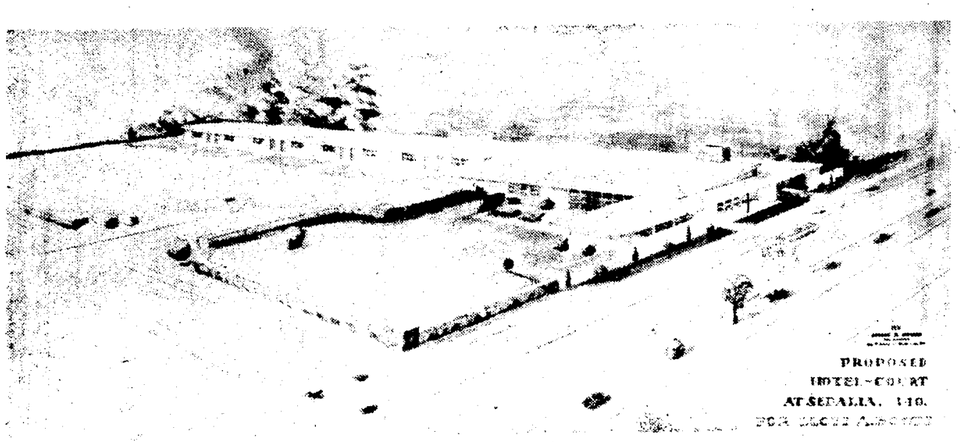
This is the El Rancho motel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wes Morris, located on the south side of Highway 50, about two miles west of Sedalia. The 22-unit motel is scheduled to be completed May 15. A central office and lounging room will be constructed in the center of the drive-way. E. E. Lingle is the contractor. (Padgett Photo)

This is the Sedalia Motel, located just west of the city limits on Highway 50. The 20-unit all fire-proof motel is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips. Shown to the right is the central office and above is living quarters for Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and family. The motel is slated to be completed June 15. Patterson Bros. are the contractors. (Padgett Photo)



This is an architect drawing of the proposed 10-unit hotel courts to be called Boots Hotel Court, located on State Fair Boulevard and Broadway. The construction started about two weeks ago, and the project is scheduled to be completed in 90 days, according to Lloyd A. Boots, who is the owner and is doing most of the construction work himself, since he is a contractor. The courts will be of masonry construction, will be modern in every way, and in each of the units will be a bathroom. The parkways will be of concrete. According to the building permit, this construction is a $50,000 project. Mr. and Mrs. Boots and two children, Bobby and Barbara Jean will reside in the rear of the courts, where they plan to build their living quarters. Eugene B. Hughes, of Webb City, was the architect.

Clean Up Time

If your yard is full of trash,
Clean it up,
Now's the time to get real rash,
Clean it up,
Clean up, papers, leaves and cans,
Old discarded pots and pans,
Get the rubbish off your hands,
Clean it up.
If your fence is broken down,
Fix it up,
If your porch sags to the ground,
Fix it up,
If your roof is kinda leaky,
If your paint is off or streaky,
And your whole house sorta squeaky,
Fix it up.
If your business house looks bad,
Paint it up,
Make your customers feel glad,
Paint it up,
Any business house that's cheery
Draws the trade from one that's dreary
So it's just a simple theory,
Paint it up.
If you want a nicer city,
Plant it up,
Do your part to make it pretty,
Plant it up,
Mow your grass and cut your weeds
Plant some shrubs and sow some seeds
And you'll do your civic deeds,
Plant it up.

Promote Safety, Economy, Utility And Beauty of Sedalia

(By Ray Lippard for Chamber of Commerce)

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce is launching a clean up, paint up, and fix up week May 7-13. This is one effort inwhich everyone can participate and to make it a success it is necessary that everyone do his share.

When Mr. Farmer wants to grow a crop he cleans up his field. If we want to grow a crop of fine citizens in our city it is necessary that we keep a clean wholesome environment.

Clean up and fix up and paint up promotes economy. It not only adds to the appearance but it adds to the value of property.

It also promotes utility. If everything is orderly it is much easier to do a job effeciently. And certainly time is an omportant factor in this high pressure age. It likewise promotes beauty. If we want a town that will both attract visitors and impress them atfer they arrive, we must certainly advertise our town with clean streets, attractive well painted homes and yards and gardens that are kept in good condition.

Safety Is Important

Over an above all the other considerations is the fact of safety. It was the privilege of the writer to attend a statewide fire prevention meeting at Jefferson City about six months ago. The thought there was to encourage the people of our community and all communities throughout the state to guard against fire hazazrds. To excercise precaution and carefulness to the end that we would minimize the number of tragic fires which not only take the toll of economic value but all too often lives also. Certainly by cleaning up attics and basements and trash gathering spots both in homes and business places we will make our entire community safer as regards fire hazards.

There is another angle to this safety and that is accidents caused by carelessness. Rubbish lying around the premises always constitutes a danger spot inside or outside the house. A clutter on the stairway may mean a fall and serious injury. Trash on the premises sometimes is likewise the cause of an unfortunate accident.

City Wide Campaign

This campaign of course is something that applies to everyone and is citywide. It means taking care of your home premises, of your business place and of the common property such as streets, parks, and alleys, etc. Lets not ony give this effort our enthusiastic endorsement but lets all join in the active efforts toward cleaning up our private properties and our public property.

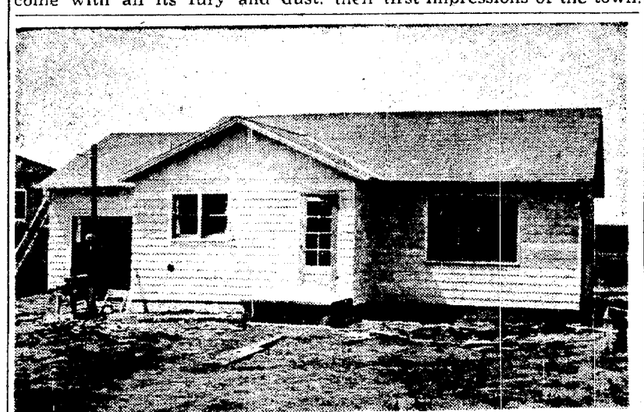
There is an old Chinese proverb that "We do not stumble over mountains"; meaning that if we look after our own duties we shall be able to take care of the big job. Clean up week is a big job. Lets everyone do his share to promote safety, to promote economy, to promote utility and to promote beauty for our home town.

Lions Improve Civic Club Signs

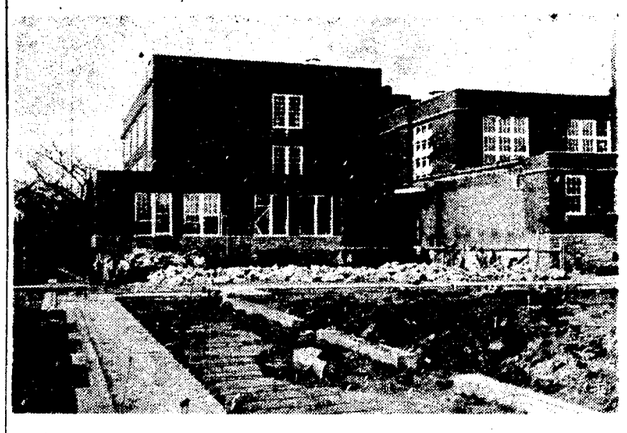
Looking around for a civic project as its contribution in the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign the Lions club chose the sign posts with the emblems of the civic clubs on them at the entrance each way into the city. Then along comes the wind and helps to make their job, which was already a big one, a still bigger one. But the Lions club members don't mind that—they are just glad the wind came before they started their clean-up job instead of waiting until they had shined everything up and then come with all its fury and dust.

The members of the club are going to cut the grass around the signs, paint the sign posts, scrub up the emblems and put them back in place. They are going to have to get new chains for the signs, too, because the chains that were on them to hold them up have vanished—they have apparently gone with the wind.

It will be a good day's work by the time the organization gets everything back in order but it is a real worthwhile project because it gives those on the highways their first impressions of the town.



This new modern four-room house, at 1012 State Fair Boulevard, was completed the latter part of the week, and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo L. Morris. The contractors were brothers, coming one of Sedalia's loveliest districts. Mr. Morris is employed at the Askew Motor company in Sedalia. The Morrises W. E. and J. J. Murray. State Fair Boulevard is gradually belive at 501 West Fifth street. (Padgett Photo)

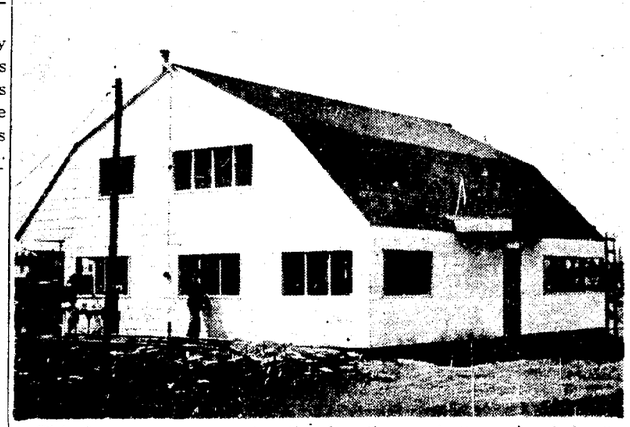


The foundation and rock work for the new Smith-Cotton high school music room, and the cafeteria is shown above. The old music room and girls' lockers were torn down. The cafeteria is expected to be completed by next school term. Cramer and Schrader have the contract for most of the improvements, and E. A. Brunson Construction company of St. Louis has the cafeteria contract. (Padgett Photo)

This is the new French colonial seven-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean, 1401 West Broadway. There are two rooms upstairs, and a bath and five rooms and bath downstairs. An all complete screened-in porch is in rear. Mr. Dean was the contractor. The Deans moved into their new home during the ice storm last December, just three days before Christmas. Arthur J. P. Schwarz was the architect. (Phofo by Padgett)

This is the new modern five-room home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Murray and children, 821 Arlington avenue. Mr. Murray, who is a building contractor, built the house, and said he anticipated doing more work around the house. (Padgett Photo)

This is the new five-room house of Mr. and Mrs. George Boots, 810 South Carr avenue. It is all modern and has a full basement. The Boots moved into their new home about three weeks ago. Mr. Boots' brother, Lloyd Boots was the contractor. (Padgett Photo)



This house, under construction for the past year, located on West Broadway, is one of the largest houses being built in Sedalia at the present time. The ten room structure is the future home of Dr. and Mrs. Karl B. Gonser. One of the biggest features about this house is that it will be equipped with year around air-conditioning. None of the windows in the house were constructed to open. Fresh air will enter the house by means of about 500 feet of copper tubing, which has been placed under the ground. There will be six rooms downstairs and four bedrooms upstairs, with a full basement and a double garage in the basement. Dr. Gonser, who has done much of the construction work himself, said they planned to move in sometime this summer, and hoped to have the house finished this fall. (Photo by Padgett)

Building Continues, 45 Permits Issued By City Between January 1 and May 1

The building trend in Sedalia is still going strong, as new homes and public buildings continue to increase. However, the total sum of money spent for construction work the past year, compared to 1948 figures has declined slightly.

In 1948, approximately $1,650,000 was expended for construction work in Sedalia, compared to $1,250,000 spent for building projects in 1949. Many buildings, such as churches, swimming pools and other public construction were not included in the 1949 figure, as the figure represented 160 permits issued that year for houeses and commercial buildings.

Since January up to May 1, this year, 45 building permits have been issued at the city hall by Louis W. Dickman, building and electrical inspector, which represent about $340,000 in construction work now in process, not including the $733,725.82 public school project underway.

Many Hames Going Up

Houses, which have been built during the past year, or are now under construction are scattered all over town, but the greatest percentage of new homes being constructed, seem to be in the southwest and southeast areas of this city.

A proprietor of a wall-paper and paint store recently said they were selling more wallpaper and paint than they have in many years, so this is a good indication that property owners are in the "thick of things."—a paint brush in one hand, and a paste brush in the other.

And too, many of the owners of old houses are "fixing things up," which have gone neglected during the war years, mainly because materials were scarce and too expensive and labor was too high or hard to hire. Although there is still a housing shortage, competition in finding apartments and houses to rent isn't quite as bad as it was a few years ago, so landlords are "fixing up" now to make their renting quarters more attractive to the tenants.

School Project Underway

One of the bigget contruction jobs now in progress in Sedalia is the $733,725.82 public school project. Work started at Smith-Cotton high school, Whittier school and Horace Mann school several weeks ago. The major construction being done at Smith-Cotton is the erection of a modern cafeteria, an addition of three stories of class rooms in addition to an auditorium-gymnasium and boys and girls, locker and shower rooms.

At Horace Mann, three class rooms are under construction, plus a new auditorium-gymnasium. One class room addition and an auditorium and gymnasium the the major construction to be made at Whittier school.

Interior Repairs

Interior repairs, concrete corridors and stair-ways and a remodeled auditorium are some of the improvements planned for Broadway school. A new workshop addition will be constructed at Hubbard high school, and minor repairs will be made at Jefferson school. New concrete stairways and other improvements were made some time ago at Jefferson school. All improvements under the school project are to be completed by January 30, 1951, and it is anticipated the cafeteria at the high school will be completed before school opens this fall. A new gymnasium-auditorium was completed at Sacred Heart school last year.

A noticeable improvement to the city of Sedalia, is the construction of thre motels, now being built on the edge of the city west on Highway 50. All three are scheduled to be in operation before the Missouri State Fair opens in August.

New Tourist Courts

The first motel slated to be completed is the Morris El Rancho, located about 2 miles from Sedalia on the south side of Highway 50. The contractor is scheduled to complete the 22 unit motel by May 15.

The motel is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Morris, who will have their home built just west of the motel. Mr. Morris said he hoped to be operating the motel by May 15. The motel is composed of all modern units, 18 singles and four doubles, and will be heated in winter by a central heating plant. A deep well was drilled to the rear of the motel, to provide plenty of water. There will be an office and lounging room in the center of the motel side Elmo E. Lingle is the contractor. The motel will be landscaped and the semi-

Eliminate Fire Hazards; Fire Chief 'Don'ts'

(By Ed Ringen, for Chamber of Commerce)

We are approaching the Clean-Up, Paint-Up Campaign. Many people will be burning leaves, newspapers, and other rubbish which has accumulated through the winter months. While the purpose of this program is to further beautify our city by "lifting its face," we must also consider the danger of serious damage and loss due to carelessness with fire.

Fire Chief John Lueck stated in a recent interview that the majority of the runs by the fire department during this season of the year are due mainly to carelessness while burning rubbish. It was pointed out that while no serious loss has so far resulted from such fires this year, a definite hazard exists and can be eliminated only by the people themselves being extremely careful.

Some Common Mistakes

Some of the common mistakes were pointed out by the fire chief and should be particularly well remembered and avoided. Here are the "Don't: 1. DON'T start a fire near any building. Pick a spot far enough away so that there is no danger of the building catching on fire. 2. DON'T start a fire on a windy day. Choose a day which is still, thus eliminating the hazard of a wild, uncontrolled fire. 3. DON'T leave your fire. Stay with it and watch it until it has completely burned out.

Furthermore, carelessness which results in fire damage often occurs inside the house itself. Make certain that the electric fuses in your house are not too heavy to blow out in case of an overloaded circuit. Check the cords on your electric iron and other appliances. Any electric cord with badly worn insulation should be replaced with a new one. That's as good a place as any to start your Clean-Up Campaign.

Where NOT to Dump Your Trash

Sights like this should be eliminated in Sedalia and on nearby highways and roads. Instead of dumping trash and other debris at the city disposal grounds, or having trash hauled away, a few load up cars with trash, and drive out at night and dispose of the debris by dumping it alongside a road or into a ditch, such as pictured above.

City ordinance No. 2126, section 4, reads as follows pertaining to the above situation: "It shall be unlawful for any person, by himself, or his agent or agents, or as agent for another, to dump any dead animals, trash, debris, slop, cans, loose paper or decayed or decaying matter (vegetable or animal) on any public thoroughfare of such city or any vacant lot or tract or parcel of land in such city, or as near to the limits of such city as to constitute or add to a nuisance dangerous to the health of the inhabitants of such city."

The city disposal grounds, located five miles west of Sedalia, is open during week-days between 8:00 o'clock in the morning and 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of having trash of all sorts dumped on the grounds. On Saturdays, the disposal ground is open in the morning between 8:00 and 12:00 a.m. (Photo by Padgett)

Building His Own Home

This five-room house, bath and full basement at 1600 South Moniteau avenue is the future home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Roberts, who now reside next door at 1604 South Moniteau avenue. Mr. Roberts, who is a coach carpenter at the Missouri Pacific shops, has been doing the construction work by himself and started digging the basement last June. When the house is completed, the Roberts will move in and rent their other home. They plan to construct a garage at the new residence. (Padgett Photo)

Screen Time is Here Again

By Boh Scharff
Written for NEA Service

It is time to again hang your screens and it is also time that they should receive their annual care.

Before screens are hung, wash them thoroughly and check the condition of the frame joints. If the frame is coming apart, strengthen the joints by screwing small right-angle metal straps to the frame corners.

To prevent staining of the window frames and to preserve the screening, coat with spar varnish or screen enamel. First, scrub the screening clean with hot water and soap, then wash with benzine or turpentine to remove all rust and corrosion.

Any good quality spar varnish can be used, thinned with the equal of a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. Wipe on the varnish with a cloth instead of using a brush. One coat should last for at least a full season. Paint the frame, also, to help prevent deterioration.

Small holes in the screen can be repaired simply with a patch of screening, placed over the hole and woven to the screen with a strand of wire. However, if the screening is badly broken or rusted, the only solution is to replace with new wire cloth.

To do this place the screen flat on a table. Pry up the molding which hold the screening in place. Remove all the brads or tacks left in the frame of the screen.

Start by tacking the screening down at the top of the frame. Then stretch it slightly and evenly and tack the bottom edge down. Keep the wires of the screening straight with the sides of the frame. Now tack one side down and then the other side. Renail the molding back with ¾-inch or 1-inch brads. Touch up the frame with paint or, repaint the whole frame.

Screen doors recieve a lot of banging and misuse. Therefore before installing, tighten the screws in the hinges. If they will not screw in tight, take them out and either put the hinges on the screen in a different location, or drive match sticks or splinters of soft wood into the screw holes.

If the door sags, fasten a metal rod with a turnbuckle to the frame at the intersection of the bottom rail with the outer vertical rail and securing the other end to the hinge rail at the highest point it will reach. After fastening, the turnbuckle can be used to raise the bottom of the frame to a right angle with the vertical rails.

Screen doors are rewired in the same way as window screens. The screening of the lower part of the door can be given added protection if a guard of heavy screen mesh is tacked to the frame over the regular screening.

Every screen door should be equipped for automatic and noiseless closing. An easy to install door check is the simplest way to accomplish this.

St. Louis County Has Population Gain

ST. LOUIS, May 6—(AP)—Just as everyone suspected, St. Louis county, the suburban area where thousand of persons who work in St. Louis live, has scored a huge gain in population during the past ten years.

The first report on the 1950 census in the county, still incomplete, shows 330,027 county residents have been counted. That's 55,797 more than the total ten years ago.

It's a different story for the city of St. Louis. The census here still hasn't been completed and 756,814 residents have been counted. The 1940 population of the city was 816,048.

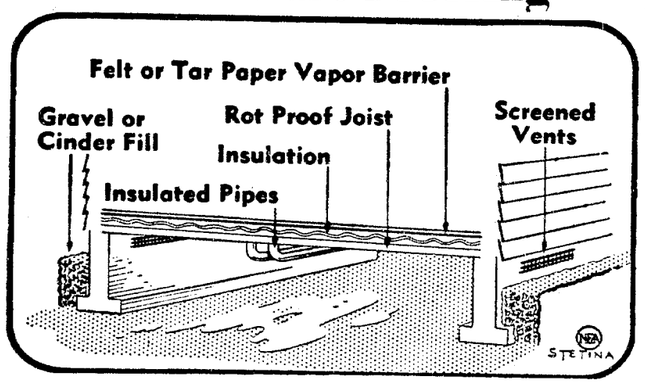
Basementless Home Needs Moisture-Proofing



Six points to remember when building a basmentless house.

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Nowadays many homes are being built without basements or over a 3 to 4 foot excavation. Moisture-control in this type of construction is an important factor in the life of your home and the health of your family.

Good ground drainage is very essential. The surrounding ground level must slope away from the house to provide the required drainage and should be at least one foot below the finished floor level, except in concrete slab construction.

A line of drain tile placed around the outside edge of the exterior foundation and connected to the proper drains will minimize the possibility of ground moisture seeping under the house.

In homes lacking a cellar but having a concrete footing, a coat or two of refined creosote, tar or other waterproofing compound on the foundation walls will help to stop this seepage. Also if there is a concrete sub-floor, it may be coated wit hthe same waterproofing compound.

However, where no concrete floor exists, all organic matter such as sod, roots, etc., should first be removed and the ground leveled off. Any holes and irregularities in the subgrade should be filled in and thoroughly tamped. A coarse granular fill should be placed over the entire area.

This granular fill may be made of either coarse cinders, gravel or crushed stone, ranging in size from ½ to 1 inch. The fill material should be of uniform size, without fine particles, so as to insure a maximum volume of air space in the fill and improve its insulating effects.

Good air circulation beneath a raised basmentless home is of prime importance. Screened vents or louvres should be located in each of the foundation sidewalls above the grade level to allow the air to flow freely.

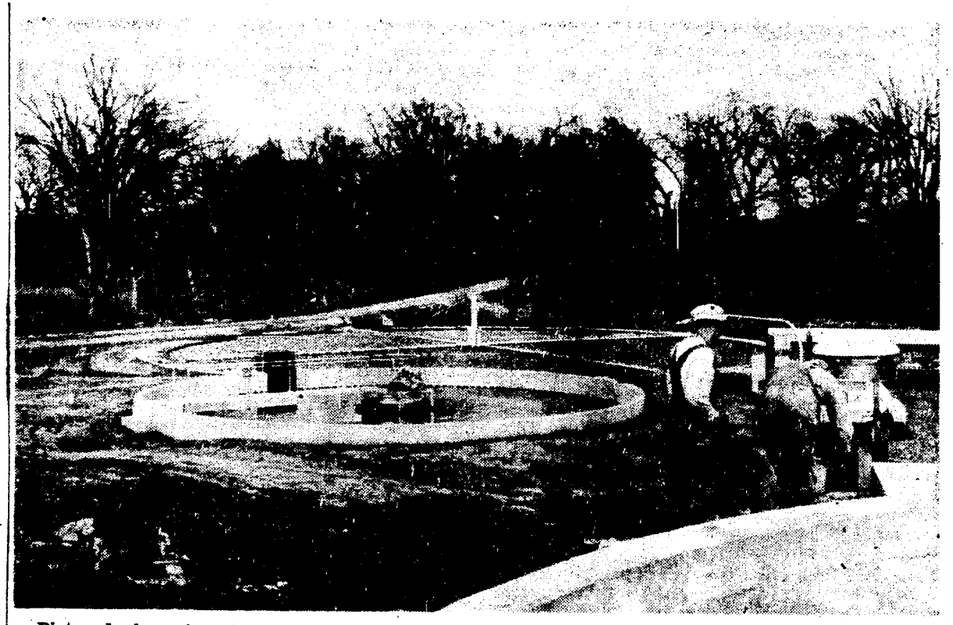
A small exhaust fan located in one of the vent openings will move a larger quantity of air. The fan need only be run 15 or 20 minutes twice a day.

For best results, the screened vents or louvres should be left open the year around. In cold weather this results in colder floors, so greatest comfort is assured if the floors are insulated.

Before insulating the underfloor a vapor barrier of felt or tar paper should be placed between the floor and insulation. When insulation batts are used, place the unpapered face against the vapor barrier and the papered face down. The paper laps are turned down against and secured to the sides of joists.

Aluminum foil or sheet steel reflective insulation may be easier to handle in the cramped area beneath the floor and will give just as effective results as the massive types. All pipes should be insulated by wrapping them in asbestos pipe covering.

To preserve the life of your home, the elimination of rot, decay and the termite hazard to all joists, sills and sub-flooring must be accomplished. The simplest way is paint or spray these members with one of the many good wood preservatives that are on the market.



Pictured above is only a small portion of the South Sewage Treatment Plant, located at Twenty-Eighth street and New York avenue. It would be well worth every Sedalian's time, just to make a tour through the plant. A distinct feature of the design of the plant is cross pipe connections, in which, flow of sewage can be diverted directly to the secondary clarifier, which is shown above. The secondary clarifier serves the purpose of a primary clarifier in case the primary clarifier is out of service for maintenance purposes. Just a portion of the primary clarifier is shown in the photo. In the background a rock bedded filter, where the water is purified before it runs into a creek. To the extreme right, not shown in this photo is an office building and another building, housing equipment to digest the sewage. The designing and supervision of the construction of the treatment plants and sewer improvements in Sedalia is being done by Burns and McDonnell Engineering company of Kansas City. (Padgett Photo)

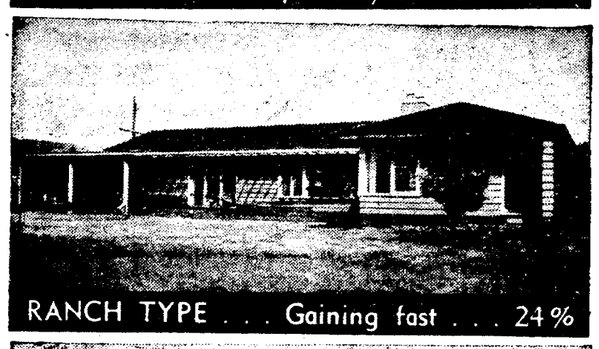
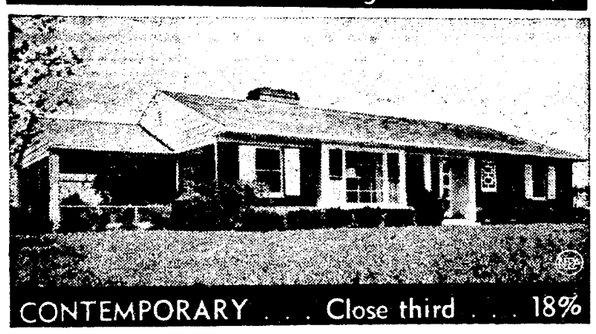
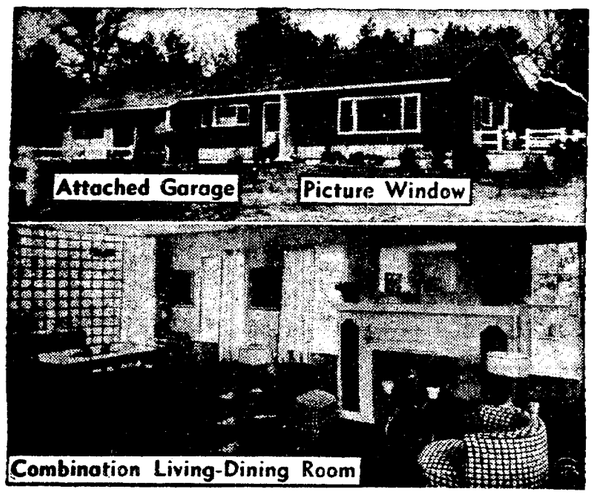
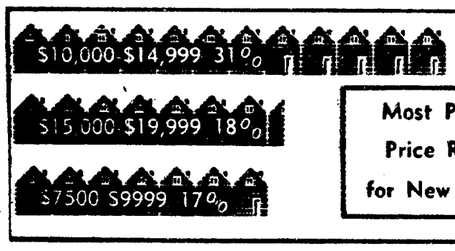
America's Homebuilders and What They're Building







HOME FEATURES GAINING IN FAVOR—Sixty-nine per cent of new homes have picture windows; about half have an attached garage. Nearly one-third of the new homes have a combination living room and dining room. All these features are gaining in favor, according to a recent survey among homebuilders by Better Homes & Gardens.



Here are the preferred price ranges for new homes, according to a nationwide survey by Better Homes & Gardens. Only 14 per cent of new homes cost under $7500, and 20 per cent cost over $20,000.

Cape Cod is still America's preferred architectural style, but moving up fast in popularity are the "ranch-type" house and contemporary designs. Cape Cod is strongest in New England, in the East and West North Central regions. Ranch and contemporary styles are very strong in the West and Southwest; but even in New England, one-fifth of new homes are ranch or contemporary.

Cleanup, Paintup, Fixup, Week In Sedalia

The 20 unit motel to be called the Sedalia Motel, located just outside the city limits on the south side of west Highway 50, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, is scheduled to be finished June 15. It will be a fire proof all modern motel, with a central office and living quarters in the center of the motel. It will have a gravel semi-circle drive-way. Patterson Brothers are the contractor. A bath is in each of the units.

Hotel Court

Construction work started about two weeks ago on a 10-unit hotel court at State Fair Boulevard and Broadway. Mr. and Mrs. Loyd A. Boots are the owners, and Mr. Boots, a contractor himself, is supervising the general construction work. He hopes to have the courts completed by fair week. In addition to the units, he will build living quarters for his family there. The construction will be of masonry with a concrete parkway. Mr. Boots said he proposed to add more units later on. The hotel will be known as Boots Hotel Court, and will have double and single rooms with bath, and hot water and radiant heat.

Sewerage Plants

The $1,075,000 bond issue sewer project for the city of Sedalia, which was started May 3, 1949, is anticipated to be completed this summer. One of three disposal plants to be built is completed. The south sewage treatment plant, located at Twenty-eighth street and New York avenue, has been in operation since the first part of April, this year. The completed plant is designed not only to take care of the existing needs, but to take care of the anticipated development and growth of Sedalia in the next 25 to 30 years.

The west disposal plant, to be completed about July 1, and the north disposal plant, expected to be completed June 15, will be similar to the south disposal plant. When the plants and pump stations are completed, hundreds of Sedalia residents will be able to connect laterals on to the main line. The four pump stations are slated to be completed by June 1. A total of 40,800 lineal feet of vitrified clay pipe, and another 5,300 lineal feet of cast iron pipe has been laid.

More than 90 per cent of the sewer work is completed. Some of the work remaining to be done is construction of the remaining manholes, installation of the remaining three pumps, replacement of streets to original condition and clean up of properties affected by construction. Nearly all of the 141 manholes to be provided are completed.

New Swimming Pools

Two modern city swimming pools in Sedalia, one at Liberty Park and the other at Hubbard Park, were completed last fall, and will be opened for swimming on Saturday, May 27.

A new up-to-date municipal airport is planned to be constructed in the near future. It will be located just east of the Missouri Pacific underpass on the north side of east Highway 50.

City Hall Remodeled

The exterior of the city hall building was completed last year, as were other large downtown brick buildings, which were first sand-blasted, then pointed up and painted.

Several months ago, new whiteway lights were erected on Broadway, thus eliminating traffic hazards at night. For awhile there was bitter comment, both pro and con, regarding the necessity of having to chop down a number of trees in the parkways, so that wires could be strung up for the lights, and poles erected.

Since the unforgotten ice-storm on December 21, 1949, which caused damage to hundreds of trees in Sedalia, trees have been trimmed by property owners. Seven-hundred trees were trimmed in the three city owned parks.

Country Club Improvement

Improvements are in the making at the Sedalia Country club. A recent improvement there is a complete new watering system to all tees and greens on the golf course, with pipes sufficiently large to enable the greens keeper to water all greens at one time. Formerly there was no water at the tees, and now water can be piped to each tee. The size of the tees has been doubled and in some instances tripled.

Several business establishments, clothing stores½ restaurants, etc., have been re-modeled and redecorated in Sedalia, and in the past two years a number of new buildings have been constructed in the downtown area.

Several months ago, a city wide survey of the condition of Sedalia's sidewalks was made, and the survey is still in progress. During the past 20 to 30 years, many of the sidewalks have gotten into a deplorable condition, and are in need of repairs.

Want Sedalia Known For Its Magnolia Trees

Plans are being made for cleaning up and planting more shrubbery on the boulevards on Third street, Sixteenth street and State Fair boulevard by the Sedalia Garden Club Council and helping with the work will be volunteers from each Boy Scout troop in Sedalia.

The program is in charge of Civics committee of the Garden Club Council composed of Mrs. William B. Rich, Mrs. Fred Shaffer, Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Charles Arnest, Mrs. E. A. Edwards, Mrs. Leslie Hale, Mrs. James Ryan, Mrs. W. J. Dougherty, Mrs. H. C. Johnson and Mrs. T. E. Gasperson.

Assisting also will be the Twelve Mile Road District.

The boulevard planting was started a number of years ago as a Garden Club Council project and with the help of the Twelve Mile Roard District and the park board the ground was cleared and graded ready for planting. Shurbbery of various kinds were planted and the Garden Club Council would appreciate any donations of shrubs such as spirea, forsythia or anything that would mass well in such a planting.

More Magnolia Trees

Among other things to be planted will be three Magnolia trees. It is the desire of the organization to have the boulevards which form a horseshoe from Barrett avenue and Third street, down State Fair boulevard to Sixteenth and east to Barrett avenue to be planted with magnolias. Already three blocks on West Third street have been planted and a block on Sixteenth street. Although magnolia trees are rather expensive the Garden Clubs would like to have Sedalia known as the magnolia city like Springfield is known as the dogwood city and would appreciate the contribution from any public minded citizen of a tree or of a fund from groups for buying trees. The Garden Club Council has already spent a thousand dollars in the beautifying the boulevards with magnolias and other shrubbery.

Nothing Brings More Joy Than Having Flower Gardens

Nothing—no nothing—can give more enjoyment than growing flowers—even with the backaches, the weeds, and the dirt under your fingernails that just won't come out.

There is something thrilling about planting little tiny seeds and watching them grow, the first two tiny leaves that appear above the ground and then the other leaves as they come—finally the beautiful blossoms. Flowers to take to the sick, to give to your neighbors, to helpout for entertainments, or for your own dinner party arrangement, baskets for church, or just growing there in your yard for the people going by to admire. Out-of-town people are always impressed with a city of flowers and everybody should sow a few seeds around their home just to help make a more attractive town. If you don't have the green thumb that can grow anything you stick in the ground try some of the old standbys, cosmos, snapdragon, zinnias, and the most delightful little flower of all, petunias. For summer bloom there is nothing so abundant nor so beautiful.

Doesn't Know What She Planted

One woman is anxious to see what will really come up in her garden. She made a nice little dent in the soft dirt in the back of one of her flower beds where she wanted to plant delphiniums and planted the seed. She decided to not cover them up until she had planted a row of something else in front of them—then her seed planting was disturbed a few minutes and when she went back she forgot she had not made a second row for the other seed then suddenly she came to life again and realized what she had done—she had planted the other seed right on top of her delphiniums. In fact she planted what she had left from three different packages of seed and she had so many seed packages she doesn't know just what she planted.

No Telling What She Planted

Then she went over to another place in the yard and took out another bunch of packages — all annuals—and having an ideal spot behind some peonies that needed tall flowers to show over the peony bushes she told her mother she was going to plant cosmos there. Again her seed planting was interrupted and when she went back to it she opened up a package of seed and sowed it the length of the row of peonies. Then she went on sewing marigolds, petunias and various other flowers.

"I thought you had planted your cosmos," said her mother.

"I have," she answered.

"Do you have two packets?" asked the mother.

"No," came the answer.

Planted Wrong Thing

The woman looked over the empty seed envelopes then with a sigh said: "I guess it is snapdragon—this packet is empty—and I wanted to plant those snapdragon some place else."

She was thankful for only one thing, that the seed she planted behind the peonies didn't happen to be moss or petunias. The snapdragon were the tall variety and they might be able to peep over the peonies.

And speaking about peonies this is the time of year that every new gardener gets worried about the big black ants all over their peony plants. They are just certain that the ants will eat all the buds—but there is really nothing to worry about. Peonies are just like picnics—they always have ants. One young girl tried and tried to get the ants off her peonies but she couldn't, then it rained and she went out to find all the ants gone. She was so delighted until she happened to look under the leaves and there were the ants—they were just smart, when the rain came they just took shelter under the peony leaves.

Try a Perennial Bed

If you want something that comes up every year without having to worry about it, try a perennial bed and just about the most satisfactory flower that grows of that kind is the platycodon or balloon plant. It comes in shades of lavender-blue and also in white. There are different varieties, of the star shaped bell-like flowers and some are even double—but they bloom profusely with nothing stopping them, drought, hot weather, bugs or disease.

Another that withstands most anything is the sweet rocket with clusters of phlox like flowers in shades of lavender and white. There is supposed to be a red one, too, and we are just itching for the new plants from seed we planted last summer to bloom to see if we really do have a red one. A nice red flower that nothing bothers is the kitten ear and for a little bright blue flower that blooms all summer and will spread quickly try the plumbago.

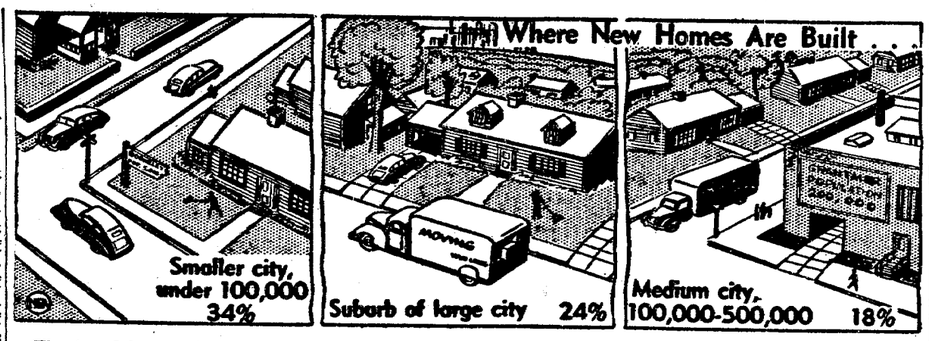
The canterberry bells are a joy in every garden in which they grow. There are two kinds of the biennial type, those are the kind you plant one year, they bloom the next and then die. There are the single bells and the cup and saucer, both are beautiful, in pinks, purples and white. The perennials are of several different varieties, all different and all very satisfactory, but do not come in the lovely shades of the biennials. Then there is also an annual type that blooms in late summer or fall.

The perennials offer such a wide variety of colorful and really easy to grow flowers that an established garden of them, with the exception of a little cultivating to get the weeds out, is a real pleasure. The seeds planted one year blooms the next but you may also buy the plants.

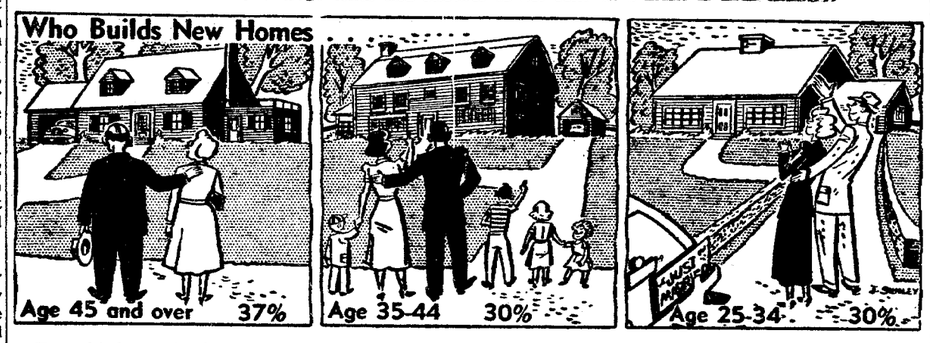
Shrubs, many of which may be planted now, are always a wonderful way to brighten the yard and during their blooming season give flowers for all occasions.

Then there are roses, most any type you want. One of the kinds that will cover your arbors and fences and give the least trouble are the climbers, with several now on the market being ever bloomers.

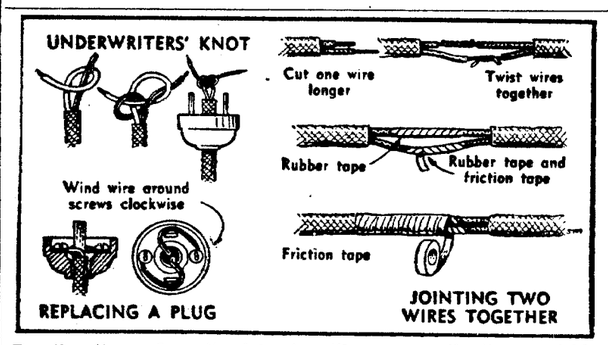
Yes, a garden of flowers is a wonderful thing, and every garden will help to make your town a more beautiful place to live.



The trend in new home building is away from the big cities toward their fringe areas and suburbs. The smaller city, under 100,000, is still the most frequent location of new homes. The Newschart above, based on findings of a survey of 2800 homebuilders by Better Homes & Gardens, gives preferred locations for new homes now being built. In addition to the categories given, 12 per cent built their homes in large cities and another 12 per cent built theirs in open country.



Two-thirds of the home building for owner-occupancy is done by families of which the head is age 35 or over. The Newschart above, based on a survey by Better Homes & Gardens, gives the percentage of new homes built by families in three leading age groups.



Practice the underwriters' knot until you can tie it as quickly and easily as you do your shoelaces.

Check Extension Cords

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Every extension cord in your home is a compromise between safety and convenience. Therefore, before they give real trouble check and repair any damaged ones you spot.

Repairing a frayed cord or replacing a broken plug is both simple and good insurance. If the insulation is broken, but not the wires, remove the cord from the wall socket and cut off the worn covering.

Wrap the wires separately with rubber tape and then wrap them together with friction tape.

If the wire is broken, cut out the damaged section and remove the covering for about 2 inches back on each of the cut ends. Scrape wire ends bright, twist together as illustrated, and wrap with rubber and friction tape. To add strength to a joint, offset the two splices slightly rather than have them side by side.

Many modern wall plugs cannot be repaired and must be replaced. Replacement male plugs are available at hardware stores as are the type already on older lamps. For loose cords in this type of plug, remove the fiber shield and tighten the screws.

To replace a broken plug or cord, push the cord through the cap from the rounded side. Take off the outside braid of the cord for an inch from the end, exposing the two separate covered strands of wire inside.

Cut the insulation from these wires and scrape them bright. Tie an underwriter's knot in the wires where the insulation ends and pull it against the plug shoulder. Run each wire clockwise around a prong and a binding screw. Be sure there is no contact between the bare wires.

On the other end of an extension cord is a female plug or tap, in which loose and broken wires are repaired in much the same manner as in a plug. But, before working on a tap be sure the main house switch is turned off.

The tap is opened by removing the screws or small bolts that hold its two parts together and the spring contacts and binding screws will be exposed for repair work.

Care must be exercised when using extension cords too.

1. Never jerk an extension cord from an outlet by pulling on the cord. Always grip the plug.
2. Never run cords where they can be stepped on.
3. Never allow a cord to become pinched or kinked.
4. Never nail cords to the floor or wall and keep them away from radiators and other metal equipment which might become electrified.

Good Flashing Helps Weatherproof House

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Every house, regardless of its type of construction, has certain vulnerable points which must be properly protected to keep water or moisture from seeping through. Generally, these trouble points lie where two surfaces join together.

Flashing has proved to be the best means of sealing these gaps. Flashing of non-rusting sheet metal, such as copper, is most economical and easiest to apply. In temporary construction a heavy tar paper is often substituted for metal.

Where two roofing surfaces meet at an angle, the resulting joint is first covered with flashing before the roofing is applied. This makes a watertight joint that prevents water from getting under the roofing.

When valley flashings are rusted out, repair of a permanent nature can be made by using the squares of copper bent on a line between two corners to the valley angle. The bent square can then be inserted under the shingles, starting at the bottom and working to the top.

Squares must be large enough to permit the upper edge to fit up under the second shingle about 2 inches. If nails are encountered, cut them off with a shingle hook or an old chisel. Be sure to replace the nail when the flashing is completed.

Around dormers or between any wall and roof surface, the flashing should extend up under the siding and out over the shingles. Strips 3 or 9 inches long should be applied in a series of overlapping sheets, starting at the bottom. If the siding is already in place, it can be bent and shoved up under the siding. The shingles are then laid on top of the flashing or roof. cement may be used to fasten the flashing on top of exisiting shingles.

For flashing around chimneys the metal is bent L-shaped with a lip at the top, bent away from the base of the L. The top lip should be solidly set in the mortar between bricks.

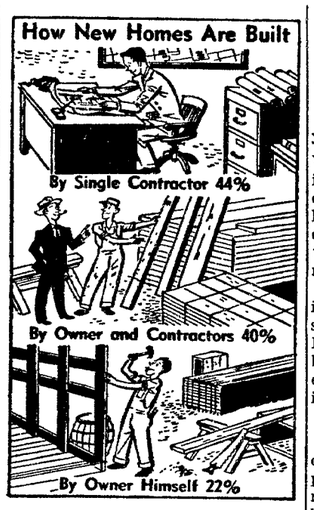
The base should be long, so that it covers enough roof to prevent water backing up either under it, if it is applied over the roofing, or under the roofing material if the flashing is under it.

In the reflashing of old chimneys the attempt is often made to fasten the metal to the outside of the chimney with mortar and roofing cement. It is extremely difficult to get a bind where some seepage will not occur.

The top lip of the flashing should be set into the chimney even if, in a repair job, it means chipping out old mortar, insertion of the lip and refilling with fresh mortar.

If flashing should come loose from a joint in the brickwork, it can be put back by chipping the mortar out of the joint and replacing it with roof cement instead of mortar.

All window and door frames, where their headings and casings fit against the wall, should have adequate flashing whether there are dry caps there or not. This flashing is merely a strip of metal bent up under the siding over the window and down over the frame. After bending to shape, nail in place with bronze hardware nails.



The Newschart above shows what percentage of new houses in the United States are built by contractors and what percentage are built by owners. Figures are from a survey of 2000 homebuilders made by the magazine Better Homes & Gardens.

Simple Plumbing Repairs

By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

Waiting for the plumber while the basement floods is funny in a cartoon, but in real life it is far from amusing.

To prevent such a situation, it is advisable that the entire household be familiar with the location of every shut-off valve. A coat of white paint applied to the valves will make them easy to recognize.

It is also a good idea to label the main shut-off valve, usually located near the meter, still more prominently, by painting a short section of the piping leading to and from it.

Before most repair work can be done on the supply system, the water must be cut off.

When a common compression faucet drips, look for the trouble in the seat washer. To replace this washer, unscrew the cap nut, turn the stem until it can be lifted out, and remove the brass retaining screw holding the washer.

If this screw is badly corroded, it should be replaced. Clean out the threads with a tap of the proper size and then seat a new washer.

To stop a faucet from leaking around the stem, try tightening the cap nut. If this doesn't work, replace the stem washer. Simply remove the handle, unscrew the cap nut and lift it off the stem.

There isn't anything more annoying than a toilet that overflows or doesn't stop running. There is no individual valve to shut off the flow of water through a toilet. To stop the flow of water, turn off the main valve or flush the tank and tie the shut-off float at a level that will shut off the water before the tank starts to refill.

If water runs steadily in the toilet bowl, the trouble generally is in the rubber ball stopper. Unscrew the ball from its guide rod and examine it. If the ball is worn or has lost its elasticity, screw on a new one.

However if the stopper ball is in good condition, clean and replace. Also clean the valve seat. Adjust the rod guide so the stopper ball and its valve seat are lined up perfectly. There should be enough clearance between the rod guide and the connector link so binding doesn't keep the ball from seating tightly.

When water in the tank constantly runs into the overflow pipe, inspect the float. If the overflow stops when the float is raised, bend the float rod slightly in the middle to lower the float a bit. If this doesn't stop the overflow, the float may be leaky and it should be replaced.

A jammed supply valve will also cause an overflow The valve is not complicated, but it is delicate. Generally the trouble is that a screw is too tight, or that one is corroded.

Women Want to Clean House, But Men Want to Get Away

When the windows get so dirty you can't see out, the walls need wiping down, painting or papering, and the dirt in every corner of the house suddenly turns into little gremlins pointing their fingers at you—that's the time of year the women get gittery and the men, if they can, get out of house.

Even a man who never saw the inside of a school house knows that spells— "H-O-U-S-E-C-L-E-A-N-I-N-G" — and it's time to get out before the little woman gets started with the soap, water and furniture polish.

Everybody Busy

Funny thing — just at the time of year you want him mist, the paper hanger is always busy and no matter how you try to engage him in advance he always forgets about you when the right time comes. Of course you may give up in disgust and do it yourself and agin you might wind up, all entangled in a roll of wall paper, with paste in your hair, eyes and mouth and a very bad disposition.

One Sedalia woman who started her house cleaning early had her paper stemed off of a room or so and then dound that the woodwork paint had bubbles and various other diseases that might attack paint. Then the paper hanger couldn't come for a few days—so with her whole house a mess her father-in-law decided to make her a visit. She would have been so happy to have him at any other time — but here he was — and here was her house in a mess and thre wasn't a thing she could do about it. When he saw the paint he offered to help her by painting the woodwork and she had to pay about as much for some overalls for him and the things to paint with as she would have to have had had it painted. But he finished the woodwork and went home, Eventually the paper hanger got back to her and now when most people are just starting, her house cleaning is all through.

Got New Stretcher

One couple is all set now for stretching their curtains. Living in a house with very high ceiling they tried to wash their curtains last year only to find that the curtains were way too long for the stretchers—so they went down this year and bought the longest curtain stretchers they could find.

Funny thing how many things happen just when you are in the midst of housecleaning. Everybody wants to invite you out somewhere or to come and see you. Just about the time you get in the middle of cleaning the attic, the garage or the basement and get yourself nicely covered with dirt and dust somebody you hardly know comes to call. You are afraid to go to the door because it might be just who it is or somebody like her and you're afraid not to go for fear it will be something important — so to the door you go looking like a tramp. You invite them in, a bit embarrassed at the situation you are in and afraid to it down on your good furniture because you have just been sitting on a dusty box or trunk, and you spend one of the most uncomfortable half hours of your life.

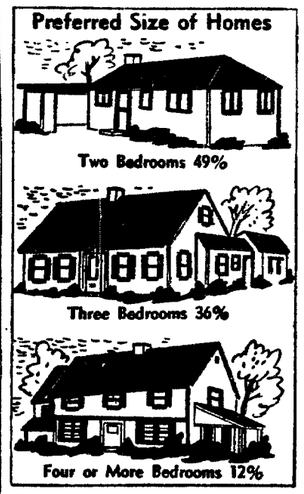
Such An Accumulation

And cleaning out such places, along with closets and drawers you wonder how your family ever accumulated such a large array of junk and you begin to throw things away. A piece of old wire, an old torn map of the Lake of the Ozarks, some empty boxes, an old light bulb and some old magazines, along with dozens and dozens of other things. You pile them in the garage and hail the first wagon that goes by hauling trash. At 5:00 o'clock hubby comes home and starts to tinkering in his workshop — and the next thing he is looking for is that piece of wire; at 6:00 o'clock in comes son looking for the map of the Lake of the Ozarks—he and his gang want to go down there for a few days and want to map out the trip; at 7:00 o'clock sister wants to send off a gift and can't find a box to put it in; at 8::00 o'clock Grandma wants to do a little darning and tries to find the old light bulb to darn on; and at 9:00 o'clock you remember that the article on home decorating you wanted so much that gave those helpful little hints was in one of the thrown away magazines.

Great Time of Year

Its a great time of year — this spring housecleaning time — this rubbing, scrubbing and tubbing— there is a wonderful feeling as you open wide the windows and smell the clean smell of soap and water as you wash the woodwork, mingle with the warm air of the spring, as you see the freshness of the brightly papered walls, the sparkle of the window panes, the crispness of the curtains, and the shine on the polished floors and woodwork.

Sure, your back aches, your muscles are sore, your fingernails are soft and broken, your hands look unsightly, you haven't had a really decent meal for yourself and faimly for a week or more, and you're so tired ouy can't hardly move—but when that last little housecleaning touch is done—it's a grand and glorious feeling.



Approximately one-half of the new homes built in the United States have two bedrooms, according to a recent survey by Better Homes & Gardens. The Newschart above gives percentages of new homes built with two, three and four or more bedrooms.

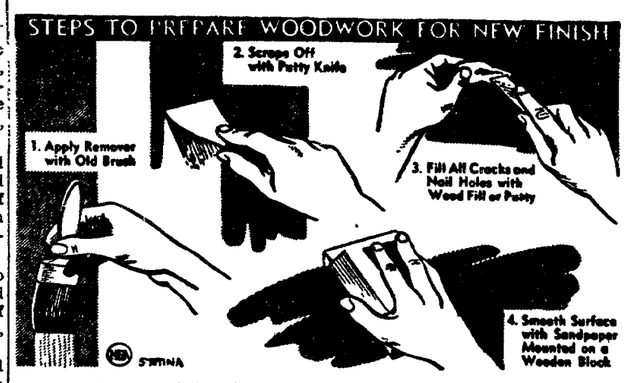
How to Refinish Woodwork



By Bob Scharff
Written for NEA Service

If there is a room or two in your home that has battered, dingy woodwork, why not do something about it? You can freshen up an entire room, even restyle it, by giving its woodwork a new finish.

No matter what finish is now on the woodwork, it must first be cleaned thoroughly. Old varnished surfaces generally require the use of varnish remover to clean.

Apply with an old brush, let it soak a few minutes, then scrape off the sludge with a putty knife. After the last traces have been removed, wipe the surface with a cloth saturated with denatured alcohol.

Old enameled or painted surfaces should be sanded with No. 0 sandpaper, brushed clean, then washed with a water solution of sal soda. Varnish remover may also be used to take off the paint.

When the old finish is removed, fill all cracks, nail holes and other blemishes with putty if woodwork is to be painted or wood filler for natural or stained and varnished finishes. Then smooth with No. 0 sandpaper mounted on a wood block. Dust surface just before applying any finish.

When a stained tone is desired, brush on one coat of oil stain; allow it to soak, then wipe with a cloth to bring out the grain. Early wiping gives a lighter color; later, a darker one. Follow with a coat of thinned shellac. When dry, sand lightly and apply another coat of shellac or varnish. Waxing finishes the job.

For a bleached finish, use oxalic acid crystals or any bleach manufactured for the purpose. Follow this by sponging with clear water to remove the residue of the bleaching agent. When dry, apply a coat of varnish and one of wax.

For beauty and long life, painted woodwork should be a three or four coat job. One or two coats of undercoat or primer, then two coats of desired paint. Sand lightly with No. 0 sandpaper after each undercoat has dried.

Use a 1½-inch brush on narrow strips, such as window bars or other molded surfaces. For wider surfaces, use a 3-inch brush for faster and more even work.

Load your brush by dipping two or three times about an inch deep, wiping out on a wire stretched across the top of the bucket. Apply the paint or varnish freely in parallel strokes. Then wipe out the brush on the pot wire and cross-brush the surface. This second brushing insures even distribution of paint.

The best temperature for any kind of woodworking decorating is about 70 degrees.

FIX-IT FORUM

A—There are openings in the veneer beneath the window frame which allow water to enter. Calk around the window frame carefully, using one of the well-known elastic calking compounds and the trouble should stop.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

Postal service in Sedalia and in the nation right now is in process of readjustment to comply with a directive of Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson who has ordered drastic changes to become effective July 1.

Postal patrons here have not yet felt the impact of curtailed service which will become nation-wide in order to offset the department's growing deficit.

Ample notice is being given the public of impending changes. These were substantially reported in last Tuesday's Democrat and Capital in the form of a communication from the Letter Carriers' Association to City Council.

This order means all mail deliveries will be curtailed to one trip per day except in the district which is strictly a business district and this district will receive a second trip sometime during the afternoon. All mail not distributed to the carriers by 8:30 in the morning will not be delivered in the afternoons as here-to-fore but will be delayed one full day except in the business district.

Also window service and pick up of mail from street boxes will be affected. There may be a time lag of as much as forty-two hours on deliveries. There will naturally follow a slow down on mail addressed to out of town points. It will probably mean loss of jobs for 10,000 postal workers.

All of this, and much more, in reduced service has come about because of the proposed $25,-000,000 cut made by the House Appropriations committee in postal appropriations for the coming fiscal year.

Already Congressmen are beginning to hear from the folks back home, from those who are far-sighted enough to realize the significance of the drastic economy moves in a department which has long been known as a public service institution, one not operating to "make money" from the public.

There has been inference the proposed drastic cuts in postal service is a pressure tactic of the department to restore its budget requirements.

But as Postmaster General Donaldson says: "To reduce cost of department operations any appreciable amount at all in the face of reduced appropriations would require taking away from the public some of the service they are now getting . . . it would be wrong to try to balance the postal budget by cutting service and by not raising the rates or the fees on classes of mail and special service transactions."

On April 20 Senator Langer (N.D.) introduced a bill to rescind the Postmaster General's order and directing that services be maintained unless otherwise provided by Congress. Senator Langer's intentions were included in Senate resolution 261 and Bill S. 3450, both of which have been referred to the Senate Post Office Committee.

In the meantime postoffices in every town in the country are spending time, effort and expense preparing for the readjustment to become fully effective July 1.

Once the curtailment is established July 1, if postal service should be ordered restored to normal after that day, there would be another period of several months of wasted time, effort and expense to readjust to normalcy.

This is serious business involving the public interest, and the public should react to it by thoughtful consideration of what curtailed postal service means to them. If they intend to protest, they must do it now, and to their Congressman.

Public opinion for economy in government is solidifying. This trend in public thinking is wholesome to observe. But there is such a thing as having a sense of values when it comes to effecting savings commensurate with the loss of service.

Economies anticipated in the proposed drastic cuts in postal service do not appear to have been gauged by a sense of values.

—o—

Some one once said that a committee is a body that keeps minutes and wastes hours.

Yet committees are the refuge of a presiding officer who knows how to delegate authority, and then relax.

Another definition: A committee is a group of important persons who, singly, think they can do nothing, but together, agree that nothing can be done.

Hendrik Van Loon has a choice definition: A committee is a group which succeeds in getting something done only when it consists of three members, one of whom happens to be sick and another absent.

—o—

Along comes William Feather, editor of Imperial Type Metal Magazine, who in the May issue opines about committees in the following manner:

"When you're young, committee meetings appear to be an efficient way of getting things done—at least we once thought so. Maybe we were flattered by being asked to serve on committees. We had an opportunity to observe older and better minds in action, and this gave us self-confidence. Sometimes we observed that the gap between our mind and theirs was not as wide as we had supposed.

"In later years we have begun to lose faith in committees, except as a means of delaying action and diluting responsibility.

"The worst feature of committees is the wasteful expenditure of energy involved in getting the members together at the appointed time. The only method we have known that was approximately efficient was to schedule the meeting for the luncheon or dinner hour. The stomach is a more effective reminder than half a dozen secretaries. But unless the host promises to pay for the meal, the attendance is usually short of a quorum.

"Assuming that a quorum is present, the mental and financial power of the personnel will likely be low. The strong wise guys will have found convenient conflicting last-minute engagements. The usual corrective is for each of those present to assume responsibility for getting one backslider to attend the next meeting. This procedure is pretty much of a bore to all concerned.

"Hence, much as we despise any form of organization that smells even faintly of dictatorship, we find ourself growing tolerant of the one man committee, particularly when we are responsible for the product of the committee."

—o—

Those responsible for creating discordant situations should first learn to play the tune before they plead for harmony, or scowl at another's cacophony.

Who first put the rift within the lute?

"It is the little rift within the lute
That by and by will make the music mute."
—Tennyson.

—o—

Sad it is when a sermon of marked erudition falls upon the ears of the uncomprehending.

—o—

Then there are those who are so opinionated—the one-track mind type, you know—that they actually deny comprehension of what they really comprehend. They read into written or spoken word ulterior motives. They are eternally suspicious of anyone who does not agree with them. Like a little dog they bark at the slightest noise or the smallest moving shadow. Day by day they must live in a personal world of mental turmoil. They should re-read "Abundant Living."

—o—

Borrowed but good:

The eager relatives gathered for the reading of the will. It just contained one sentence: "Being of sound mind, I spent every cent I had."

—o—

Well, it appears that on the Sedalia political stage, numerous party loyalists (Democrats and Republicans alike) may be divided into two classifications — the appointed, and the disappointed!

—o—

During these days of loyalty investigations, when you are under emotional stress and can think of nothing better than to call another fellow a Communist, it is a sure indication you have a limited vocabulary. Use of the word is beginning to sound sort of sissified, anyhow. Let's stick to the good old-fashioned initial words like the president uses.

—o—

Hurrah for Clean-up, Paint-up Week! While we are about it let's all take a dose of sulphur and molasses and clean out the poison in our systems now that spring weather is here—or is it?

—o—

Still good after 1900 years is Plutarch's advice: "The conduct of a wise politician is ever suited to the present posture of affairs. Often by foregoing a part he saves the whole, and by yielding in a small matter secures a greater."

To all mothers who want tulips growing on their loved one's grave.

I don't think it was human fingers that stole the tulips from a grave. It was moles. My son-in-law told me moles love tulip bulbs.

Now I made a box out of in-woven wire large enough to hold about 10 or 12 bulbs, dug a place about 8 inches deep and buried the wire box, then put about two inches of dirt in the bottom, planted the bulbs, covered them with three or four inches of dirt, then put a wire top on it, being sure there were no holes. Then cover with more dirt, level or heaped a little.

I did this and I had tulips for many years on my daughter's grave.

You see the tulips come up through the wire.

Sure hope you all will try this.

White House Advisors Split Over Aid to Small Business;

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—White House advisers sat up late trying to get a final decision on the President's small business message before he left on his western trip. A highly important issue was involved, with advisers split wide open over it.

THE ISSUE WAS: Whether to promote government loans to small business through the RFC, or to set up new private banks for loans to small business.

LINED UP AGAINST RFC LOANS WERE: Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Federal Reserve Chairman Tom McCabe.

LINED UP FOR RFC LOANS WERE: Stephen Spingarn, White House assistant; and Senator Taft, who, as ranking GOP member of the joint committee on the economic report, was consulted.

Both sides, however, agreed on what's happening to small business. It can't borrow long-term risk capital.

Small business can get plenty of short-term money from commercial banks, but not ten and twelve-year money. Furthermore it can't borrow from most insurance companies, which frown on speculative ventures and also want to deal in large amounts. In addition, the private capitalists of the old days are gone, and the investment bankers won't undertake to float stocks or bonds unless the issue runs into several millions.

To remedy this, it was proposed to put the RFC in the Commerce department and let it specialize on loans to small business. However, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Senator O'Mahoney and others felt that government should not subsidize business; also should not be in the position of having life and death loan powers over business.

Therefore a plan was worked out with able Chairman Tom McCabe of the Federal Reserve Board whereby private banks could be set up, with the backing of Federal Reserve government money, for the express purpose of lending money to small business.

It was admitted that this plan would be more complicated, but in the long run would be better than outright government loans to small business.

NOTE—There's growing sentiment both inside the government and on capitol hill to abolish the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Established during the Hoover administration to cope with the Wall Street crash, it has now pretty much outgrown its need

Few people realize how badly American foreign policy has been undermined by the McCarthy-Communist campaign. Here are a few samples of what's happening abroad.

IN CHINA, the name "McCarthy" is pronounced exactly as if it were "MacArthur," and the impression has spread that General MacArthur was waging a near-revolt against the State Department. In fact, the impression has been created in some parts of the Far East, where the public is not well informed, that the U.S.A. is near revolt

IN PRIMITIVE ALBANIA, the Communist government, after long pressure from the West, was expected to do a Tito. But it hasn't. And a partial reason has been Soviet propaganda that the State department was full of Communists—"an American Senator says so"—and that the United States would soon come over to the Communist Albanian side.

IN FRANCE, ITALY, BELGIUM and other Atlantic pact countries, the reaction has been most harmful of all. For some time these countries had experienced a wave of "neutrality," which has now grown to new heights. People in these once Nazi-occupied countries have argued that they did not want to get in the middle of another war, would much rather be neutral. That has been one reason for opposition to the North Atlantic pact.

Now, on top of this neutrality wave has come the McCarthy charges of Communists in the State department, which to poorly informed Europeans means that the United States is likely to go over to Russia leaving Western Europe out on a limb.

Therefore, it's not difficult to understand why neutrality sentiment and opposition to the North Atlantic pact has grown more than ever.

Report to Senate

Prior to his departure for Europe, Secretary of State Acheson told the Senate Foreign Relations committee behind closed doors that the United States is prepared to fight rather than retreat from Berlin. He also said the threat of a Soviet invasion of Yugoslavia had "calmed down," and reported that the British aren't getting along well in Communist China, can't even get the Chinese Communists to discuss exchanging ambassadors. Finally Acheson disclosed that Communist guerrillas in southeast Asia are getting their arms, not from Russia, but from the Philippines. They are stolen from surplus war stockpiles.

They May Yet Get Out of the Woods

Music Modes

IN the biography shelf of the Sedalia Public Library lies a book entitled "We Called It Music"—this is, actually, an enormous understatement and it is authored by one of the leading exponents of the rocking, bouncing and fast paced music called "Dixie," "Chicago Jazz" and a special Greenwich Village variety. He is Albert Edwin Condon. Of course, to the thousands of jazz lovers he's just plain, Eddie Condon, master of the banjo, the guitar and one of the biggest jazz organizers in the country.

Eddie was born five years following the turn of the century, on November 16, in Benton county, Indiana. From the time he jangled his father's nerves and was sent to the basement to learn his chords, by the light of the furnace, through its open door, Eddie has virtually lived with one purpose in life—jazz. His style of telling his adventures into the world of jazz music is with such a witty sense of humor and so full of informality, that you can not help but realize what a personable character he really is. His events, with the growing child of music, are stories about the green jazzmen who have now passed. The book is dedicated to Bix; and for your information, it would be near suicide and would take a lot of nerve to ask Eddie—"Who's Bix?" You would probably be doused with a retort that would end your questioning for hours. You see Eddie was quite impressed with Bix and Bix's musicianship.

All Were Impressed

In fact everyone that had been fortunate enough to be an audience for the man was impressed. He was unique in his style and his never ending drive and working of new ideas, not only with his cornet, but with his piano too. When Eddie first saw Bix his impression was "what can this guy do?" . . . Bix was in his usual form. He wore a peak hat with a crushed peak, a collarless shirt and a rumpled green overcoat that didn't enhance his appearance. From that moment when the first note slipped out of Bix's silver cornet, Eddie was his ardent follower. After that first band, in which they both played, Eddie pulled every string he could get his hands on to bring Bix into the same outfit he was working with. And the result of his efforts found the two working together quite often along with a variety of other personnel.

Went Out With Bing

Once, when they were both working in Chicago—with different bands however. Bix was with Whiteman and Eddie was with another unit—they were invited out to a private party to furnish some of their special styled jazz. They were accompanied by another young man — also with Whiteman—by the name of Bing Crosby. The boys "played the devil" out of their favorite jazz numbers. The party was going well and Crosby kept saying, "Lovely People." Bix, however, was having a little trouble with one of the hosts. Incidentally, the invitation was extended to the boys by a friend of Bing's. The guests were not really acquainted with them. Bix would get into an argument with a big burly man and would pop off with "Aw shut up." This went on for hours. Finally, when the boys were driving away in a chauffered car of the hosts, Eddie said, "Remember the guy you kept telling to shut up?" Bix said, "Sure, his name is Capone — Bottles Capone," said Condon. Bottles was Al's little brother, but he didn't need Al to take care of him. Crosby ended the conversation with "lovely people."

The series of hectic and entertaining adventures that compose the book end with a story about Fats Waller's Carnegie Hall concert. The event was a big one for jazz and was brought about through the efforts of Eddie, a friend by the name of Ernie Anderson, Fats and a girl that was to become Eddie's wife, Phyllis Smith.

Hectic Adventures

Now Fats was a lover of many things but the final analysis left three: his piano, his music and gin. Before the concert Fats indulged in the latter and when he was ready to drop his shot glass and stop talking to a host of his friends, who had gathered back stage, he strolled out before the crowd. He was scheduled to play ninety-one numbers. In the first group he was to merely give his interpretations of the various selections. Regardless of what he started on he would somehow invariably drag in traces of Gershwin's "Summertime."

Always "Summertime"

The original melody would take over for the intro and then the improvisation would start — then there would be "Summertime." He couldn't get away from it. He even included in his groups a few variations on a theme by Tschaikovsky. Suddenly the lazy haunting strains of "Summertime" appeared again. Gershwin was honored. In fact following the concert Oscar Levant remarked "I never realized until I heard Fats tonight how much Tschaikovsky owes to Gershwin." The definite presence of the "Summertime" theme did not degrade the true essence of the concert. Fats managed to bring something new and different to every number and although "Summertime" was popular it was not hackneyed with identical or repeated renditions. The concert was a fine success and Fats was there with his favorite phrase—"Fine, perfect, wonderful."

This 308 page book winds up with an informal discography of Eddie Condon's recordings. There are several factual chapters intergrated into the Condon writings by Thomas Sugrue. The discography is by John Swingle. The book was published in 1947. The review is rather late, but regardless, the material within the book covers is good reading and entertaining.

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

THE STORY: Falling in love had been far from Clemency Norton's plans when she became nursery governess to a luxurious home in the North African desert. But she soon lost her heart to Piers Amberley, owner of the home and brother-in-law of Syrie Amberley who had engaged Clemency for her daughter Baba. Syrie, despising Jon, her husband, and in love with Piers herself, is angered over Clemency's engagement to Piers. Jon himself comes to the nursery where Baba is ill, and tells Clemency she "ought to know" that Piers and Syrie once had been engaged; that after Syrie's marriage, Piers had invited them to live at his home so that he and Syrie could be together. Although Jon apparently had been drinking heavily Clemency is indignant at this slur on Piers and later finds Piers and Syrie talking. Their remarks lead Clemency to believe Jon had spoken the truth. After Clemency rushes out of the room, Syrie tells Piers to let explanations wait until Clemency has cooled off.

XXIX

CLEMENCY went to the night nursery glad of the dim light as she thanked Justine for watching Baba. The Frenchwoman would have lingered to chat, but it was manifestly impossible at the sleeping child's bedside. Justine murmured that the little one seemed feverish, and left almost at once.

Clemency stood by the cot, her clenched hands pressed tightly against her breast, conscious of that awful bruised feeling inside her. The minutes passed without her being aware of their passing, until the sound of someone moving in the nursery roused her.

"Hush!" Clemency warned in a quick, urgent whisper as the communicating door was pushed open.

From the lighted room behind, Syrie beckoned. For a moment Clemency was filled with a fierce resentment against that summons, then she went through into the other room.

"You look ghastly!" exclaimed Syrie. "Don't you want something to pull yourself together?"

"No, thank you." Clemency replied. "You wanted to speak to me?"

"Yes. Importantly. Sit down, please."

Clemency sat on a chair next to the table, her eyes on Syrie's face as the other remained standing.

• • •

SYRIE burst out: "I could kill Jon! Of course I felt sure that he would make mischief. He has made himself crazy with jealousy of Piers."

"Is it true," asked Clemency, "that you and Piers were engaged before—"

"Before I met Jon. Yes." Syrie nodded. "But that was long ago. And—whatever has been between us is finished and done with. I wish you would understand that." She spoke with quick urgency. "Just what did Jon tell you?" she asked.

"That Piers brought him here because he wanted you near him." Saying the thing made it worse—if that was possible. "Is that true?" she heard herself asking.

Syrie looked at her, and turned her eyes quickly away. "Jon was drunk. I suppose. You must know he drinks."

Clemency rose, her low voice suddenly strong and steady. "I don't care about that. I want to know how much of the truth he spoke."

"Listen," Syrie urged. "I came here to try to make you believe how little it all mattered. It's been over and finished with for a long time. I hated you—but I know I've got to give him up to you. He loves you—really. You're a new beginning for him."

Every carefully chosen sentence—those sentences which seemed to come so spontaneously—struck a fresh knife into her listener's heart. "My dear," she said, her great eyes suddenly filling with tears, "men are—men! I suppose I was really to blame. After all, I married Jon; but you don't know how sickening he is, how weak. And Piers— Oh! I suppose I ought to have insisted on going away; but—you know what it means to love Piers!"

"Then—it's true! He was—your lover? Oh—"

It was a cry from the heart. Syrie simply repeated obstinately, her eyes on the floor:

"I tell you, it's all over now—it was over months ago. Before you came here."

"What does that matter—if it once existed? How could you? How could you both?" Without waiting for a reply to the question Clemency went back into the night nursery and through to her own room.

• • •

TWICE during the night Clemency had gone in to Baba, hearing the child tossing and turning. Once Baba had coughed herself awake, but she grew quieter after Clemency gave her a dose of the simple soothing syrup that was always kept in the nursery cupboard.

Each time Clemency had returned to her room and flung herself down on the bed again.

Now at last she knew that the ghastly night was past and dawn was here. Yet she dreaded the day even more.

Bruised, shamed and humiliated, the one clear thought in her mind was that she must get away from here at once. To remain under this roof after what she had learned, was impossible; the very thought of seeing Piers terrified her.

That Piers, whom she had believed to be everything fine and splendid, should have done this thing was incredible and unforgivable.

Yet she knew that she loved Piers and would love him as long as he lived, even though she did not want to face him, would have given anything not to have seen him again. Once more that panicky desire to fly clutched hold of her. But where to, and how?

Sitting up and pushing the hair back from her face she looked at the diamond circlet on her finger. The symbol of a dream that was over. She pulled it off and sat with it in the palm of her hand.

She decided that she would put it in an envelope and just give it to Piers—but if only she could get away without seeing him!

If only she could get away!

RECEPTIVITY—THE FIRST LAW OF LIFE

We carry over from last week our ladder out of negativism and inferiority. Since the Kingdom belongs to you, (9) remember the two conditions for receiving and transmissing the resources of the Kingdom: receptivity and response.

These two words are not only the alternate heartbeats of the Kingdom; they are also the alternate beats of the whole of life. Everything grows and develops by those two things: receptivity and response. John sums up this thought in these words: "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become." How did he get power—power to become? First, by receptivity—"as many as received him."

A universal principle is here laid bare. Take a plant—how does it get power to become? By being proud, self-sufficient, unrelated, and unresponsive? No; by surrendering, adjusting, receiving, giving. Suppose a plant tried to get power by asserting itself, by trying to "lord it" over the other plants—result? It would lose its power over other plants and its power to become. It gains power by surrender and by response to its environment. When it is adjusted it takes in from air and soil and sun, and gains power to become. Plant sin is anything that hinders that receptivity and response.

Someone has defined life as response to environment. You and I live physically when we respond to our physical environment; we can take in food and light and air. When response is shut off, we die physically. Our spiritual environment is the Kingdom of God. When we respond to it, surrender to it, adjust ourselves to it, receive our very life from it, then we live—and live abundantly. We are in a state of receptivity, which is a state of faith, confidence, appropriation. We absorb Kingdom life as the body absorbs food; we breathe in its purifying breath as the lungs breathe in air, we take up its vitality as the skin takes in vitamins from the light of the sun.

To believe is to receive and to receive is to replenish.

O God, Thou who dost wrap me round as the atmosphere wraps my body round, let me respond to Thee as my physical body responds to its environment and lives. Let me breathe Thee now—deep breaths of Thee; let me receive Thee into every pore and fiber of my being. Help me to live by Thee—then I shall live. Amen.

Life with the Tax Gremlins:

Thank You for Nothing

EDITOR'S NOTE: "Life With the Tax Gremlins" is a 12-part thumbnail story of the nation's complicated tax structure. The characters: Uncle Sam himself, his Gremlin, State and Local Tax Gremlins, and you—the taxpayers. It's from an "American Affairs" pamphlet published by the National Industrial Conference Board of New York, an independent, non-profit fact-finding institution supported by business, labor and other groups. Some of the articles include comment by Richard A. Mullens, Washington tax expert and author of NEA's annual "Income Tax Primer," which appears each year in The Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

We have to share our cigarettes with all three Gremlins.

The federal tax is .....7 cents
The average state tax is 3 cents
Indirect tax .....1 cent

Total .....11 cents

What the big gremlin takes is $1.2 billion a year. That runs the Federal Government for 11 days.

If everybody stopped smoking cigarettes, what would happen? That would make everything worse. The government would have to increase taxes on something else to fill the Gremlins' bag. Moreover, the cigarette factories would close and then more taxes, not only to take care of the unemployed but to support the tobacco growers.

So we have to smoke for the Gremlins.

Kelly-Miller, First Big Circus To Visit Sedalia In Seven Years Coming Wednesday, May Seventeenth

Above: One of the many beautiful horse-drawn animal dens, that will bring the second largest wild animal circus in America to Sedalia for an afternoon and night performance on Wednesday, May 17th at the West U. S. 50 grounds.

REAL OLD FASHIONED CIRCUS COMING

With many horse-drawn cages, and floats, the Al G. Kelly & Miller Bros. Circus will give a version of the real "old time circus," that in recent years have been absent when circuses have visited the community.

The Kelly-Miller organization, prides in its long string of pure-bred Percheron and Clydesdale draft horses, that are not only a show by themselves, but are of great assistance in moving the large all-steel wagons during the unloading and loading of this big circus. So, in reality "the old-timer" can't truthfully say "It isn't like the circus I saw when I was a boy."

On Wednesday, May 17, which marks the arrival of the first big circus to our community in seven years, the draft horses will play no small part in making one of America's most cherished holidays "Circus Day" a complete success.

ROTO BALING

seals out the rain
The Roto-Baler rolls the windrow into a bale with leaves wrapped inside, protected from the rain.
To feed it simply unroll the bale . . . and you have the hay just as it was in the field — soft, leafy, with the color and protein still there.
Rolled bales shed rain like a thatched roof. They store compactly, will not buckle, may be unrolled, or fed whole in the open feed rack.

Mirrors Aid Polio Patients

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Boredom is one of the major hindrances to recovery of polio patients in iron lungs The victim lies prone in a respirator, a single narrow mirror affording the only view of the outside world.

Thanks to William Smith, patients in the Rancho Los Amigos polio ward have a renewed interest in life Smith, at the request of his wife, herself a polio patient, installed huge rectangular mirrors over the heads of every patient in the ward. They are able to watch nurses and others with ease.

Jerusalem Tas Youth Villiage

JERUSALEM—(AP)—A new youth Villiage is operating in the urbanarea of Jerusalem for immigrant children from all parts of the earth. The villiage consists of 250 acres and 20 buildings.

Its population already numbers 150 children between the ages of 10 and 17. They came from India, Turkey, North Africa, Poland, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and France through the "Youth Aliyah" organization Another 100 children are expected shortly

Former Paper Boy Writes Paul R. Mines

Tells Him of Conditions He Finds on Saipan

An interesting letter from Edward H. Bryant, former Democrat carrier boy, now in the navy and stationed at Saipan, was received by Paul Mines, circulation manager.

The letter, in part, follows:

"I have been on the move ever since I left home Christmas. I got back to Port Hueneme the third of January and left there the 23 of January, and went to T. I. in San Francisco. Stayed there until the 2nd of February, when I went aboard the U.S.S. Virgo A.K.A. 20 to come to Saipan. We left the States the 4th of February, but the 6th we had taken on 4,100 pounds of high explosives, and talk about a bunch of scared boys, we really were.

"We landed in Guam on the 23rd of February and while I was there I got to see Bill DeHaven. I saw him twice before I left. I left Guam the first of March and got to Saipan on the 2nd.

"While I was at T. I. I saw Jim Dittmer and Karl Brosing, two boys I graduated from high school with.

Had An Accident

"Right after I got out here I had an accident. There were four of us going out to dump some junk over the cliff into the ocean. At the time of the accident we were turning an all-metal table over to get it to the end of the truck so we could roll it over the side. The table weighed about five or six hundred pounds and I had just about two inches to stand on the truck when the table was turned over and it knocked me off backwards onto the ground. Then I rolled over the cliff and fell about 15 feet to a ledge and then rolled down to another ledge about five feet below and then rolled into the water.

Carter, who was with me, had gotten down to the first ledge and was throwing a rope to me. I tied the rope around my waist and the boys tried to pull me out, but while they were tying the rope to the truck, I was swinging in a 15-foot arch by the waves. They took me back to the hut and I put on some dry clothes and then they took me to the hospital for a check-up, but all they could find wrong was that I had a cut on my right leg, and they took a stitch in it. Just the day before we had seen two or three sharks in the water and they were about eight or ten feet long, so you can see what I was thinking about all the time I was in the water."
